Hays won't quit; sex scandle may touch 6 others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators have found enough evidence to consider asking Rep. Wayne Hays to testify before a grand jury about allegations that he put a woman on his congressional committee staff to be his mistress, a source close to the probe said Saturday.

Requiring an employe of Congress to provide sex as part of her job could be a violation of federal laws against misusing public funds.

"There is starting to be hard stuff here," the source said of efforts to evaluate a claim by Elizabeth Ray, 33, that Hays put her on his Administration Committee payroll to provide him with sex. Hays has admitted a "personal relationship" with Miss Ray but denied she received her $14,000-a-year salary just to be his mistress.

Meanwhile, Miss Ray's attorney said federal prosecutors have agreed to grant her immunity from prosecution "if she testifies truthfully" before the grand jury. The attorney, Albert Ahern, said Miss Ray is in seclusion and has not yet appeared before the panel.

The Justice Department has not decided yet whether to call Hays before the grand jury, the source said. But he added that generally "you would invite the guy, and he could give us his side if he wanted to." The source said Hays would be called only if he agreed to testify.

Hays' attorney, Judah Best, said the government has not asked Hays to testify and he declined to speculate what Hays would do if invited.

The Justice Department also is looking into similar allegations involving other congressional offices, the source said. "These allegations have been made, and they all will be pursued. What's hard now just involves Hays."

The source said the grand jury is also concerned with allegations there were "some other people on the (Hays) payroll that were doing less than a full day's work — not necessarily sexual favors."

One lawyer connected with the case said: "They're sticking close to the fraud issue." But he conceded: "It's hard to play down the sex angle."

Miss Ray has told FBI agents that she knows of six other women whose federal jobs involved providing sex to congressmen or their constituents, informed sources say. A friend of Miss Ray says: "She's right.... The girl's telling the truth."

The sources said the six women are present and former employes of the government, most of them on House staffs.

SeMo cyclists, motorist hurt

Four persons suffered minor injuries in three area traffic accidents Saturday, the highway patrol reported.

Gary Elvin Aslin, 21, of Bloomfield suffered minor injuries at 1 a.m. Saturday on Route J, about three miles west of town, when the westbound car he was driving ran off the road at a high rate of speed and struck a dirt embankment.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Two persons received minor injuries in a motorcycle accident at 4:15 p.m. Saturday on Route 49, 16 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

The accident occurred when a westbound motorcycle driven by Harold Wayne Braden, 45, of Poplar Bluff struck some loose gravel on a curve, went out of control, ran off the road and overturned.

Braden and his wife, Carol Braden, 38, a passenger on the cycle, both received minor injuries and were taken to Doctors Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

One person received minor injuries in another motorcycle accident, at 7 p.m. Saturday on an unmarked county road one-fourth mile north of Kelso.

The accident occurred when an eastbound motorcycle driven by Hugh David Ziegler, 30, of Illmo hit some loose gravel and overturned.

A passenger on the cycle, Mary Lou McGowan, 21, of Jackson, received minor injuries and was taken to Southeast Hospital at Cape Girardeau.

Sikeston accidents injure 2

Two persons were injured in separate accidents in Sikeston Friday afternoon.

Mike Freed, 15, 326 Edmondson St., was thrown from his bicycle when the car he was riding beside was struck by another car in the parking lot of the Kingsway Plaza Mall.

A car traveling north in the parking lot, driven by Earl Henderson, 216 Sherri Drive, struck a car driven by Kevin J. Butler, 301 Edmundson St., which was traveling west. Witnesses told police the injured boy was being pulled by the Butler vehicle.

Freed was admitted to Missouri Delta Community Hospital and treated for a broken wrist and bruised knee.

Jimmy D. Brown, Benton Route One, was treated for bruises and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital following the collision of his car with a semi truck at the intersection of North and Northwest streets. Brown's car was traveling west on North Street when it collided with the truck, driven by Franky James Holmes of McComb, Miss., which was northbound on Northwest.

No charges were filed.

Thacker home burglarized

POINT PLEASANT — The Montese Thacker home was burglarized sometime Saturday and a few items taken, the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department reported.

A small portable television set and an electric heater were taken.

The house was left unlocked and the burglars apparently walked right in, the sheriff's department said.

No publication Monday

The Daily Standard will not publish Monday in observance of the Memorial Day holiday.

Publication will resume as usual on Tuesday. City, county and state government offices will be closed Monday in observance of the holiday, also opening for business as usual on Tuesday.

Lawnmower reported stolen

Bobby Long, 224 Petroleum St., reported that a lawnmower valued at $75 was stolen from his yeard. The theft occurred sometime between Wednesday morning and Saturday.

Hearnes tax probe ends

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has announced that the Internal Revenue Service has ended its civil investigation of his tax affairs for four years.

"Just say that I'm real pleased," Hearnes said, noting that not only did the IRS find that he owed no additional income taxes for the years 1968, 1969 and 1970, but it was discovered that he had overpaid his 1971 taxes by $51. He said he has been notified he will receive a refund.

Hearnes said, however, that some differences of opinion remain on his 1972 tax returns involving political contributions he made to other candidates and organizations.

"But they are minor amounts in question," he added.

The IRS announced last month that a three-year-long criminal investigation into the former governor's financial affairs had been terminated.

Hearnes, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Stuart Symington, had called the lengthy probe politically motivated.

Olson is interim M.U. president

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — University of Missouri curators have named Chancellor James C. Olson of the Kansas City campus to take charge of the four-campus system pending appointment of a new president.

Olson, 59, was appointed interim president at a meeting Friday of the curators in Columbia. The board said it will conduct a search for a permanent president.

The vacancy was created by the resignation last week of C. Brice Ratchford who met with controversy over his plan to further university funding through a public relations program involving the legislature. He had been president five years.

John Hall Dalton, president of the board of curators, emphasized that Olson's interim appointment does not exclude him from consideration for the presidency.

The board stressed "that Dr. Olson is not to act as a caretaker president. The university cannot afford to stand still but must move forward to meet its many challenges and to continue to improve the quality of life in this state."

Olson, chancellor at Kansas City since 1968, came to Missouri from the University of Nebrasks where he was vice chancellor for graduate studies and research.

He is a native of Bradgate, Iowa, received his B.A. degree from Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa, and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Nebraska.

Dalton said Olson would receive the same salary as Ratchford, $47,500 a year.

In earlier business Friday, the curators adopted a $206.3 million university operating budget for fiscal 1976-77, increasing student fees from $270 to $300 per semester for Missouri residents and from $810 to $900 per semester for out-of-state residents.

Drinkwater project placed in Public Works Bill

CHARLESTON— Tenth District Rep. Bill D. Burlison, D-Cape Girardeau, who serves on the House Appropriations Committee, announced Friday afternoon at a news conference in the circuit court room of the Mississippi County Courthouse that his recommendations for the Drinkwater Sewer Project have been included in the Public Works Appropriations Bill for fiscal year 1977.

Burlison explained that the President, in his fiscal year 1977 budget request, did not include funds to continue the statutory small projects program of the Corps of Engineers, through which Congress has authorized and appropriated funs in prior years.

The Big Lake Basin Drinkwater Sewer Project was one of the existing programs under section 205 of the Flood Control Act of 1948 for small lprojects which would be discontinued since all funds for fiscal year 1976 have been exhausted and "zero" funds were requested for the forthcoming fiscal year.

In 1973, local residents contacted the Corps of Engineers for possible assistance in construction of a pumping station at Drinkwater Sewer north of Charleston as a means of pumping impounded runoff and seepage over the Mississippi Riever levee in times of high water.

According to Burlison, a study was conducted and the plan of improvement was found to be economically feasible and within the federal costs limitations of section 205 authority.

"Under this act," the congressman remarked, "projects are funded through the general category of small programs and priority order."

Following the approval of preauthorization studies in early 1976, it was determined that construction was dependent on subsequent project authorization by the chief engineer of the Corps of Engineers and the availability of funds.

"Since no funds were forthcoming in the 1977 Presidential budget request, I appeared before the public works subcommittee of the Houe Appropriations Committee March 29 to urge approval o the Corps of Engineers full capability for planning, specifications and initiation of construction in the amount of $450,000, to be added above the President's budget request.

"I am delighted to say that his amount was in the measure approved this week by my full committee on appropriations," Burlison said.

Federal estimated cost of the project is $1.48 million, and the project costs-benefits ratio is 1.7 to 1.

It will take one and a half to two years to complete, and it is estimated that $492,300 in average annual flood damages will be prevented.

Plans of improvement consist of the construction of a 150-cubic foot per second pumping station with an inlet ditch and energy dissipator structure (baffled outlet), to be located near the existing gravity outlet of Drinkwater Sewer.

Burlison noted that Big Lake Basin is a 17,000-acre, crescent-shape water shed bordering the Mississippi River immediately north of Charleston and about four and a half miles north of Cairo, Ill.

Existing flood control facilities in an bordering the Big Lake Basin include 22.9 miles of recently improved drainage ditches, the Mississippi River levee and Drinkwater Sewer which is a gated culvert through the levee.

Burlison concluded by saying that the Public Works Appropriation Bill must yet survive action on the House floor, and the Senate Appropriations Committee, Senate floor action, Senate-House Conference Committee and be signed into law by the President.

In this regard, Burlison pointed out that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., serves on the Senate Appropriations Committee and has always been exceedingly successful and cooperative in getting approved in the Senate projects placed in the House bill. "We have always been able to count on Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) as well," he added.

Hiring of chief's stepson believed violation of law

DEXTER — Dennis Shea, 21, a stepson of Police Chief Jim Teeters, has been hired as a dispatcher with the police department, apparently in violation of city ordinances.

Section No. 23.090 of the City Code says, "Two members of the immediate family shall not be employed under the same supervisor; neither shall two members of an immediate family be employed at the same time, regardless of administrative department, if such employment will result in an employe supervising a member of his immediate family."

The law continues, "Immediate family is defined as wife, husband, mother, father, brother, sister, son, daughter, mother in law, father in law, son in law, daughter in law, grandparents, grandchildren, stepmother, stepfather, brother in law, sister in law, uncle and aunt."

Section No. 12.010 spells out penalties for failing to comply with the law: "Whenever in this Code or any other ordinance of the city ... an act is prohibited or is declared to be unlawful .. and no specific penalty is provided for the violation thereof, upon conviction of a violation of any such provision of the code ... the violator shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment in the city or county jail not exceeding 90 days or by both fine and imprisonment."

In the eyes of the law, each day is a separate violation.

The city code was prepared by the Missouri Municipal League and was adopted by the city on April 9, 1974.

Shea is formerly of New Hampshire and moved to Dexter about a year ago. He said he had no previous police experience or radio experience, and that when he was hired he was working as a cook at the Hickory Log Restaurant in Dexter.

He said he heard there was an opening and applied for the job.

"I wanted to get into something different," he said, noting that he has also worked as a bartender and as a jazz musician.

He has been working at the police job for about two weeks.

Teeters was asked Friday if he was aware that the hiring of Shea was in apparent violation of the law.

He answered that he was not aware of that law, but before making the decision he talked the matter over with city officials and that they had given him approval.

He was very calm as he discussed the situation.

When Mayor Willis Conner was asked if he was aware that the newly hired dispatcher was the stepson of Chief Teeters, Conner initially denied knowing about Shea.

The law was pointed out to him and Conner started a verbal attack upon the reporter and this newspaper.

"What are you trying to do, run our town?" he asked. "You guys are trying to make the news," he said. "We make the news, you just report it. I'll tell you what, I've been pretty good to you guys. Keep this up and we won't tell you nothing."

Asked to vertify Teeters' statement, Conner replied, "I'm not going to verify anything. You're trying to put out a bunch of baloney is what you're trying to do."

When City Clerk Mary Margaret Poyner was asked to find the law, she said that she had never heard of it.

Ceremonies scheduled Memorial Day

Ceremonies will be held in several SeMo communities Monday in observance of the Memorial Day holiday.

Wreaths will be placed at a war veteran's monument by the American Legion at the Mississippi County Courthouse at East Prairie and the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization will display flags at all Mississippi County cemeteries.

At Cavalry Cemetery in Mississippi County, the eighth annual Memorial Day Mass will be held at 5 p.m. Monday, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

Preceding the Mass, a procession and blessing of the graves will be held, led by an Honor Guard from Boy Scout Troop 32.

If it rains, the mass will be celebrated in St. Henry's Church.

The Bernie Ministerial Alliance and the American Legion sponsored Memorial Day Services at 9 a.m. today at the Bernie Cemetery to honor the dead veterans of past wars.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton will be the featured speaker at Memorial Day services held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Illmo-Scott City High School field, sponsored by the Kelso Township Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Services will be followed by a barbecue.

Trash pickup halted Monday

No trash pickups will be made Monday due to the Memorial Day holiday, City Manager Charles Church has announced.

Regular pickups will resume Tuesday, he said.

Olson is interim M.U. president

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — University of Missouri curators have named Chancellor James C. Olson of the Kansas City campus to take charge of the four- campus system pending appointment of a new president.

Olson, 59, was appointed interim president at a meeting Friday of the curators in Columbia. The board said it will conduct a search for a permanent president.

The vacancy was created by the resignation last week of C. Brice Ratchford who met with controversy over his plan to further university funding through a public relations program involving the legislature. He had been president five years.

John Hall Dalton, president of the board of curators, emphasized that Olson's interim appointment does not exclude him from consideration for the presidency.

The board stressed "that Dr. Olson is not to act as a caretaker president. The university cannot afford to stand still but must move forward to meet its many challenges and to continue to improve the quality of life in this state."

Olson, chancellor at Kansas City since 1968, came to Missouri from the University of Nebrasks where he was vice chancellor for graduate studies and research.

He is a native of Bradgate, Iowa, received his B.A. degree from Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa, and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Nebraska.

Dalton said Olson would receive the same salary as Ratchford, $47,500 a year.

In earlier business Friday, the curators adopted a $206.3 million university operating budget for fiscal 1976-77, increasing student fees from $270 to $300 per semester for Missouri residents and from $810 to $900 per semester for out-of-state residents.

Drinkwater project placed in Public Works Bill

CHARLESTON— Tenth District Rep. Bill D. Burlison, D-Cape Girardeau, who serves on the House Appropriations Committee, announced Friday afternoon at a news conference in the circuit court room of the Mississippi County Courthouse that his recommendations for the Drinkwater Sewer Project have been included in the Public Works Appropriations Bill for fiscal year 1977.

Burlison explained that the President, in his fiscal year 1977 budget request, did not include funds to continue the statutory small projects program of the Corps of Engineers, through which Congress has authorized and appropriated funs in prior years.

The Big Lake Basin Drinkwater Sewer Project was one of the existing programs under section 205 of the Flood Control Act of 1948 for small lprojects which would be discontinued since all funds for fiscal year 1976 have been exhausted and "zero" funds were requested for the forthcoming fiscal year.

In 1973, local residents contacted the Corps of Engineers for possible assistance in construction of a pumping station at Drinkwater Sewer north of Charleston as a means of pumping impounded runoff and seepage over the Mississippi Riever levee in times of high water.

According to Burlison, a study was conducted and the plan of improvement was found to be economically feasible and within the federal costs limitations of section 205 authority.

"Under this act," the congressman remarked, "projects are funded through the general category of small programs and priority order."

Following the approval of preauthorization studies in early 1976, it was determined that construction was dependent on subsequent project authorization by the chief engineer of the Corps of Engineers and the availability of funds.

"Since no funds were forthcoming in the 1977 Presidential budget request, I appeared before the public works subcommittee of the Houe Appropriations Committee March 29 to urge approval o the Corps of Engineers full capability for planning, specifications and initiation of construction in the amount of $450,000, to be added above the President's budget request.

"I am delighted to say that his amount was in the measure approved this week by my full committee on appropriations," Burlison said.

Federal estimated cost of the project is $1.48 million, and the project costs-benefits ratio is 1.7 to 1.

It will take one and a half to two years to complete, and it is estimated that $492,300 in average annual flood damages will be prevented.

Plans of improvement consist of the construction of a 150-cubic foot per second pumping station with an inlet ditch and energy dissipator structure (baffled outlet), to be located near the existing gravity outlet of Drinkwater Sewer.

Burlison noted that Big Lake Basin is a 17,000-acre, crescent-shape water shed bordering the Mississippi River immediately north of Charleston and about four and a half miles north of Cairo, Ill.

Existing flood control facilities in an bordering the Big Lake Basin include 22.9 miles of recently improved drainage ditches, the Mississippi River levee and Drinkwater Sewer which is a gated culvert through the levee.

Burlison concluded by saying that the Public Works Appropriation Bill must yet survive action on the House floor, and the Senate Appropriations Committee, Senate floor action, Senate-House Conference Committee and be signed into law by the President.

In this regard, Burlison pointed out that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., serves on the Senate Appropriations Committee and has always been exceedingly successful and cooperative in getting approved in the Senate projects placed in the House bill. "We have always been able to count on Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) as well," he added.

New bridges for Stoddard discussed

BLOOMFIELD— Representatives from the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Memphis, Tenn. met with Stoddard County officials Wednesday and Thursday to discuss possible construction of new bridges in the county.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps who is also county engineer said the talks are "strictly in the planning stage," but that 5 bridges along the 12-13 mile stretch of the Castor River are at stake.

Money to pay for the project will be appropriated by congress as part of a larger project to widen the river.

Capps said that while nothing is finalized the only thing which would keep the project from being completed is if congress does not allocate the money.

The work, if approved, will be to improve drainage in the eastern part of the county -- an area which has been plagued with flood problems.

Capps mentioned one farmer in the Avert area who lost about 1,200 acres of beans a couple of years ago because of flooding from the river.

The farmer went ahead and replanted and lost them to floods again.

"These days, if a farmer loses a crop he's in trouble," Capps said.

The county hopes to have the work started and completed within the next 5 to 6 years. The meetings this week have been preliminary meetings.

Even though the Corps of Engineers will oversee the project, work done will have to meet specifications of the appropriate governemnt body as set forth in a written contract.

Meeting with Jack Garst and Jerry Webb, engineers with the Corps, on Wednesday were members of the Castor township board W.R. Vinson, Delbert Penny and Bill Poeppelmeyer.

Also at the meeting were Jack Crowell of Richland township and George Friedrich, John Daniel and Paul Jennings of Pike township.

The county court will not have jurisdiction in the matter, but met with the representatives Thursday morning along with Lonnie Fulkerson, Ardith Jones and H. T. Burch, members of the Gray Ridge special road district.

Thursday afternoon members of the Crowder-Zeta special road district met to discuss the matter.

The river bridges are located on the Castor-Pike township line, the Castor-Richland township line, on Route N and in the Gray Ridge special raod district.

Also involved are bridges over drainage ditch 24, in the Zeta-Crowder special road district and on route AB.

Capps said it appears from early talks that the bridge on Route N may be alright as is and that the Corps may propose modifying some of the other bridges.

The matter of bridges must be taken care of, however, before any widening work can take place on the Cstor River.

Capps said that over the years the river has filled with silt and now cannot carry the volume of water which runs off the land into it.

Similar drainage problems have been taken care of in the western part of Stoddard County, he said, but that it took many years before the problems were solved.

Bill Stroup hired as night marshal

BLOOMFIELD— Bill Stroup, 30, has been hired as night marshall starting Monday night.

About three years ago Stroup worked as a city policeman on weekends and for the past three years has served as an auxiliary deputy with the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department.

The position had been filled by Byron Phillips who also served as chief of police. He resigned May 13 after it was complained he had been "sleeping on the job."

The position of chief has still not been filled. Charles Jarrell is serving as acting chief as he has since Phillips' resignation.

1 hurt in 3-car accident

Police said a 19-year-old Benton woman received minor injuries when she was involved in a three-car accident about 12:30p.m. Thursday at the intersection of East Malone Avenue and Airport Drive.

Barbara Lynn Myers of Benton Route Two was treated for a cut lip in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred when her car struck the back of a car driven by Carl Lunden, 78, of 632 Linn St., which had stopped for traffic in the inside lane of Malone. His car was knocked into the back of a car driven by Porter Edward Brewer, 26, of 705 W. Gladys St.

The eastbound Lunden and Brewer cars were stopped behind a vehicle attempting a left turn onto Airport Drive from Malone Avenue.

Police said no arrests were made.

MAGISTRATE COURT

NEW MADRID— Three Catron men were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a burglary and stealing charge after waiving a preliminary hearing in New Madrid County Magistrate Court before Judge John R. Bailey.

George Johnson, Edgar Givens and Ricky Robinson, accused of breaking into Catron Service Station and stealing merchandise valued at $200, were placed under $1,000 bond each.

Charles Walker of Fort Wayne, Ind., accused of exhibiting a pistol before Joe Edward Alexander of New Madrid during an argument, was ordered held for Circuit Court action following a preliminary hearing.

Sworn testimony for the prosecution was heard from the complainant Alexander, William Robinson and Betty Robinson. Ora Lee Nelson and Nora Walker were defense witnesses. Walker has been released on $500 bond.

Misdemeanor cases

Steve Plunk, malicious destruction and damages of property, six months jail sentence suspended provided he cleans paint off of Matthews school building walls to the satisfaction of the principal and upon payment of $16 costs. On a second charge of malicious destruction of property, the same punishment was ordered, provided Plunk removes paint off of street signs and street markers to the satisfaction of the mayor of Matthews and payment of $25 costs. Billy Tanner, also charged with malicious damage to school property, was given the same punishment and assessed $16 costs; and the same punishment and $16 costs were imposed on another charge against Tanner of malicious destruction of property by painting street signs and markers in Matthews.

Alvin Dean Haller, driving while intoxicated, third offense, case returned from Circuit Court because only one prior driving while intoxicated conviction was recorded, charge reduced to second offense of driving while intoxicated, six months jail sentence suspended and placed on probation.

Ricky Eugene Bone, minor in possession of beer, $50 fine plus $25 costs, and attempting to escape custody, six months jail sentence and placed on probation for one year under supervision of the Department of Probation and Parole.

Other cases and fines: Clifton Haney, David L. Payne, James E. Hawkins and Dan Ralph Ruartk, no operator's license, $20 each; Gary F. Klingel, Garry Lynn Kinsey and Edward Arlene Mace, improper registration, $20 each; and Betty Lou Sermon, driving with blood alcohol content of .10 per cent or more by weight, $65.

Bonds forfeited

Avery Allin Brooksher, driving while intoxicated, failed to appear in court, and $125 bond was ordered forfeited.

Ray Anthony Valadez, speeding, failed to appear in court, and $40 bond was ordered forfeited.

Speeding fines

New bridges for Stoddard discussed

BLOOMFIELD— Representatives from the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Memphis, Tenn. met with Stoddard County officials Wednesday and Thursday to discuss possible construction of new bridges in the county.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps who is also county engineer said the talks are "strictly in the planning stage," but that 5 bridges along the 12-13 mile stretch of the Castor River are at stake.

Money to pay for the project will be appropriated by congress as part of a larger project to widen the river.

Capps said that while nothing is finalized the only thing which would keep the project from being completed is if congress does not allocate the money.

The work, if approved, will be to improve drainage in the eastern part of the county -- an area which has been plagued with flood problems.

Capps mentioned one farmer in the Avert area who lost about 1,200 acres of beans a couple of years ago because of flooding from the river.

The farmer went ahead and replanted and lost them to floods again.

"These days, if a farmer loses a crop he's in trouble," Capps said.

The county hopes to have the work started and completed within the next 5 to 6 years. The meetings this week have been preliminary meetings.

Even though the Corps of Engineers will oversee the project, work done will have to meet specifications of the appropriate governemnt body as set forth in a written contract.

Meeting with Jack Garst and Jerry Webb, engineers with the Corps, on Wednesday were members of the Castor township board W.R. Vinson, Delbert Penny and Bill Poeppelmeyer.

Also at the meeting were Jack Crowell of Richland township and George Friedrich, John Daniel and Paul Jennings of Pike township.

The county court will not have jurisdiction in the matter, but met with the representatives Thursday morning along with Lonnie Fulkerson, Ardith Jones and H. T. Burch, members of the Gray Ridge special road district.

Thursday afternoon members of the Crowder-Zeta special road district met to discuss the matter.

The river bridges are located on the Castor-Pike township line, the Castor-Richland township line, on Route N and in the Gray Ridge special raod district.

Also involved are bridges over drainage ditch 24, in the Zeta-Crowder special road district and on route AB.

Capps said it appears from early talks that the bridge on Route N may be alright as is and that the Corps may propose modifying some of the other bridges.

The matter of bridges must be taken care of, however, before any widening work can take place on the Cstor River.

Capps said that over the years the river has filled with silt and now cannot carry the volume of water which runs off the land into it.

Similar drainage problems have been taken care of in the western part of Stoddard County, he said, but that it took many years before the problems were solved.

Bill Stroup hired as night marshal

BLOOMFIELD— Bill Stroup, 30, has been hired as night marshall starting Monday night.

About three years ago Stroup worked as a city policeman on weekends and for the past three years has served as an auxiliary deputy with the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department.

The position had been filled by Byron Phillips who also served as chief of police. He resigned May 13 after it was complained he had been "sleeping on the job."

The position of chief has still not been filled. Charles Jarrell is serving as acting chief as he has since Phillips' resignation.

1 hurt in 3-car accident

Police said a 19-year-old Benton woman received minor injuries when she was involved in a three-car accident about 12:30p.m. Thursday at the intersection of East Malone Avenue and Airport Drive.

Barbara Lynn Myers of Benton Route Two was treated for a cut lip in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred when her car struck the back of a car driven by Carl Lunden, 78, of 632 Linn St., which had stopped for traffic in the inside lane of Malone. His car was knocked into the back of a car driven by Porter Edward Brewer, 26, of 705 W. Gladys St.

The eastbound Lunden and Brewer cars were stopped behind a vehicle attempting a left turn onto Airport Drive from Malone Avenue.

Police said no arrests were made.

Ballad comes alive on screen

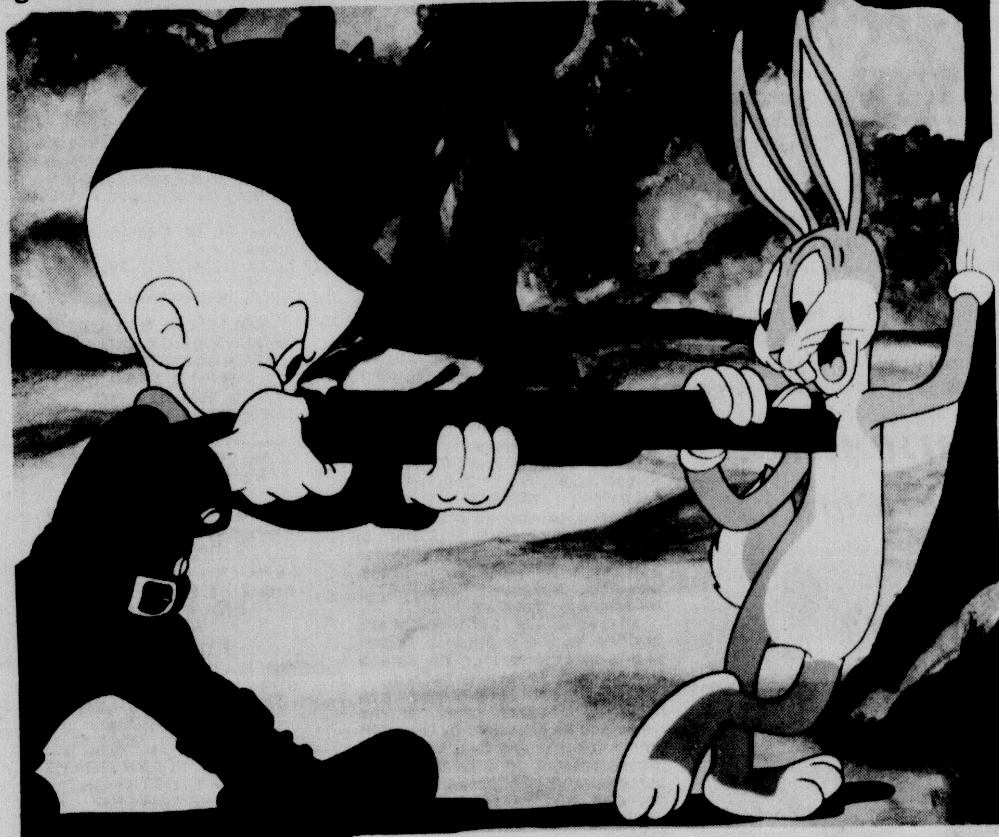
Glynnis O'Connor and Robby Benson, with the Tallahatchie Bridge hovering overhead, star in "Ode to Billy Joe", the Max Baer film for Warner Bros. derived from the song of the same name which Bobbie Gentry made famous nine years ago. Shot on location in Mississippi, the motion picture was directed by Baer and produced by Baer and Roger Camras from a script by Herman Raucher. Miss Gentry rerecorded the title song for the sound track, with additional music by Michel Legrand.

Buggs Bunny has returned!

Bugs Bunny always managed to elude his befuddled pursuers but he can no longer elude his fans. Audiences learned to love the wise-guy rabbit in the 30 years that Warners Bros. Studio made his antics available in theaters to loosen up everyone before the feature.

Unfortunately, the Warner Bros. cartoons are never shown in theaters any more. But this spring, Bugs made a grand encore with his Looney Toon friends, Daffy Duck, Elmer Fudd, Tweetie, Sylvester, Henery Hawk and Foghorn Leghorn. The occasion of their return was the Orson Welles Cinema in Cambridge, Mass., which offered an Easter Special, "Bugs Bunny Superstar," which has turned into a hit attraction.

Bugs has always had the immense egotism and self-assurance of a superstar. Now he finally has the title.



'What's up, Doc?'

Bugs Bunny and all his Looney Toon friends, such as Elmer Fudd, with whom the wise-cracking bunny is seen here return to screen in the new attraction, "Bugs Bunny Superstar", coming to Sikeston soon.

'Ode to Billy Joe'- ballad to movie

"Ode To Billy Joe," a motion picture of young love on the Mississippi Delta in which the long-held secrets of the Tallahatchie Bridge are finally laid bare, will open soon in a Sikeston theater.

The story of Billy Joe McAllister, the boy who jumped off the Tallahatchie Bridge, was first told in the song hit by Bobbie Gentry nine years ago. The continuing mystery of the muddy waters that brought an end to Billy Joe's romance with Bobbie Lee Hartley is now illuminated in a touching and astonishing motion picture.

Permission to film the narrative behind her haunting ballad was granted by Miss Gentry to Max Baer, the young film-maker who took a Hollywood crew to the heart of the Delta to bring life to a song legend on the spot where it happened. The film is a Warner Bros. release.

The young stars of the picture are Glynnis O'Connor and Robby Benson, who play the teen-agers whose turbulent love affair is a source of tenderness and humor until the disaster at the Tallahatchie. Featured performers include Sandy McPeak and Joan Hotchkis. The script is by Herman Raucher, author of the successful film, "Summer of '42".

Miss Gentry, who has won fame as a nightclub and TV entertainer as wells as a recording artist, has rerecorded "Ode to Billy Joe" for the sound track of the film. It is also available in a new Warner Records single.

A special paperback book edition of "Ode to Billy Joe," as novelized by Herman Raucher, has just been published.

Nelson Affair portrays historical romantic drama

Academy Award winner Glenda Jackson ("Women in Love", 1970; "A Touch of Class", 1973) and Oscar nominee Peter Finch ("Sunday Bloody Sunday", 1971) star as a couple whose love defied the propriety of English nobility, in "The Nelson Affair", a historical romantic drama to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" June 5 (8-10:25 p.m.)

Two of England's most acclaimed screen personalities, Jackson and Fich starred together to overwhelming critical praise in "Sunday Bloody Sunday."

Finch stars as Admiral Lord Nelson, who returns to England Aug. 19, 1805, after more than two years at sea chasing the French fleet. He is rushed off to the admiralty by an old friend and granted leave to spend time with "a certain lady."

Connors stars as the legendary Geronimo

Chuck Connors stars in the title role of "Geronimo", the Apache leader who waged a personal and protracted war against the United States government, an action drama to be rebroadcast on "NBC Thursday Night at the Movies" June 3 (8-10 p.m.).

In 1883, Geronimo and his small band of followers surrender to U.S. Army Capt. Maynard and Lt. Delahay in a border ceremony.

A treaty is signed that promises land, food and shelter in an atmosphere of dignity on the San Carlos Reservation. Instead, a greedy Indian agent conspires with the Army to force the Apaches to farm and live in abject poverty.

Then the government agent agrees to sell reservation land to a large investment firm, forcing the Indians to move away. An angry Geronimo then returns to Mexico and organizes a war against the government.

Brown to meet state delegates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Officials of the Missouri Democratic State Committee have granted California Gov. Jerry Brown's request to appear at the party's state convention here June 12.

Brown is a late challenger to the presidential nomination drive of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, who has collected the support of state Democratic leaders.

The state committee sent letters Saturday to representatives of all other candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, inviting them to attend the state convention where the rest of Missouri's 71-member delegation to the National convention will be selected.

So far, 54 delegates have been chosen, with the majority, 28, supporting Carter, 21 uncommitted and the five others divided among three candidates.

John M. McIlroy, state committee chairman, received Brown's request to appear at the convention last week.

"In the interest of fair play, the Democratic party in Missouri does hereby extend to you an invitation to appear before the state convention," said the letter, signed by McIlroy and sent to the representatives of all other presidential candidates. "We would ask that you appear in person and limit your remarks to 15 minutes," it added.

They have retained attorneys, the sources said. The women were not named. One source said "it's a fair assumption" they have been questioned.

Miss Ray's friend, who declined to be identified, said Miss Ray has "documented evidence" of her assertion.

The friend, who said she has worked for three congressmen over several years, added that FBI agents have not questioned her. But she said, "If I'm called before the grand jury, I'd have something to say." She refused to be specific.

"The grand jury is interested in whether Miss Ray did anything at all" by way of work for the Hays committee, said another lawyer close to the case.

"I'm sure they're investigating seriously and looking to see whether it may lead to other people," the lawyer said.

Hays, a Democrat, was spending the Memorial Day weekend in Ohio, his home state. He has said he won't resign from the House or quit his posts as head of the Administration Committee and the Democratic Congressional Campaign committee even though one Democratic colleague has suggested he do so and others reportedly want him out.

Believers - - liberators

By
ARTHUR C. FULBRIGHT

We are hearing from the secular world a prediction that new leadership will come from the grassroots. The only hope for America to become a new society is to produce ordinary everyday people at the grassroots who will take responsibility for their little part of the city, town, area, church, school, wherever they are.

This is what the New Testament brought into being and we are rediscovering it today. Each believer has in his (or her) power the ability to release the potential for healing and wholeness in others. We can be liberators. We are those to whom Jesus Christ the Holy Spirit turns and says, "Loose him and let him go!"

We have given tremendous lip service to the doctrine of the priesthood of all believers, but we have been slow to practice it.

Therefore, each of us must begin to be responsible for a few other people in a way that can bring radical changes. Let us take them by the hand, listen to them, believe in them, believe for them. Let us help them discover the part of their life that hurts the most, that needs healing the most, that is most ready to respond. It is time that we hear people around us say, "will you not care, love and show me the way?"

Ashcroft campaigns in SeMo

John Ashcroft of Jefferson City, candidate for the Republican nomination for Missouri Attorney General, officially kicked off his campaign in Southeast Missouri Friday.

Discussing his campaign and his objectives for the office of attorney general, Ashcroft visited in Cape Girardeau, Jackson, Poplar Bluff, and Sikeston. He also met the press in Paducah, Ky.

Ashcroft, who recently concluded a 16- month tenure as an assistant attorney general, has pledged to maintain the high level of professionalism of the Attorney General's Office. "We must insure that the office does not return to one of pay-back politics," Ashcroft asserted. "For eight years, attorneys have been hired on the basis of quality – with no reference to political affiliation. I will continue that policy."

Ashcroft also indicated that he will maintain a toll-free, incoming WATS telephone line to encourage the prompt reporting of consumer frauds, especially in the rural areas of Missouri. "Only when schemes to defraud the consumer are properly detected and reported, can effective legal action be taken to curtail the fraud, and to alert and protect the public," Ashcroft explained.

Ashcroft, who served as Missouri State Auditor from 1973 to 1975, is a member of the United States Supreme Court Bar and is a member of the American Bar Association, the Missouri Bar Association, and the Cole County Bar Association.

Prior to his governmental service, Ashcroft served as associate professor of business and coordinator of judicial affairs at Southwest Missouri State University. Ashcroft is the co-author of College Law for Business, a widely- used business law textbook.

He elaborated on his proposal that minimum standards of training be given law enforcement agents and that such standards be established by state statute.

He said there presently are no minimum training standards in law enforcement. While refusing to state the specific amount of time needed, he noted that the Department of Public Safety had suggested 240 hours.

One advantage of such a training system, the candidate said, was that experience had shown that trained men were not only better officers, but rates of retention on police departments was greater.

Charleston pool to open on May 31

CHARLESTON— The Charleston municipal swimming pool will open Monday, according to City Manager Willis Downs.

The pool will open at 1 p.m. and will be managed by Alvin Cope.

Tennis and swimming lessons will be given at Rolwing Park this summer, but the times are not available at present. Applications for lessons may be obtained at the city hall. Tom Daughhetee and Beverly Wright are the instructors.

We can be liberators. We are those to whom Jesus Christ the Holy Spirit turns and says, "Loose him and let him go!"

We have given tremendous lip service to the doctrine of the priesthood of all believers, but we have been slow to practice it.

Therefore, each of us must begin to be responsible for a few other people in a way that can bring radical changes. Let us take them by the hand, listen to them, believe in them, believe for them. Let us help them discover the part of their life that hurts the most, that needs healing the most, that is most ready to respond. It is time that we hear people around us say, "will you not care, love and show me the way?"

Ashcroft campaigns in SeMo

John Ashcroft of Jefferson City, candidate for the Republican nomination for Missouri Attorney General, officially kicked off his campaign in Southeast Missouri Friday.

Discussing his campaign and his objectives for the office of attorney general, Ashcroft visited in Cape Girardeau, Jackson, Poplar Bluff, and Sikeston. He also met the press in Paducah, Ky.

Ashcroft, who recently concluded a 16- month tenure as an assistant attorney general, has pledged to maintain the high level of professionalism of the Attorney General's Office. "We must insure that the office does not return to one of pay-back politics," Ashcroft asserted. "For eight years, attorneys have been hired on the basis of quality – with no reference to political affiliation. I will continue that policy."

Ashcroft also indicated that he will maintain a toll-free, incoming WATS telephone line to encourage the prompt reporting of consumer frauds, especially in the rural areas of Missouri. "Only when schemes to defraud the consumer are properly detected and reported, can effective legal action be taken to curtail the fraud, and to alert and protect the public," Ashcroft explained.

Ashcroft, who served as Missouri State Auditor from 1973 to 1975, is a member of the United States Supreme Court Bar and is a member of the American Bar Association, the Missouri Bar Association, and the Cole County Bar Association.

Prior to his governmental service, Ashcroft served as associate professor of business and coordinator of judicial affairs at Southwest Missouri State University. Ashcroft is the co-author of College Law for Business, a widely- used business law textbook.

He elaborated on his proposal that minimum standards of training be given law enforcement agents and that such standards be established by state statute.

He said there presently are no minimum training standards in law enforcement. While refusing to state the specific amount of time needed, he noted that the Department of Public Safety had suggested 240 hours.

One advantage of such a training system, the candidate said, was that experience had shown that trained men were not only better officers, but rates of retention on police departments was greater.

Big turnout hoped for in Ozark AAU Junior Olympic meet

POPLAR BLUFF— Over 2,000 boys and girls are expected to participate in the 1976 Ozark AAU Junior Olympic Track and Field Championships to be held here on June 11-12.

One of the largest Junior Olympic meets in the nation, it consists of 155 events and will be contested over a two day period.

Athletes will qualify for the championships through preliminary meets being held in Crystal City, Bloomfield, Bowling Green, Cape Girardeau, Charleston, East Alton, East St. Louis, Farmington, House Springs, Jackson, Kennett, Kirkwood, Mascoutah, St. Clair, St. Louis (Beaumont High School, Northwest High School, Pattonville High School), Troy, West Plains, Edwardsville and Washington.

First and second place winners in the intermediate and senior divisions in the national events will qualify to participate in the Junior Olympic Region 8

Championships here on July 10 against athletes from Missouri Valley, Oklahoma and Arkansas associations.

Saints travel to Herrin, Ill.

HERRIN, Ill. — The Sikeston Saints will try to improve on their 1-2 Bi-State League record when they oppose Herrin in a doubleheader at one o'clock today. Sikeston has had a week off since their first win, 8-5, in a come- from- behind effort over Anna.

Righthander Mike Cooksey, out with a sore throwing arm for two weeks, has been tabbed as the first- game starting pitcher for the Sikeston team. Cooksey started, but had to leave after two innings, in the season's first game against Perryville.

Sunday's Sikeston lineup should look like this:

1ST Bruce Lawrence, CF	.000
2ND Bill Schatzley, SS	.357
3RD Les Schatzley, 3B	.167
4TH Jeff Jackson, DH	.250
5TH Jim Saulter, 1B	.231
6TH Kenny Urhahn, 2B	.200
7TH Mike Brasher, LF	.333
8TH Charlie Miller, C	.000
9TH Mitch Walker, RF	.333

Jeff Jackson, a loser to Cape his first time out, will start the second game.

Split gives Lilbourn second place

CONCORDIA, Mo. — The Lilbourn Panthers made a dramatic seventh- inning comeback Friday to advance to the finals of the State Class AA baseball tournament, but were simply outclassed by Dixon in the championship game Saturday.

Gerry Lewis, who won 13 of Dixon's 19 games this season without a loss, worked a split shift on the mound for the Bulldogs as they routed the Panthers 11-2. Lilbourn had beaten St. Francis Borgia 5-4 Friday to make it to the finals, while Dixon was a winner over Ash Grove.

All-stater Sammy Taylor, who was the winner on the mound Friday in relief for the Panthers, started on the mound Saturday and got the loss, although he gave up only two earned runs. Lilbourn committed five errors in the championship battle, and only five of Dixon's eleven tallies were earned.

Dixon jumped on Taylor in the first for three runs and were on top 3-0 going into the third. After pushing across another run to make it 4-0, Dixon got the break they needed to break the game wide open. A single to left got by leftfielder Al Garcia and went to the fence, scoring two more runs.

Sam Taylor's double and James Berry's single produced Lilbourn's first run of the game in the bottom of the fifth and made it 6-1, but Dixon knocked out Taylor in the seventh to make it a laugher. They got to him for a pair of runs with only one out when Panther coach Ted Mauk pulled his started and brought in Dale Chamberlain, who was tagged for three more tallies. Burke came in and got the last out for Lilbourn.

The Panthers got a run in the seventh when Burke walked, went to third on a pair of wild pitches, and scored on a balk.

Lewis, who had worked six innings in Dixon's semifinal contest, started the championship game but was moved to left field after Dixon had taken the early lead. When Lilbourn threatened with the bases loaded and one out in the fourth, Lewis was called on to put out the fire. The versatile athlete played centerfield during the fifth, but was brought in to finish up the game in the sixth and seventh.

Lewis also stood out at the plate for Dixon, ripping three hits in five trips to the plate.

In the semifinal game Friday, Lilbourn had trailed St. Francis Borgia 4-0 going into the bottom of the seventh. With starter Paul Tobben cruising along with a three- hit shutout, the Panthers seemed to be on the verge of elimination. Tobben, who had been 10-0 prior to the game, suddenly lost the strike zone and walked four consecutive Panther hitters to force in a run with one out. Jimmy Reed then bounced a double over the fence to score a pair and make it 4-3. After Al Garcia laid down a perfect squeeze bunt to tie the ballgame, Roberts drew a walk to load the bases. Steve Taylor then made a winner out of Sammy Taylor by lashing a basehit down the left field line, just inches inside the foul line and bringing home the winner run.

St. Francis Borgia had threatened in the top of the seventh, and Taylor was brought in to replace Reed, who had started. Taylor worked out of the jam and was credited with the victory.

St. Francis Borgia scored a pair of runs off Reed in the third inning and added single tallies in the fifth and sixth.

Lilbourn finished the season with a 22-3 record.

Dogs yield to rain again; will try once more today

The tension is building, although you couldn't tell it by watching, as the Sikeston Bulldogs had their semi-final round game with Springfield- Glendale postponed for the second time. The rain had stopped in the Ste. Genevieve area on Friday but wet conditions forcced the second straight cancellation.

The game is now scheduled for today at noon. Lefty Ricky Taylor remains the scheduled Sikeston starter. Taylor, a senior, has recorded eight consecutive wins since a season- opening loss to Lilbourn.

Going for Glendale will probably be flame- throwing Bard Simmons, a 6-foot-2, 195 - pounder.

The championship game is scheduled for this evening at six. But, there is a 30 per cent chance of rain.

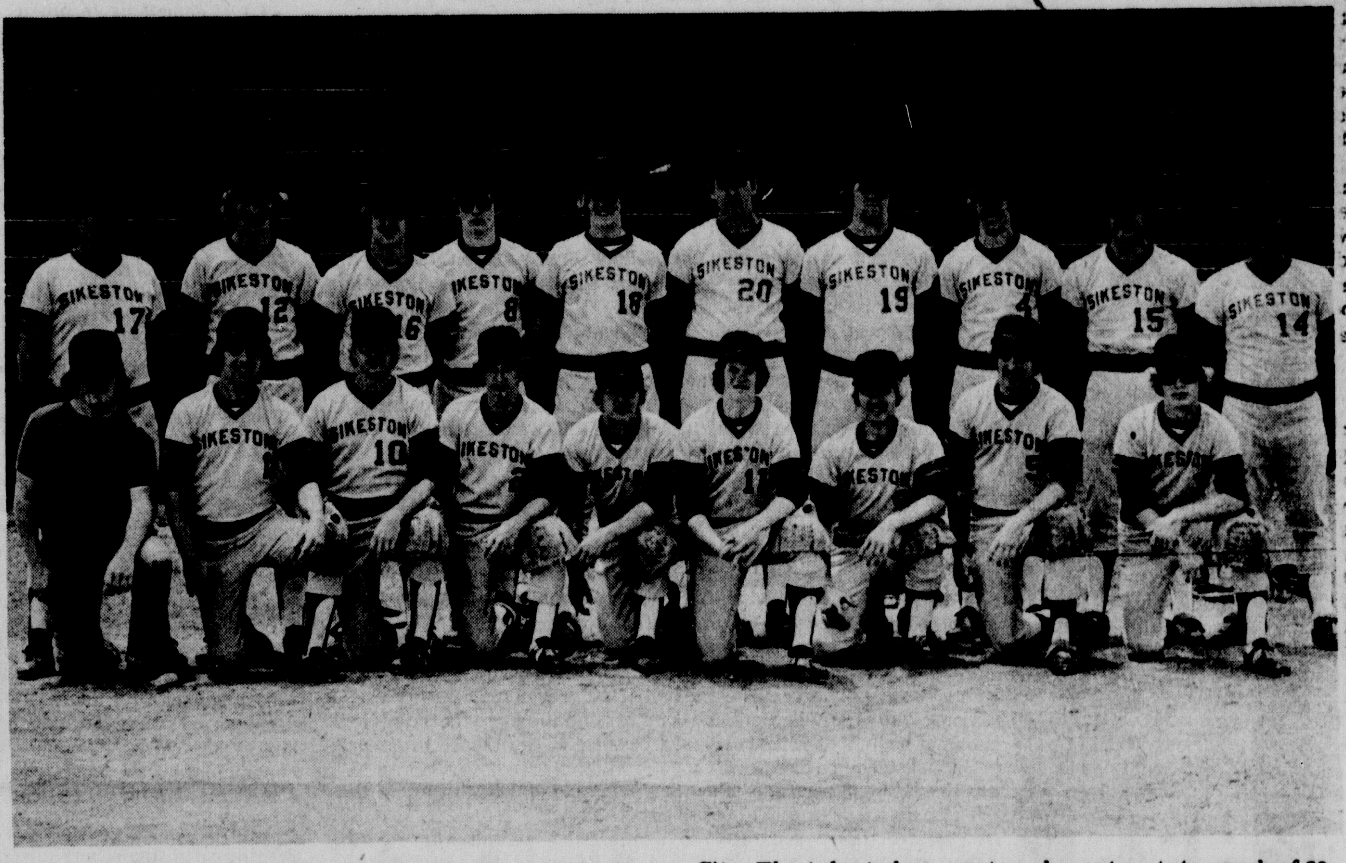
Swim team practices

The first practice session of the Sikeston AAU swimming team will be held Tuesday morning at 10:00 a.m. at the Jaycee Swimming Pool, Dr. Jean Dupont announced Friday.

Experienced swimmers between the ages of nine and eighteen are eligible to compete with the team, which will be a member of the Bootheel Swimming Conference. Seven swim meets have been scheduled for this summer.

For further information, call 471-3951 or 471-7236.



Jay Rearden clears the high jump bar at seven feet, one-quarter inch to knock down his third Missouri state high school record of the day last weekend at Kansas City. The talented youngster also set a state mark of 50-feet, 10¾ inches in the triple jump and 24 feet, 8¼ inches in the long jump. (AP Wirephoto)

265,000 expected for Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The absence of Janet Guthrie, who was continually mobbed by curious race fans during two weeks of practice for the Indianapolis 500, is not likely to cut down attendance at Sunday's 60th running of the world's richest, most prestigious automobile race.

"The ticket sale is better than it's been for three or four years, and we will sell every seat we have in every grandstand," said Tony Hulman, who has owned the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for 30 of his 75 years.

"I don't know about the bleachers in the infield, but that is a minor thing."

By long-standing practice, the Speedway never announces total attendance for the Memorial Day classic. But Hulman has admitted there are 265,000 permanent seats in grandstands circling the 2½-mile track and room for another 100,000 or so in the infield, where seating on the grass is on a first-come basis.

Miss Guthrie, 38, the first woman ever to enter the Indy 500, was unable to get her Vollstedt racer up to qualifying speed in the two weekends of qualifications. Instead, she will be driving in Sunday's World 600 stock car race at Charlotte, N.C., where she also is the first woman entrant.

The appearance of the 13-year sports car racing veteran at the threshhold of the ultimate challenge in motor sports — an all-male domain up to now — caused more than a few lifted eyebrows at first. But she impressed admirers and skeptics alike by her performance in a car that would have been difficult, if not impossible, for any driver to qualify.

And the acknowledged No. 1 superstar of championship racing — A. J. Foyt — gave Miss Guthrie the highest compliment by letting her take his backup Coyote out for a test run to prove she was capable of handling a quality machine. He later agreed, "She was."

Foyt is out to do some proving himself.

It's been 10 years since Foyt last won here, a decade of frustration in trying to become the first driver ever to win four Indy championships.

He was the USAC national driving champion for a record sixth time last year — nobody else has won it more than three times— and he captured the other two USAC 500—mile races at Ontario, Calif., and Pocono, Pa.

But the big prize of Indy eluded Foyt last year when a rainstorm gave Bobby Unser his second victory. Johnny Rutherford, the 1974 winner, finished second and Foyt, who won in 1961, 1964 and 1967, wound up third. All three were on their 174th laps when the race was halted.

Rutherford, who qualified at 188.957 miles per hour, will start Sunday's race in the pole position on the inside of the front row, a spot occupied by Foyt the past two years.

Foyt, who admittedly was not pleased with his qualifying speed of 185.261 m.p.h., will start in the middle of the second row, flanked by two-time winner Al Unser and Pancho Carter, the fourth-place finisher a year ago.

Motta switches from Bulls to Bullets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dick Motta says he doesn't envision any problems with the Washington Bullets players like those he had as coach of the Chicago Bulls.

The 45-year-old Motta, named head coach of the Bullets Friday, said his big mistake in Chicago was having the job of coach and director of player personnel.

"I learned a good lesson," he told a new s conference. "The two jobs should not be with one man. I learned it the hard way. Our ownership would not renegotiate contracts. And I always had the policy that when a man owns a ballclub he has the right to run it the way he wants to. I merely carried out those instructions."

Motta has had many public disputes with his players in recent season. Chet Walker, a seven-time All-Star, retired this season rather trhan play for Motta.

Bob Love and Norm Van Lier, both All-Star selections, had asked repeatedly to be traded following disputes with Motta. Nate Thurmond, whom the Bulls acquired form Golden State before the 1974-75 sesson, apparently didn't fit in Motta's system and was traded to Cleveland this year.

Motta, who fell into disfavor in Chicago after the Bulls plunged to last place in th NBA Midwest Division this season, signed a three-year contract with the Bullets for a salary believed to be more than $50,000 a year.

"I feel very fortunate that we were able to sign a proven, winningcoach like Dick Motta," said Abe Pollin, owner of the Bullets. "Just as important as his coaching ability, I feel Dick is a very fine human being."

Asked what he could do that former Washington coach K.C. Jones couldn't do to make the Bullets the NBA champions, Motta said:

"They made the playoffs and won 47 or 48 games. That's not a bad season. I would hope my role is 5 or 10 per cent. I hope to utilize the talent on hand. I have to go through the full training camp to see. I don't want to make any changes until I can see it on the floor."

Motta declined to predict an NBA championship for the Bullets but did say that win-or-else was not discussed during the negotiations with the club management.

'I think I'm hired to win basketball games and in a situatino where I can do it," he said. "I'm excited about it. I wish the season was beginning tomorrow."

Big turnout hoped for in Ozark AAU Junior Olympic meet

POPLAR BLUFF—Over 2,000 boys and girls are expected to participate in the 1976 Ozark AAU Junior Olympic Track and Field Championships to be held here on June 11-12.

One of the largest Junior Olympic meets in the nation, it consists of 155 events and will be contested over a two day period.

Athletes will qualify for the championships through preliminary meets being held in Crystal City, Bloomfield, Bowling Green, Cape Girardeau, Charleston, East Alton, East St. Louis, Farmington, House Springs, Jackson, Kennett, Kirkwood, Mascoutah, St. Clair, St. Louis (Beaumont High School, Northwest High School, Pattonville High School), Troy, West Plains, Edwardsville and Washington.

First and second place winners in the intermediate and senior divisions in the national events will qualify to participate in the Junior Olympic Region 8

Championships here on July 10 against athletes from Missouri Valley, Oklahoma and Arkansas associations.

Saints travel to Herrin, Ill.

HERRIN, Ill. —The Sikeston Saints will try to improve on their 1-2 Bi-State League record when they oppose Herrin in a doubleheader at one o'clock today. Sikeston has had a week off since their first win, 8-5, in a come- from- behind effort over Anna.

Righthander Mike Cooksey, out with a sore throwing arm for two weeks, has been tabbed as the first- game starting pitcher for the Sikeston team. Cooksey started, but had to leave after two innings, in the season's first game against Perryville.

Sunday's Sikeston lineup should look like this:

1ST Bruce Lawrence, CF	.000
2ND Bill Schatzley, SS	.357
3RD Les Schatzley, 3B	.167
4TH Jeff Jackson, DH	.250
5TH Jim Saulter, 1B	.231
6TH Kenny Urhahn, 2B	.200
7TH Mike Brasher, LF	.333
8TH Charlie Miller, C	.000
9TH Mitch Walker, RF	.333

Jeff Jackson, a loser to Cape his first time out, will start the second game.

Split gives Lilbourn second place

CONCORDIA, Mo. — The Lilbourn Panthers made a dramatic seventh- inning comeback Friday to advance to the finals of the State Class AA baseball tournament, but were simply outclassed by Dixon in the championship game Saturday.

Gerry Lewis, who won 13 of Dixon's 19 games this season without a loss, worked a split shift on the mound for the Bulldogs as they routed the Panthers 11-2. Lilbourn had beaten St. Francis Borgia 5-4 Friday to make it to the finals, while Dixon was a winner over Ash Grove.

All-stater Sammy Taylor, who was the winner on the mound Friday in relief for the Panthers, started on the mound Saturday and got the loss, although he gave up only two earned runs. Lilbourn committed five errors in the championship battle, and only five of Dixon's eleven tallies were earned.

Dixon jumped on Taylor in the first for three runs and were on top 3-0 going into the third. After pushing across another run to make it 4-0, Dixon got the break they needed to break the game wide open. A single to left got by leftfielder Al Garcia and went to the fence, scoring two more runs.

Sam Taylor's double and James Berry's single produced Lilbourn's first run of the game in the bottom of the fifth and made it 6-1, but Dixon knocked out Taylor in the seventh to make it a laugher. They got to him for a pair of runs with only one out when Panther coach Ted Mauk pulled his started and brought in Dale Chamberlain, who was tagged for three more tallies. Burke came in and got the last out for Lilbourn.

The Panthers got a run in the seventh when Burke walked, went to third on a pair of wild pitches, and scored on a balk.

Lewis, who had worked six innings in Dixon's semifinal contest, started the championship game but was moved to left field after Dixon had taken the early lead. When Lilbourn threatened with the bases loaded and one out in the fourth, Lewis was called on to put out the fire. The versatile athlete played centerfield during the fifth, but was brought in to finish up the game in the sixth and seventh.

Lewis also stood out at the plate for Dixon, ripping three hits in five trips to the plate.

In the semifinal game Friday, Lilbourn had trailed St. Francis Borgia 4-0 going into the bottom of the seventh. With starter Paul Tobben cruising along with a three- hit shutout, the Panthers seemed to be on the verge of elimination. Tobben, who had been 10-0 prior to the game, suddenly lost the strike zone and walked four consecutive Panther hitters to force in a run with one out. Jimmy Reed then bounced a double over the fence to score a pair and make it 4-3. After Al Garcia laid down a perfect squeeze bunt to tie the ballgame, Roberts drew a walk to load the bases. Steve Taylor then made a winner out of Sammy Taylor by lashing a basehit down the left field line, just inches inside the foul line and bringing home the winner run.

St. Francis Borgia had threatened in the top of the seventh, and Taylor was brought in to replace Reed, who had started. Taylor worked out of the jam and was credited with the victory.

St. Francis Borgia scored a pair of runs off Reed in the third inning and added single tallies in the fifth and sixth.

Lilbourn finished the season with a 22-3 record.

Dogs yield to rain again; will try once more today

The tension is building, although you couldn't tell it by watching, as the Sikeston Bulldogs had their semi-final round game with Springfield- Glendale postponed for the second time. The rain had stopped in the Ste. Genevieve area on Friday but wet conditions forcced the second straight cancellation.

The game is now scheduled for today at noon. Lefty Ricky Taylor remains the scheduled Sikeston starter. Taylor, a senior, has recorded eight consecutive wins since a season- opening loss to Lilbourn.

Going for Glendale will probably be flame- throwing Bard Simmons, a 6-foot-2, 195 - pounder.

The championship game is scheduled for this evening at six. But, there is a 30 per cent chance of rain.

Swim team practices

The first practice session of the Sikeston AAU swimming team will be held Tuesday morning at 10:00 a.m. at the Jaycee Swimming Pool, Dr. Jean Dupont announced Friday.

Experienced swimmers between the ages of nine and eighteen are eligible to compete with the team, which will be a member of the Bootheel Swimming Conference. Seven swim meets have been scheduled for this summer.

For further information, call 471-3951 or 471-7236.

Jay Rearden clears the high jump bar at seven feet, one-quarter inch to knock down his third Missouri state high school record of the day last weekend at Kansas City. The talented youngster also set a state mark of 50-feet, 10¾ inches in the triple jump and 24 feet, 8¼ inches in the long jump. (AP Wirephoto)

265,000 expected for Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The absence of Janet Guthrie, who was continually mobbed by curious race fans during two weeks of practice for the Indianapolis 500, is not likely to cut down attendance at Sunday's 60th running of the world's richest, most prestigious automobile race.

"The ticket sale is better than it's been for three or four years, and we will sell every seat we have in every grandstand," said Tony Hulman, who has owned the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for 30 of his 75 years.

"I don't know about the bleachers in the infield, but that is a minor thing."

By long-standing practice, the Speedway never announces total attendance for the Memorial Day classic. But Hulman has admitted there are 265,000 permanent seats in grandstands circling the 2½-mile track and room for another 100,000 or so in the infield, where seating on the grass is on a first-come basis.

Miss Guthrie, 38, the first woman ever to enter the Indy 500, was unable to get her Vollstedt racer up to qualifying speed in the two weekends of qualifications. Instead, she will be driving in Sunday's World 600 stock car race at Charlotte, N.C., where she also is the first woman entrant.

The appearance of the 13-year sports car racing veteran at the threshhold of the ultimate challenge in motor sports — an all-male domain up to now — caused more than a few lifted eyebrows at first. But she impressed admirers and skeptics alike by her performance in a car that would have been difficult, if not impossible, for any driver to qualify.

And the acknowledged No. 1 superstar of championship racing — A. J. Foyt — gave Miss Guthrie the highest compliment by letting her take his backup Coyote out for a test run to prove she was capable of handling a quality machine. He later agreed, "She was."

Foyt is out to do some proving himself.

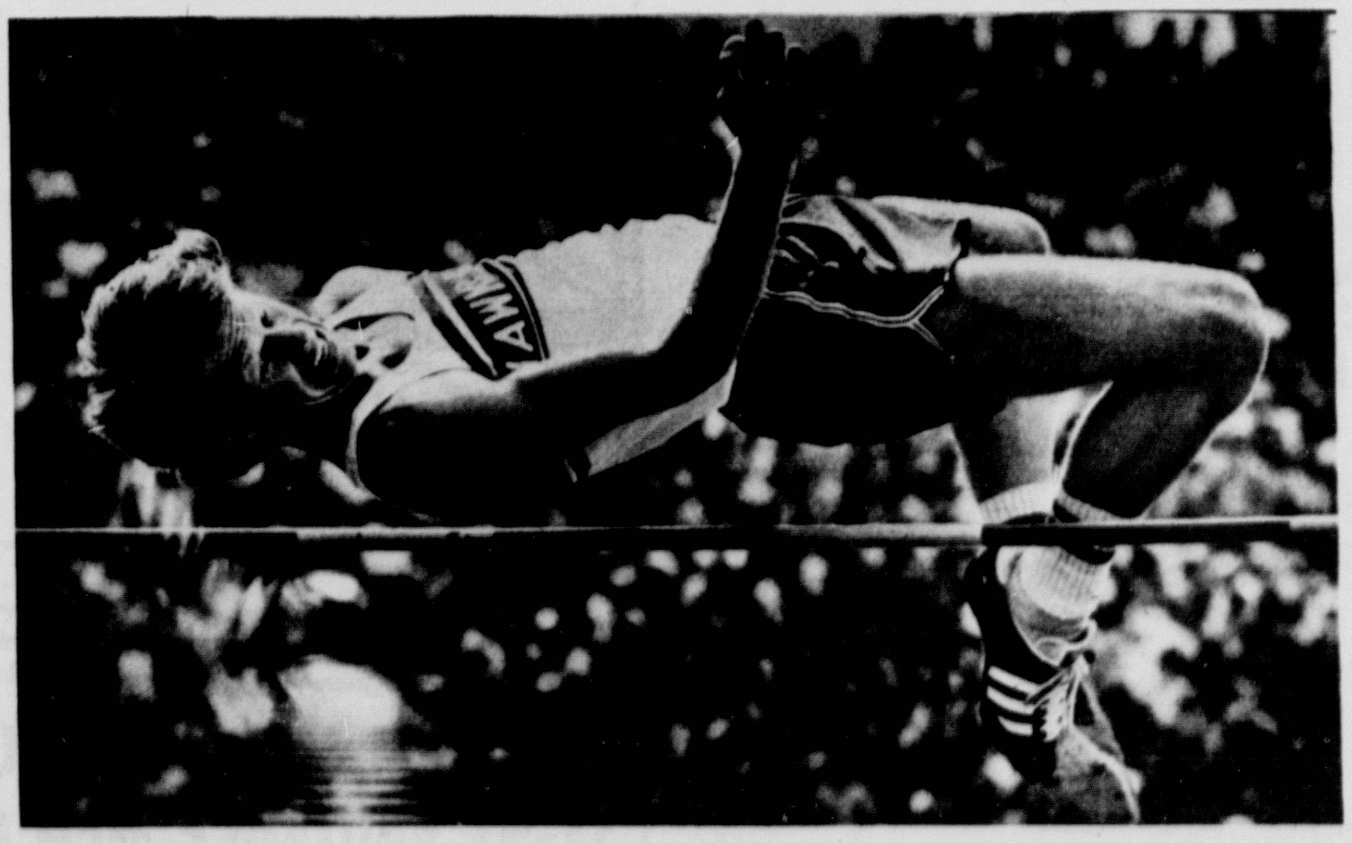
It's been 10 years since Foyt last won here, a decade of frustration in trying to become the first driver ever to win four Indy championships.

He was the USAC national driving champion for a record sixth time last year — nobody else has won it more than three times— and he captured the other two USAC 500—mile races at Ontario, Calif., and Pocono, Pa.

But the big prize of Indy eluded Foyt last year when a rainstorm gave Bobby Unser his second victory. Johnny Rutherford, the 1974 winner, finished second and Foyt, who won in 1961, 1964 and 1967, wound up third. All three were on their 174th laps when the race was halted.

Rutherford, who qualified at 188.957 miles per hour, will start Sunday's race in the pole position on the inside of the front row, a spot occupied by Foyt the past two years.

Foyt, who admittedly was not pleased with his qualifying speed of 185.261 m.p.h., will start in the middle of the second row, flanked by two-time winner Al Unser and Pancho Carter, the fourth-place finisher a year ago.



The Sikeston Bulldogs, with a record of 15-5, try again this afternoon and tonight to win the State Class AA baseball championship. Fishing problems discussed at Kimberling City

KIMBERLING CITY—Things have a way of evening up.

Bill Beissenherz, fisheries assistant for the Department of Conservation, had three fishing rods stolen from a boat on Table Rock Lake the evening before the second Annual Governor's Fishing Seminar here.

But using borrowed tackle the next day, he caught the largest fish of the get-together which earned him Gov. Christopher S. Bond's trophy.

The thief was highly selective, taking three rods, but leaving an ultralight and Beissenherz's tackle box. Not only that, he clipped off the Zara Spook lure on one of the rods.

That proved a blessing, for Beissenherz then went on the next day, using a borrowed reel and an extra rod and the same Zara Spook, to catch the 20.6 inch bass which weighed four pounds, 13 ounces.

Beissenherz went from there to land 42 pounds of bass during the weekend, all on the spared Zara Spook, and won a bass club tournament as well as the Governor's Trophy.

Nearly 100 outdoor writers, state officials and others involved in fisheries management gathered May 21-23 at Wilderness Point Resort near here for the seminar.

Fisheries biologists talked at night sessions about work on bass and other fish in Missouri and also took visitors on demonstrations of management gear, including the electrofishing boats used to stun fish so they can be weighed, measured and tagged.

Fred Vasey, crappie biologist for the Department gave tips on how to catch crappie, based on information he's picked up during studies on crappie mortality during the fish's first year of life.

One visitor said he'd noticed dead bass floating and theorized that they'd been hooked and released because of the 15-inch minimum length limit on Table Rock.

He asked if such mortality is acceptable since the idea of the length limit is to improve overall bass fishing.

"We feel that even if there is some mortality, we gain from the fish that are released and live," said Joe Dillard, chief of fisheries research. "We know that if the fisherman put his fish in hot oil they're not going to be caught again and we're willing to accept some loss to gain better overall bass fishing."

Arvil Ming, fisheries biologist working on large impoundment bass fishing, said he had not seen much mortality from bass being hooked.

Ming said plastic worms are harder on bass than plug or spinner type lures becaue they hook deeper. "But we're talking about a tough animal," he said. "Bass will survive handling that a lot of other fish would turn up and die at."

Ming has netted and tagged a thousand bass this spring. He said healthy bass frequently have plastic worms in their stomachs (which biologists can pump without harming the bass) and the fish aren't bothered by them.

The seminar was the second such sponsored by Governor Bond, an ardent fisherman. The first was at Lake of the Ozarks.

Governor Bond rode an electrofishing boat, as did everyone who wanted to, including the resort personnel. Overall, fishing was slow, but several fishermen--notably Charley Campbell, a Branson marine dealer -- caught nice keeper bass.

Littell gets first loss

ANAHEIM (AP) — Andy Etchebarren's run-scoring single capped a three-run California uprising in the ninth inning Saturday and gave the Angels a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

Trailing 2-0 entering the ninth and not having scored a run in 18 previous innings, the Angels pulled it out on a two-run triple by Ron Jackson and Etchebarren's two-out, game-winning hit.

Bobby Bonds opened the California ninth with an infield single and after Steve Mingori retired the next two batters, Mark Littell was summoned to face Bill Melton.

Melton walked, setting the stage for Jackson, who sent a line drive deep to right where Kansas City outfielder Al Cowens stumbled and then fell while trying to flag it down as the tying run scored. Etchebarren then singled up the middle for the winning run.

Sid Monge, 2-1, went all the way for the Angels, spacing nine hits.

Phoenix fans angry about 10:30 start

PHOENIX (AP) — It's a game that Phoenix' rabid basketball fans have been waiting two weeks for, but it's one that has drawn the wrath of city church-goers and ministers because of its starting time—10:30 a.m.

The focal point of attention is Sunday's third game of the National Basketball Association championship series between the Phoenix Suns and the Boston Celtics at Veterans Memorial Coliseum. The Celtics, 12-time NBA titleholders and leading 2-0 in the best-of-seven series, are seeking to become only the fourth club in league history to complete a four-game sweep. Game 4 will be at Phoenix Wednesday night.

The early starting time for Game 3 was forced upon the teams by CBS, which is televising the entire series nationally.

"If CBS says that's when we play, then that's when we'll play," Boston's JoJo White said. "We'll just have to make sure we get a good night's sleep and are ready to play."

While White was not disturbed by the early start, many Phoenix fans have been put in a dilemna—whether to choose church or basketball.

One minister wrote the Suns asking for a public statement which would express regret and assure that such scheduling be avoided in the future. He said he expected church attendance to drop Sunday.

Another minister said he was disappointed that CBS was not more sensitive to the religious community of Phoenix.

Meanwhile, the Suns have put the blame squarely on CBS. They said the network wanted the game played on May 30th at 10:30 a.m., even though the Suns had not offered Sunday as one of the days they preferred to play.

"It's the kind of thing you don't like to admit, but TV controls basketball. And when you're paying the kind of money they (CBS) pay, you can dictate," said Bob Machen, Suns business manager.

CBS, despite low ratings of NBA games this season, strengthened its position last week, by signing a new, lucrative two-year contract, plus a two-year option, with the league.

Reds win 6-5 over Dodgers

CINCINNATI (AP) — "It seemed they were reading my mind," said Los Angeles reliever Mike Marshall, who was battered by the Cincinnati Reds for the second straight game Saturday.

"Sometimes a hitter is better than you are no matter how good you are," Marshall said after the Reds rallied for three runs in the bottom of the ninth to down the Dodgers 6-5 and move back into first place in the National League's West Division.

Joe Morgan, despite an ailing back, drove in the winning run for the second straight day with a two-out single that put the Reds five percentage points in front of Los Angeles.

"Just playun 5he D.dbwa nu..8 awn, who had a thrbi$r and a triple Friday night after a week's rest. "That was a great lift for us. We haven't been coming from behind this year.

"That's the way it used to be—and that's the way it will be," added the All-S9ar second baseman. "We're ready to roll. We are getting our momentum together.

"I had something to prove. I felt I needed to do something after going hitless at Los Angeles two weeks ago when my back first started bothering me."

The Reds had roughed up Marshall for four runs in one inning Friday night and wasted no time in getting to him Saturday.

"Any time he gets on the mound we do our best to beat him," said Ken Griffey, who tripled home the tying run and then scored on Morgan's single. "That's the way we feel about him. He does a lot of talking."

The nationally televised triumph also lifted the Reds back into first place in the National League's West Division, five percentage points ahead of the Dodgers, who have dropped four of their last five games.

Los Angeles starter Rick Rhoden had settled down after falling behind 2-0 in the first inning but was relieved by Marshall, 3-2, after Dave Concepcion opened the ninth with a single, the 10th hit off Rhoden.

Cesar Geronimo greeted Marshall with a single and pinch hitter Ed Armbrister sacrificed. Concepcion scored on Pete Rose's infield out but Griffey tripled off the wall in right-center and scored on Morgan's single to center.

Tony Perez started Cincinnati's comeback with a solo homer in the eighth that made it a 5-3 allgame.

Bill Russell's bases-loaded single helped the Dodgers erase Cincinnati's early lead with three runs in the second inning. Joe Ferguson beat out an infield hit, Dusty Baker walked, Steve Yeager was hit by a pitch and Russell tied it up with a two-run single off Jack Billingham. After Rhoden's sacrifice, Dave Lopes' sacrifice fly scored the go-ahead run.

The Dodgers added a run in the fourth on Steve Garvey's solo homer and made it 5-2 in the fourth when Bill Buckner tripled home Russell, who had singled.

Cincinnati jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Griffey walked, stole second and scored on Morgan's double. George Foster, the National League's RBI leader, tripled home Morgan to extend his RBI streak to eight games, three short of Mel Ott's league record. Foster has driven in 19 runs in the last eight games while batting .500.

Rhoden, who tossed a three-hit shutout in his last start against Cincinnati, blanked the Reds from the first inning until Perez' homer in the eighth.

Smith's 8th homer gives Cardinals 3-2 victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Smith smashed a leadoff home run off New York reliever Ken Sanders in the 10th inning to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets Saturday night.

Smith, who entered the game batting .189, hit Sanders' second pitch of the game over the right-field fence for his eighth homer of the season.

Smith's blast provided St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky with his second victory in six decisions.

The Cardinals tied it 2-2 in the eighth. Bake McBride singled off Met starter Mickey Lolich and two outs later, Mike Anderson singled for his third hit of the game.

Lolich was replaced by Met relief ace Skip Lockwood, who walked pinch-hitter Ron Fairly to load the bases. Pinch-hitter Lou Brock then singled to tie the game but center fielder Del Unser's perfect throw to the plate nailed Anderson to end the threat.

The Mets had taken a 2-1 lead in the fifth when Unser doubled, took third on a groundout and scored on rookie Roy Staiger's single to center.

Each team scored a run in the fourth. The Cardinals produced an unearned run on a throwing error by Staiger, Lolich's balk and Hector Cruz' run-scoring double. The Mets countered with John Milner's fifth home run of the year, a solo shot over the right-field fence.

Willie Crawford, one of the National League's top hitters, went into the game batting .360, but struck out his first three times at bat.

The Cardinals threatened in the second when Ted Simmons singled and raced to third on Mike Anderson's single. But Lolich struck out Crawford for the first time, and got the second out of the inning on shortstop Mike Phillips' fine running catch in short right field. Lolich fanned Lee Richard to end the inning.

The Cardinals also threatened in the sixth on singles by Smith and Anderson. Then Crawford struck out for the third time and Hector Cruz popped to catcher Ron Hodges to end the threat.

Missouri's fishing governor, Christopher S. Bond, fishes with Bill Seibel (left), outdoor editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The occasion was the second annual Governor's Fishing Seminar which brought together outdoor communicators with state outdoor officials. This seminar was at Table Rock Lake. The first was at Lake of the Ozarks.

Fishing problems discussed at Kimberling City

KIMBERLING CITY—Things have a way of evening up.

Bill Beissenherz, fisheries assistant for the Department of Conservation, had three fishing rods stolen from a boat on Table Rock Lake the evening before the second Annual Governor's Fishing Seminar here.

But using borrowed tackle the next day, he caught the largest fish of the get-together which earned him Gov. Christopher S. Bond's trophy.

The thief was highly selective, taking three rods, but leaving an ultralight and Beissenherz's tackle box. Not only that, he clipped off the Zara Spook lure on one of the rods.

That proved a blessing, for Beissenherz then went on the next day, using a borrowed reel and an extra rod and the same Zara Spook, to catch the 20.6 inch bass which weighed four pounds, 13 ounces.

Beissenherz went from there to land 42 pounds of bass during the weekend, all on the spared Zara Spook, and won a bass club tournament as well as the Governor's Trophy.

Nearly 100 outdoor writers, state officials and others involved in fisheries management gathered May 21-23 at Wilderness Point Resort near here for the seminar.

Fisheries biologists talked at night sessions about work on bass and other fish in Missouri and also took visitors on demonstrations of management gear, including the electrofishing boats used to stun fish so they can be weighed, measured and tagged.

Fred Vasey, crappie biologist for the Department gave tips on how to catch crappie, based on information he's picked up during studies on crappie mortality during the fish's first year of life.

One visitor said he'd noticed dead bass floating and theorized that they'd been hooked and released because of the 15-inch minimum length limit on Table Rock.

He asked if such mortality is acceptable since the idea of the length limit is to improve overall bass fishing.

"We feel that even if there is some mortality, we gain from the fish that are released and live," said Joe Dillard, chief of fisheries research. "We know that if the fisherman put his fish in hot oil they're not going to be caught again and we're willing to accept some loss to gain better overall bass fishing."

Arvil Ming, fisheries biologist working on large impoundment bass fishing, said he had not seen much mortality from bass being hooked.

Ming said plastic worms are harder on bass than plug or spinner type lures becaue they hook deeper. "But we're talking about a tough animal," he said. "Bass will survive handling that a lot of other fish would turn up and die at."

Ming has netted and tagged a thousand bass this spring. He said healthy bass frequently have plastic worms in their stomachs (which biologists can pump without harming the bass) and the fish aren't bothered by them.

The seminar was the second such sponsored by Governor Bond, an ardent fisherman. The first was at Lake of the Ozarks.

Governor Bond rode an electrofishing boat, as did everyone who wanted to, including the resort personnel. Overall, fishing was slow, but several fishermen--notably Charley Campbell, a Branson marine dealer -- caught nice keeper bass.

Littell gets first loss

ANAHEIM (AP) — Andy Etchebarren's run-scoring single capped a three-run California uprising in the ninth inning Saturday and gave the Angels a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

Trailing 2-0 entering the ninth and not having scored a run in 18 previous innings, the Angels pulled it out on a two-run triple by Ron Jackson and Etchebarren's two-out, game-winning hit.

Bobby Bonds opened the California ninth with an infield single and after Steve Mingori retired the next two batters, Mark Littell was summoned to face Bill Melton.

Melton walked, setting the stage for Jackson, who sent a line drive deep to right where Kansas City outfielder Al Cowens stumbled and then fell while trying to flag it down as the tying run scored. Etchebarren then singled up the middle for the winning run.

Sid Monge, 2-1, went all the way for the Angels, spacing nine hits.

Phoenix fans angry about 10:30 start

PHOENIX (AP) — It's a game that Phoenix' rabid basketball fans have been waiting two weeks for, but it's one that has drawn the wrath of city church-goers and ministers because of its starting time—10:30 a.m.

The focal point of attention is Sunday's third game of the National Basketball Association championship series between the Phoenix Suns and the Boston Celtics at Veterans Memorial Coliseum. The Celtics, 12-time NBA titleholders and leading 2-0 in the best-of-seven series, are seeking to become only the fourth club in league history to complete a four-game sweep. Game 4 will be at Phoenix Wednesday night.

The early starting time for Game 3 was forced upon the teams by CBS, which is televising the entire series nationally.

"If CBS says that's when we play, then that's when we'll play," Boston's JoJo White said. "We'll just have to make sure we get a good night's sleep and are ready to play."

While White was not disturbed by the early start, many Phoenix fans have been put in a dilemna—whether to choose church or basketball.

One minister wrote the Suns asking for a public statement which would express regret and assure that such scheduling be avoided in the future. He said he expected church attendance to drop Sunday.

Another minister said he was disappointed that CBS was not more sensitive to the religious community of Phoenix.

Meanwhile, the Suns have put the blame squarely on CBS. They said the network wanted the game played on May 30th at 10:30 a.m., even though the Suns had not offered Sunday as one of the days they preferred to play.

"It's the kind of thing you don't like to admit, but TV controls basketball. And when you're paying the kind of money they (CBS) pay, you can dictate," said Bob Machen, Suns business manager.

CBS, despite low ratings of NBA games this season, strengthened its position last week, by signing a new, lucrative two-year contract, plus a two-year option, with the league.

Reds win 6-5 over Dodgers

CINCINNATI (AP) — "It seemed they were reading my mind," said Los Angeles reliever Mike Marshall, who was battered by the Cincinnati Reds for the second straight game Saturday.

"Sometimes a hitter is better than you are no matter how good you are," Marshall said after the Reds rallied for three runs in the bottom of the ninth to down the Dodgers 6-5 and move back into first place in the National League's West Division.

Joe Morgan, despite an ailing back, drove in the winning run for the second straight day with a two-out single that put the Reds five percentage points in front of Los Angeles.

"Just playun 5heD.dbwa nu..8 awn, who had a thrbi$r and a triple Friday night after a week's rest. "That was a great lift for us. We haven't been coming from behind this year.

"That's the way it used to be—and that's the way it will be," added the All-S9ar second baseman. "We're ready to roll. We are getting our momentum together.

"I had something to prove. I felt I needed to do something after going hitless at Los Angeles two weeks ago when my back first started bothering me."

The Reds had roughed up Marshall for four runs in one inning Friday night and wasted no time in getting to him Saturday.

"Any time he gets on the mound we do our best to beat him," said Ken Griffey, who tripled home the tying run and then scored on Morgan's single. "That's the way we feel about him. He does a lot of talking."

The nationally televised triumph also lifted the Reds back into first place in the National League's West Division, five percentage points ahead of the Dodgers, who have dropped four of their last five games.

Los Angeles starter Rick Rhoden had settled down after falling behind 2-0 in the first inning but was relieved by Marshall, 3-2, after Dave Concepcion opened the ninth with a single, the 10th hit off Rhoden.

Cesar Geronimo greeted Marshall with a single and pinch hitter Ed Armbrister sacrificed. Concepcion scored on Pete Rose's infield out but Griffey tripled off the wall in right-center and scored on Morgan's single to center.

Tony Perez started Cincinnati's comeback with a solo homer in the eighth that made it a 5-3 allgame.

Bill Russell's bases-loaded single helped the Dodgers erase Cincinnati's early lead with three runs in the second inning.

Joe Ferguson beat out an infield hit, Dusty Baker walked, Steve Yeager was hit by a pitch and Russell tied it up with a two-run single off Jack Billingham. After Rhoden's sacrifice, Dave Lopes' sacrifice fly scored the go-ahead run.

The Dodgers added a run in the fourth on Steve Garvey's solo homer and made it 5-2 in the fourth when Bill Buckner tripled home Russell, who had singled.

Cincinnati jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Griffey walked, stole second and scored on Morgan's double. George Foster, the National League's RBI leader, tripled home Morgan to extend his RBI streak to eight games, three short of Mel Ott's league record. Foster has driven in 19 runs in the last eight games while batting .500.

Rhoden, who tossed a three-hit shutout in his last start against Cincinnati, blanked the Reds from the first inning until Perez' homer in the eighth.

Smith's 8th homer gives Cardinals 3-2 victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Smith smashed a leadoff home run off New York reliever Ken Sanders in the 10th inning to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets Saturday night.

Smith, who entered the game batting .189, hit Sanders' second pitch of the game over the right-field fence for his eighth homer of the season.

Smith's blast provided St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky with his second victory in six decisions.

The Cardinals tied it 2-2 in the eighth. Bake McBride singled off Met starter Mickey Lolich and two outs later, Mike Anderson singled for his third hit of the game.

Friday night's game

Curtis and Cardinals blank New York 6-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Starting pitchers normally get an opportunity to practice their craft once or twice a week. That gives them a lot of innings to do crossword puzzles, catch up on fan mail or grab some sleep.

John Curtis seems to have spent a lot of that free time contemplating his craft, formulating his thoughts on the strange subject of throwing a baseball to a man supposedly as adept at hitting it as the pitcher is at throwing it.

"This game can humble you in a hurry," said Curtis, who has tasted both sweet and sour in his nine years of professional baseball. "Sometimes you have great stuff, and you last an inning. Other times, you have nothing and you go nine.

"The key to winning is not mustering up your best stuff, but using your best most effectively."

Curtis, 3-4, practiced what he preached Friday night, tossing a three-hitter— that was a no-hitter for six innings — as the St. Louis Cardinals pounded the New York Mets 6-0 on Willie Crawford's grand slam home run and Bake McBride's two-run homer.

This has been a season of extremes for Curtis, a thoughtful, affable 28-year-old who is learning the guitar and "entertains notion of writing sports one day."

Going into the game, Curtis had been cuffed around for an average of 4.68 earned runs per nine innings. But he was in control Friday night.

"I'm not the kind of pitcher who can throw two pitches over the plate consistently," said Curtis. "Tonight that was offset by my ability to take command of certain situations."

Curtis allowed a walk in th first and another one in the second but nothing else until Dave Kingman stroked a ground single to left on a 3-2 fastball to lead off the seventh.

"The odds on pitching a no-hitter are always a million to one," Curtis said. "Throughout the game, the odds remain the same."

Kingman said he was looking for a fastball, "and that's what I got. A sinking fastball. I was just looking to meet the ball."

Curtis said he didn't want the pitch back, regardless of the results.

"You don't second guess yourself in a situation where you gave it your best shot," he said. "I've been around long enough to see how unique a set of circumstances are needed for a no-hitter."

Two outs after Kingman's hit, Roy Staiger drilled a single to left. But Curtis quelled the threat by getting Mike Phillips to ground out.

"Even a minimum of defeatist thinking can cause a pitcher problems," Curtis said. "I can't underestimate my belief in myself. Your confidence can never flag. You must maintain an aggressive attitude. You've got to convince yourself you're better than the guy with the bat in his hands.

"I can't tell you how many times my confidence has been challenged. But a champion is the one who gets of the mat.

"I've been knocked down several times but you can bet this kid won't be down for long."

The home runs by McBride and Crawford matched the Cardinals' total home run production for their 21 games thus far at home in St. Louis.

Baker seeks fourth win in World 600

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — While Janet Guthrie attracted most of the attention here last week by becoming the first woman to qualify for a major stock car race, Buddy Baker was preparing quietly for what he hopes will be his unprecedented fourth World 600 victory.

A victory Sunday also could give the 35-year-old Charlotte native a membership in the exclusive NASCAR million-dollar club, which has only four members—Richard Petty, David Pearson, Bobby Allison and Cale Yarborough.

Any member of this select group could win the 17th annual 600-mile race over the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway, although Pearson's Mercury appears to be a slight favorite by virtue of his 159.132 mile an hour qualifying speed which won him the pole position.

Petty will start beside Pearson in the $249,155 race after qualifying at 158.702 m.p.h.

Yarborough qualified at 157.968 for the third spot, followed in order by Allison's 157.659, Dave Marcis' 157.650 and Baker's 157.114.

"The money part I never look at until the end of the season," Baker remarked when asked if the possibility of pushing his winnings to $1 million would influence his plans for Sunday's race.

"I think in your hometown you don't need much incentive when you're in front of the people you see every day," said Baker, whose career winnings total $971,700. "I think that's enough incentive. I run my car as well as I can each race, and just being close to a million dollars doesn't enter the picture.

"I'd like to make it where I would be a five-time winner at my home track."

The 220-pound, 6-foot-5 Baker, who looks more like a football player than a driver, is the only driver to win three World 600s.

He has won one National 500 here for a total of four victories at the Charlotte track, a feat matched only by Fred Lorenzen, who won two 600s and two 500s.

Baker, who drives a Ford prepared by Bud Moore, has run 406 assorted races during his career and last year was his best for earnings—$169,971.

ASU athlete sets polevault record

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Earl Bell of Arkansas State University shattered the world pole vault record Saturday night with an 18-7¼ vault at the U.S. Track and Field Federation championships in Wichita.

Bell's vault was a full inch better than the 1975 record set by Dave Roberts of the Florida Track Club and far above Bell's own meet record of 17-8 set here a year ago.

Bell cleared the bar on his first try after Terry Porter of Tyler, Tex., Junior College failed to make the height.

Bell, whose best vault this year was 18-3½, rolled out of the cushion and pranced around the field as a crowd of more than 8,900 jumped to its feet and cheered the new world mark.

SeMo Indians prepare for NCAA College World Series

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Southeast Missouri State University's baseball team, champions of the MIAA and winners of the NCAA midwest regional, will return to the diamond Monday to begin preparations for their first appearance ever in the NCAA College World Series.

The Indians of Coach Joe Uhls, who won last week's regional with three straight victories, will meet Sacred Heart University of Bridgeport, Conn., in the opening game of the national championship tournament in Springfield, Ill., on June 5. The time has not been decided, but it is likely to be 1 or 1:30 p.m.

How far Southeast Missouri State goes in the national event may depend, as it has all season, on pitching. Last week in downing Mankato, Minn., State University 8-3, and the University of Nebraska--Omaha 12-4 and 4-2, three Indian pitchers hurled complete games and gave up only 15 hits.

Of course, if the Indian hitters can continue the pace they set in the regional tourney, it would be of considerable help to the mound corps. This was the big surprise of the tournament, as the Tribe batted a lusty .372. The Indians hit only .228 in 36 regular season games.

Southeast Missouri State's batters reached opposing hurlers for 42 hits, including 10 extra base blows.

Coach Uhls' leading batter in the series was senior Mark Amick of Illmo, who banged out seven hits, including three doubles, in 12 trips for a .583 average. This, plus Amick's performance in the field and the fact that he played each game with pain in both knees, resulted in most valuable player honors for him.

Amick led the MIAA in stolen bases this spring, but because of his bad knees, he did not attempt to steal during the regional.

Three other Indian batters also hit safely in more than half of their plate appearances in the regional.

Senior catcher and designated hitter Skip Morgan of St. Louis Mehlville went 5 for 9 for a .556 average, junior third baseman Burtch Smiley of Cape Girardeau was 6 for 11 for a .546 average, and sophomore left fielder Bill Criscione of Manchester was 8 for 15 for a .534 average.

Criscione had one of only two home runs in the three-day series.

About the only difficulty which Southeast Missouri State's pitchers had was a periodic inability to find the plate.

Senior Dave Jorn of O'Fallon, Ill., walked only two in his first game victory over Mankato State. But sophomore Trae Hastings of Cape Girardeau walked nine in his 12-4 win over Nebraska-Omaha, and senior Tim Smith of Poplar Bluff passed seven in his 4-2 win over the same club.

Both Hastings and Smith walked in runs.

Of the 15 hits which the opposition collected, only two were for extra bases, and about a third of them were o the infield variety.

Maltbie leads Memorial by two

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Roger Maltbie had bogeyed three in a row. He'd seen his once-commanding five-shot lead dwindle to two strokes. He'd tip-toed barefoot through weeds and water to a minor miracle of a par on the 18th hole.

"Any time you ever get to thinking you're a better player than it is a golf course, it's gonna jump up and grab you," he said.

"All you can do is keep plugging away at it and hope you get out alive."

With that in mind, Maltbie placed little faith in his two-stroke lead going into Sunday's final round of the new, $200,000 Memorial Golf Tournament.

"It is such a humbling course I might go out there and shoot 87," he said. "I don't expect it, but it could happen.

"I'll just hang on to one end of the golf club and swing it and see what happens," said the chipper young man after his varied escapades that included one whistle-producing barefoot jaunt into a weed-choked creek.

Maltbie, a 25-year-old tour sophomore, survived the menacing monster that is Muirfield despite his intimate acquaintance with the woods and water, traps and trees that characterize the 7,072 yards of Ohio countryside that Jack Nicklaus designed and constructed into the Muirfield Village Golf Club course.

The mustachioed Maltbie, a two-time winner as the 1975 rookie of the year, broke into a happy, high-stepping victory dance after his minor miracle of a par on the tough 18th hole put him through three rounds with a 212 total, four under par on what has proved to be the most difficult, most treacherous course the touring pros encounter all year.

It wasn't easy.

He had it four under par for the day at one point—then bogeyed three in a row. He lost three shots to Rod Funseth on the 15th hole. But he came right back with a birdie on the 17th then contrived a bare-foot par on the 18th. His tee shot got into knee-deep weeds in the creek. He shed shoes and socks, went after it on tip-toes, played his next down the fairway, chipped on and dropped a 10-foot putt for par that left him in command.

"I was extremely fortunate to get out of that one," he said.

Don Bies managed a one-under-par 71 that left him in second at 214. Funseth was the only other man in subpar figures after 54 holes of this tournament that seems destined to become one of golf's classic events. He had a wildly erratic 72 that included four birdies, an eagle, four bogeys, a double bogey and eight pars. He was one under at 215.

Jerry McGee and Alan Tapie were at par 216. McGee matched par 72 and Tapie shot 71.

Joe Niekro homers off brother Phil

ATLANTA (AP) — Houston pitcher Joe Niekro smashed a home run off his brother Phil as the Astros edged the Atlanta Braves 4-3 Saturday night.

It wasn't known whether it was the first time a major leaguer had homered off his brother, but it was the first home run of Joe Niekro's career.

The solo blast over the left-field fence in the seventh inning gave Houston a 2-2 tie and the Astros broke on top 4-2 in the eighth.

Cesar Cedeno started the rally with a walk and scored on a double by Jose Cruz. Ken Boswell got his third single of the game, scoring Cruz.

Atlanta cut into the margin in its half of the eighth when Jim Wynn smashed his fifth home run of the season.

The Braves scored two unearned runs in the first inning, taking advantage of two errors by first baseman Bob Watson, a passed ball and a wild pitch.

Houston's first run also was unearned. It came in the second inning when Cruz scored on an error by Atlanta first baseman Darrell Evans, who dropped a pickoff throw.

The victory for Joe Niekro, 3-5, gave him a 3-2 edge in head-to-head competition with his brother. Phil's record fell to 3-4.

Guerrero traded

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Saturday that minor league shortstop Mario Guerrero has been traded to the California Angels in exchange for catcher Ed Jordan and a player to be named later.

Guerrero, who has been hitting .240 for the Cards' Tulsa farm club, was with the parent club briefly last year. He is to report directly to the Angels.

Jordan is to report to the Cards' farm club in Little Rock, Ark.

SeMo Indians prepare for NCAA College World Series

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Southeast Missouri State University's baseball team, champions of the MIAA and winners of the NCAA midwest regional, will return to the diamond Monday to begin preparations for their first appearance ever in the NCAA College World Series.

The Indians of Coach Joe Uhls, who won last week's regional with three straight victories, will meet Sacred Heart University of Bridgeport, Conn., in the opening game of the national championship tournament in Springfield, Ill., on June 5. The time has not been decided, but it is likely to be 1 or 1:30 p.m.

How far Southeast Missouri State goes in the national event may depend, as it has all season, on pitching. Last week in downing Mankato, Minn., State University 8-3, and the University of Nebraska--Omaha 12-4 and 4-2, three Indian pitchers hurled complete games and gave up only 15 hits.

Of course, if the Indian hitters can continue the pace they set in the regional tourney, it would be of considerable help to the mound corps. This was the big surprise of the tournament, as the Tribe batted a lusty .372. The Indians hit only .228 in 36 regular season games.

Southeast Missouri State's batters reached opposing hurlers for 42 hits, including 10 extra base blows.

Coach Uhls' leading batter in the series was senior Mark Amick of Illmo, who banged out seven hits, including three doubles, in 12 trips for a .583 average. This, plus Amick's performance in the field and the fact that he played each game with pain in both knees, resulted in most valuable player honors for him.

Amick led the MIAA in stolen bases this spring, but because of his bad knees, he did not attempt to steal during the regional.

Three other Indian batters also hit safely in more than half of their plate appearances in the regional.

Senior catcher and designated hitter Skip Morgan of St. Louis Mehlville went 5 for 9 for a .556 average, junior third baseman Burtch Smiley of Cape Girardeau was 6 for 11 for a .546 average, and sophomore left fielder Bill Criscione of Manchester was 8 for 15 for a .534 average.

Criscione had one of only two home runs in the three-day series.

About the only difficulty which Southeast Missouri State's pitchers had was a periodic inability to find the plate.

Senior Dave Jorn of O'Fallon, Ill., walked only two in his first game victory over Mankato State. But sophomore Trae Hastings of Cape Girardeau walked nine in his 12-4 win over Nebraska-Omaha, and senior Tim Smith of Poplar Bluff passed seven in his 4-2 win over the same club.

Both Hastings and Smith walked in runs.

Of the 15 hits which the opposition collected, only two were for extra bases, and about a third of them were o the infield variety.

Maltbie leads Memorial by two

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Roger Maltbie had bogeyed three in a row. He'd seen his once-commanding five-shot lead dwindle to two strokes. He'd tip-toed barefoot through weeds and water to a minor miracle of a par on the 18th hole.

"Any time you ever get to thinking you're a better player than it is a golf course, it's gonna jump up and grab you," he said.

"All you can do is keep plugging away at it and hope you get out alive."

Friday night's game

Curtis and Cardinals blank New York 6-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Starting pitchers normally get an opportunity to practice their craft once or twice a week. That gives them a lot of innings to do crossword puzzles, catch up on fan mail or grab some sleep.

John Curtis seems to have spent a lot of that free time contemplating his craft, formulating his thoughts on the strange subject of throwing a baseball to a man supposedly as adept at hitting it as the pitcher is at throwing it.

"This game can humble you in a hurry," said Curtis, who has tasted both sweet and sour in his nine years of professional baseball. "Sometimes you have great stuff, and you last an inning. Other times, you have nothing and you go nine.

"The key to winning is not mustering up your best stuff, but using your best most effectively."

Curtis, 3-4, practiced what he preached Friday night, tossing a three-hitter— that was a no-hitter for six innings — as the St. Louis Cardinals pounded the New York Mets 6-0 on Willie Crawford's grand slam home run and Bake McBride's two-run homer.

This has been a season of extremes for Curtis, a thoughtful, affable 28-year-old who is learning the guitar and "entertains notion of writing sports one day."

Going into the game, Curtis had been cuffed around for an average of 4.68 earned runs per nine innings. But he was in control Friday night.

"I'm not the kind of pitcher who can throw two pitches over the plate consistently," said Curtis. "Tonight that was offset by my ability to take command of certain situations."

Curtis allowed a walk in th first and another one in the second but nothing else until Dave Kingman stroked a ground single to left on a 3-2 fastball to lead off the seventh.

"The odds on pitching a no-hitter are always a million to one," Curtis said. "Throughout the game, the odds remain the same."

Kingman said he was looking for a fastball, "and that's what I got. A sinking fastball. I was just looking to meet the ball."

Curtis said he didn't want the pitch back, regardless of the results.

"You don't second guess yourself in a situation where you gave it your best shot," he said. "I've been around long enough to see how unique a set of circumstances are needed for a no-hitter."

Two outs after Kingman's hit, Roy Staiger drilled a single to left. But Curtis quelled the threat by getting Mike Phillips to ground out.

"Even a minimum of defeatist thinking can cause a pitcher problems," Curtis said. "I can't underestimate my belief in myself. Your confidence can never flag. You must maintain an aggressive attitude. You've got to convince yourself you're better than the guy with the bat in his hands.

"I can't tell you how many times my confidence has been challenged. But a champion is the one who gets of the mat.

"I've been knocked down several times but you can bet this kid won't be down for long."

The home runs by McBride and Crawford matched the Cardinals' total home run production for their 21 games thus far at home in St. Louis.

Baker seeks fourth win in World 600

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — While Janet Guthrie attracted most of the attention here last week by becoming the first woman to qualify for a major stock car race, Buddy Baker was preparing quietly for what he hopes will be his unprecedented fourth World 600 victory.

A victory Sunday also could give the 35-year-old Charlotte native a membership in the exclusive NASCAR million-dollar club, which has only four members—Richard Petty, David Pearson, Bobby Allison and Cale Yarborough.

Any member of this select group could win the 17th annual 600-mile race over the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway, although Pearson's Mercury appears to be a slight favorite by virtue of his 159.132 mile an hour qualifying speed which won him the pole position.

Petty will start beside Pearson in the $249,155 race after qualifying at 158.702 m.p.h.

Yarborough qualified at 157.968 for the third spot, followed in order by Allison's 157.659, Dave Marcis' 157.650 and Baker's 157.114.

"The money part I never look at until the end of the season," Baker remarked when asked if the possibility of pushing his winnings to $1 million would influence his plans for Sunday's race.

"I think in your hometown you don't need much incentive when you're in front of the people you see every day," said Baker, whose career winnings total $971,700. "I think that's enough incentive. I run my car as well as I can each race, and just being close to a million dollars doesn't enter the picture.

"I'd like to make it where I would be a five-time winner at my home track."

The 220-pound, 6-foot-5 Baker, who looks more like a football player than a driver, is the only driver to win three World 600s.

He has won one National 500 here for a total of four victories at the Charlotte track, a feat matched only by Fred Lorenzen, who won two 600s and two 500s.

Baker, who drives a Ford prepared by Bud Moore, has run 406 assorted races during his career and last year was his best for earnings—$169,971.

ASU athlete sets polevault record

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Earl Bell of Arkansas State University shattered the world pole vault record Saturday night with an 18-7¼ vault at the U.S. Track and Field Federation championships in Wichita.

Bell's vault was a full inch better than the 1975 record set by Dave Roberts of the Florida Track Club and far above Bell's own meet record of 17-8 set here a year ago.

Bell cleared the bar on his first try after Terry Porter of Tyler, Tex., Junior College failed to make the height.

Bell, whose best vault this year was 18-3½, rolled out of the cushion and pranced around the field as a crowd of more than 8,900 jumped to its feet and cheered the new world mark.

HOLDER OF NEW RECORD is this employe at Capitol Magnetic Products in Winchester, Va., where a record album starts as a smooth, highly-polished aluminum disc. When coated, this master disc receives sound impressions from the musician in the recording studio. Several steps later the impressions are stamped into vinyl. Last year, more than 276 million albums and 204 million single records were purchased around the world.

Piggly Wiggly 1917-1976

Newly remodeled in the early 30's in Tennessee, this Piggly Wiggly Store opened its doors in 1917 with the new self-service supermarket approach. The Sikeston Piggly Wiggly on West Malone next to Two Tony's is scheduled to open soon. Charles Collom, 910 Moore, is the manager.

Piggly Wiggly to open soon

The newest supermarket in the Piggly Wiggly food system will open soon in Sikeston, according to store manager Charles Collom.

Stocking of merchandise is already under way at the newly constructed 22,000 square feet building on West Malone Avenue. Collom said some wiring remains to be done inside the store and the parking lot paving is incomplete, but otherwise "it's just a matter of finishing up."

Approximately 50 people will be employed at the new facility which will feature its own bakery and delicatessen.

The Piggly Wiggly grocery stores originated in Memphis, Tenn. in 1916 and are acknowledged as the first stores to sell food by the self-service method. There are now more than 1,000 Piggly Wiggly stores operating in 30 states. These stores include voluntary groups, cooperative warehouses, chains of stores and one or two single stores.

The Sikeston Piggly Wiggly store is the newest of an eight-store corporation - operated chain which has other locations in Arkansas and Mississippi. The Sikeston facility, owned by corporation president Kenneth Storey of 22 Green Meadows, is the first of this particular chain to be operated in Missouri.

Piggly Wiggly visits

Margaret Russell, 22, of 220 Crowe Place, portrays Piggly Wiggly as she visits with Mrs. Brenda Adcock's kindergarten class to promote the store's opening in Sikeston.

Scarcity, surplus are determinates in buying, selling

By CROCKETT SCOTT

Scarcity or surplus should be prime considerations in determining purchase or sell orders for stocks, bonds, antique furniture, cocoa futures or what have you.

In emphasizing this elemental approach to the concept of profit in the market place, a veteran St. Louis trader notes that scarcity is not evident currently in the instance of a great many stocks and bonds although he concedes there are exceptions.

While scarcity is needed for short term profits in an equity or personal or real property, its very absence may be a signa, however, for the patient investor (or trader) to buy, he said.

Surplus may be due to ignorance, the St. Louis trader reminded. The good points of the product or service may not be known generally.

In a work of art the artist may be unknown at the moment, but the potential may be there for greatness, and if so, the knowledgeable purchaser of his works may be rewarded generously as the artist's ability becomes known.

The potential for a corporation may be obscure to the public, consequently, its common stock often goes begging --- for a time.

"Smart money" scratches the surface; finds out about prospects for the future; near term or long. If indications are favorable, a commitment of capital to equity is made.

Getting in ahead of the stampede (when the price is right) is the path to success in whatever you buy, the old trader emphasizes. And knowing when to get out is equally important.

When the "snatching throng" moves in, it's time to unload. "I don't worry if the price goes on up after I've unloaded," the old trader said. "Let the other fellow make a profit too."

The stock market is but one of many market forprofit to a great many traders.

Coins provide a good example; so too limited issue stamps.

Collectors items in a great variety of classifications have so far outperformed the stock market during the past couple of decades, though there are exception (one of them being Xerox).

Stamps, paintings, antique pieces "seem to just go up and up and up," observes a Nashville stockbroker, "while most equities rise and fall in response to even the most remote development.

"You can live with a beautiful landscape; enjoy it every day; and also be happy with the fact that often it is rising in value every day. So you don't have to worry and wonder whether you should sell it now or hold onto it a while longer -- like you have to do or should do with a common stock; -- even with such a fine quality equity as General Motors."

"In New England not so many years ago American Woolen Mills was considered the bluest of the blue chips," a Boston customers' man recalled recently.

"The company had its warehouses stuffed with blue serge, and its mills were humming making more. The blue serge suit was here to say. and then suddenly men no longer bought blue serge suits. American Woolen Mills went down the drain.

"And when I think of what happened to this staid old giant of corporate 'security', I cannot help but glance again at the current success of Levi Strauss and Blue Bell. They are making a killing on denim. But how long will it last?

"I would sell both equities; and not worry about how much longer denin will last."

In Cincinnati there are SEC registered security analysts who like particularly equity in companies serving the medical profession and those corporations who have holdings in real estate.

They suggest that SEC — registered security analysts check out for the potential investor such common stocks as those of Technicon, Hycel and Reeves Telecommunications, all of which are in the speculative category.

Roberts is appointed to marketing staff

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Jon Roberts has been appointed to the marketing staff of Chateau Girardeau, the full service retirement community to be developed at Independence Street and Mt. Auburn Road, according to Mrs. E. Lawrence Bahn, president of Cape Retirement Community, Inc.

Roberts, 57, has been a resident of Cape Girardeau since 1925. Educated in the Cape Girardeau public schools, he served in the Air corps for four and a half years during World War II, and has been active in civic and community affairs.

He has served on the Planning and Zoning Commission, United Way and other civic drives, and is a member and past president of the Breakfast Optimist Club. He and his wife, Frances, have four children and are members of the Grace United Methodist Church.

Prior to joining the staff at Chateau Girardeau, Roberts was employed by Grace United Methodist Church as administrative assistant to the pastor, the Rev. Howard D. Hardeman.

"Mr. Roberts will be working toward the goals necessary to enable Chateau Girardeau to become a reality," said Mrs. Bahn, "Following which he will remain with the facility in an administrative capacity."

Mrs. Bahn concluded by saying that chateau Girardeau is now accepting applications for residency so that construction on the project may begin when 50 per cent of the apartments have been reserved.

Persons interested in Chateau Girardeau may inspect a two-bedroom apartment located at the project site at Independence Street and Mt. Auburn Road and receive complete information about apartment availability, services provided and requirements for occupancy.

NAMA names marketing man of year

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Harold Noren, senior vice president of DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., a large internationally recognized seed company, has been named marketing man of the year by the National Association of Agri-Marketers, NAMA, at a meeting of more than 900 ag marketers and advertisers from throughout the United states.

The seed executive becomes the 16th recipient of the association's annual award recognizing superior performance and leadership in agricultural marketing, according to a NAMA spokesman.

As senior vice president of DeKalb, Noren directs marketing, production and research of the seed division, which traditionally contributes more than 75 per cent of the company's pre-tax profits.

During the time Noren has been involved in seed marketing, the company's sales sky-rocket from $26 million in 1961 to well over $200 million today. Sales of hybrid seed corn alone more than tripled in that time, reflecting, he says, the quality and productive ability of the company's products to the American farmer.

Noren is a promoter of feed grains and believes farmers should get a "fair shake" on the world market. Currently, he is chairman of the U.S. Feed Grains Council, an organization which seeks to expand feed grain markets in the United states and overseas.

While his job responsibilities seem to keep him tied to an office, in meetings or traveling to anf from meetings, Noren confesses that his real love is "to be out in the cornfield." In fact, he says he still gets a kick out of walking the hundreds of company research fields across the country each year.

And it seems that the slowly balding, red-haired executive's foresight into crop production changes and new marketing patterns has payed off nicely for DeKalb and the farmer over the years.

"The challenge of marketing," he says, "is to figure out what will become common place farm practices by 1985 and keep research appraised of these future trends.

Nothing could be better proof of Noren's insight into marketing than the company's latest endeavors in the hybrid wheat industry. DeKalb has played a major role in the research and development of hybrid wheat which could have an enormous impact on world food supplies if hybrids become as popular among farmers as hybrid corn and sorghum are now.

How is agricultural marketing changing in the mid 70's? Noren describes the change as a quiet revolution in crop production which holds "big of implications to farmers, agribusiness firms and the politics of agriculture." He compares this move with the change that took place in the poultry industry from on-the-farm- flocks to large egg producers. "Today, large operators are more and m ore willing to become larger still and take more risk than smaller farmers in order toprofit from efficiencies of large-scale production," he says.

"The big difference now," he points out, "is that this good land and climate is in place and these farmers aren't going to be moving to another part of the country as the poultryman once did.

"Probably the most important single factor to a marketer's success," Noren told the group, "is to decide on the product a farmer needs to produce more food and make more profit and then market it at a price he can afford."

The strength of this conviction showed up in a recent DeKalb development that has further positioned the company as a seed industry leader.

Several years ago, a tiny insect called the greenbug moved from wheat to sorghum causing a serious threat to the future of U.S. grain sorghum production. Noren encouraged research to move rapidly in developing plant resistance to this pest. Farmers in many areas became increasingly disappointed about producing grain sorghum when the bug mutated into a form unaffected by commonly used chemical controls.

Once resistant parent lines were developed by the company's research department, Noren, understanding the significance this research breakthrough could mean to farmers and his company, asked his production crew to go all out in providing large quantities of parent seed used to make-up the new hybrids. The result? More than 25 per cent of the United states sorghum acreage this year will be planted to the company's hybrids carrying resistance to this insect. and according to one seed expert, it will have an untold effect on the amount of grain produced and should save grain sorghum growers millions of dollars during the next few years.

After graduating from the University of Illinois in 1939, Noren worked for the Federal Land Bank. In 1947, he joined DeKalb as a district sales manager in Illinois and later moved into poultry sales in Minnesota, Texas and Illinois.

Today, it appears his farming interests are as keen as ever. Noren, who was born and reared on his parents farm just 10 miles west of Taylorsville, Illinois, still makes regular visits home to keep up to date with current farming trends.

"It keeps me in touch with reality," he grins, "and tuned-in to today's farm problems."

Marketing network to establish fund

The Homes For Living Network has announced plans to establish a permanent scholarship trust fund, the first such project undertaken by a national network of REALTORS. The marketing network is comprised of over 1,300 affiliated real estate offices in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

The announcement was made at the Homes For Living Network's annual convention held recently in Atlanta, Ga. Making the announcement was George P. Shafran, of Arlington, Va., network president. HFL Network director of education, Dave Stone, was principally involved in developing the fund's concept. Stone is a nationally known author, lecturer and consultant in real estate, and is president of the Stone Institute, Inc., Scotts Valley, Calif. He has been associated with the Homes For Living Network since 1968. Locally, Elliott- Newton Real estate & Insurance, 411 N. Kingshighway, is affiliated with the network.

The objective of the fund would be to establish a permanent method of perpetuating the memory of Homes for Living Network members in scholarships awarded in their names to qualified students of real estate in high schools, and perhaps, colleges. Target date for establishment of the fund would be Jan. 1, 1977.

Since the announcement of the fund's establishment, $10,000 has been pledged. Stone pledged $2,500, as has Shafran. In addition, Saul Krawll, Homes For Living Network board chairman, of St. Louis, has personally pledged $2,500 with an additional $2,500 pledge made in name of the Homes For Living Network which is headquartered in St Louis. It is anticipated that the fund within one year's time would accrue approximately $100,000.

The number of scholarships awarded annually and the amount of each would be predetermined by its administrators. This of course, would be dependent upon the size of the fund, the amount of principle available in any given year, and the earnings thereafter.

Contributions to the fund would be made by Homes For Living Network members and their relatives to perpetuate the memory of those individuals living and deceased who deserve recognition. Homes for Living affiliates offer numerous programs and services for the American home buying and selling public. In a related statement Stone said, "I have had the dream that some point in the history of the Homes for Living Network we could establish a permanent scholarship trust fund. This fund would grant scholarships to deserving young men and women who want to pursue careers in real estate for real estate related fields.

"By establishing this fund the homes for Living Network, a family of REALTORS, will be sharing its education, marketing concepts, and general interests in professionalism with our exciting industry."

Former resident to exhibit work

Cleda Curtis Jamieson

An exhibit of portraits by Cleda Curtis Jamieson of Clarksville, Ark., will be shown from 10 to 11 a.m. June 4 and 5 at the Holiday Inn, Highway 61 South.

Mrs. Jamieson is a graduate of Oran High School. She studied at Washington University and University of Missouri- St. Louis and Blackhawk College in Moline, Ill. She received her bachelor's degree in art from College of the Ozarks in Clarksville.

She did graduate work at Portland (Ore.) State University and taught protrait painting at the College of the Ozarks.

Mrs. Jamieson's work has been exhibited throughout the United States and is in many collections in this country and abroad.

Southwestern Bell to begin improvement program in Morehouse

Southwestern Bell has begun work on a service improvement program in the Morehouse exchange which will eliminate eight-party telephone lines, according to Dee Hurt, Southwestern Bell manager.

"Added facilities here will make it possible to offer Morehouse customers telephone lines which have no more than four parties per line," Hurt said. "And this improvement will benefit all Morehouse customers since persons calling former eight- party numbers are less likely to encounter busy signals."

Hurt said that in most cases, the added cost of better service is nominal compared to the improvement and added privacy the change in service offers.

Basic monthly charge for 4-party service in Morehouse is $5.20, plus tax and mileage, if applicable, Hurt said.

She also stated that each customer in Morehouse who had an 8-party line will be contacted personally by a Southwestern Bell representative to discuss the change in detail.

"We hope our Morehouse customers are pleased with this service improvement," she added.

Gideon-Anderson was sold by Sikeston firm

The sale of the Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. in Gideon was handled by Dacus Brothers Real Estate, 105 E. Kathleen Ave., in Sikeston.

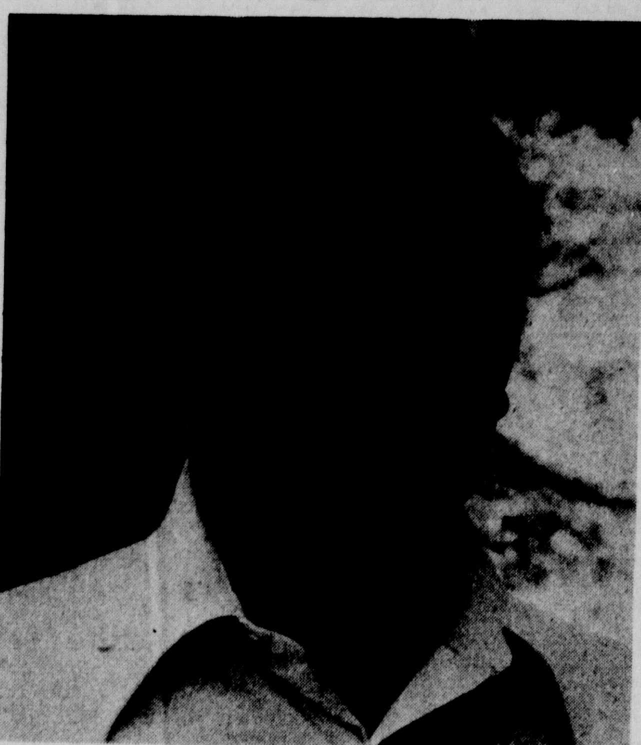
The company was sold at an undisclosed price to Charles N. Harris of Cape Girardeau. His two sons-in-law Clyde Nenninger Jr. and Jim Vangilder of Cape Girardeau will join the management of the firm. They will take possession of the company on June 1.

Nenninger is vice president and manager of Harris Financial Services and Vangilder is operations manager of Atlas Plastics Corporation of Cape Girardeau.

Harris is quoted as saying the plant personnel will remain unchanged and the products produced in the firms box plant will be the same.

He did say, however, that he expects to try several new ideas to increase sales and productivity of the firm.

Receives promotion



Charles E. Pollard

The Missouri State Highway Department has announced the promotion of Mr. Charles E. (Ed) Pollard from Assistant District Construction Engineer in the District 10 office in Sikeston to District Survey & Plans Engineer in the District 9 office in Willow Springs effective June 1, 1976.

Mr. Pollard is a 1959 Civil Engineering graduate from the Missouri University at Rolla. He joined the Department on a permanent basis in 1959. Before coming to Sikeston in 1969 he worked as an Engineer Inspector and a Resident Engineer in the Division of Construction at Rolla, Springfield, and Jefferson City.

Ed, his wife Marie, and their five children reside at 614 Carroll in Sikeston.

The Piggly Wiggly grocery stores originated in Memphis, Tenn. in 1916 and are acknowledged as the first stores to sell food by the self-service method. There are now more than 1,000 Piggly Wiggly stores operating in 30 states. These stores include voluntary groups, cooperative warehouses, chains of stores and one or two single stores.

The Sikeston Piggly Wiggly store is the newest of an eight-store corporation - operated chain which has other locations in Arkansas and Mississippi. The Sikeston facility, owned by corporation president Kenneth Storey of 22 Green Meadows, is the first of this particular chain to be operated in Missouri.

Scarcity, surplus are determinates in buying, selling

By CROCKETT SCOTT

Scarcity or surplus should be prime considerations in determining purchase or sell orders for stocks, bonds, antique furniture, cocoa futures or what have you.

In emphasizing this elemental approach to the concept of profit in the market place, a veteran St. Louis trader notes that scarcity is not evident currently in the instance of a great many stocks and bonds although he concedes there are exceptions.

While scarcity is needed for short term profits in an equity or personal or real property, its very absence may be a signa, however, for the patient investor (or trader) to buy, he said.

Surplus may be due to ignorance, the St. Louis trader reminded. The good points of the product or service may not be known generally.

In a work of art the artist may be unknown at the moment, but the potential may be there for greatness, and if so, the knowledgeable purchaser of his works may be rewarded generously as the artist's ability becomes known.

The potential for a corporation may be obscure to the public, consequently, its common stock often goes begging --- for a time.

"Smart money" scratches the surface; finds out about prospects for the future; near term or long. If indications are favorable, a commitment of capital to equity is made.

Getting in ahead of the stampede (when the price is right) is the path to success in whatever you buy, the old trader emphasizes. And knowing when to get out is equally important.

When the "snatching throng" moves in, it's time to unload. "I don't worry if the price goes on up after I've unloaded," the old trader said. "Let the other fellow make a profit too."

The stock market is but one of many market forprofit to a great many traders.

Coins provide a good example; so too limited issue stamps.

Collectors items in a great variety of classifications have so far outperformed the stock market during the past couple of decades, though there are exception (one of them being Xerox).

Stamps, paintings, antique pieces "seem to just go up and up and up," observes a Nashville stockbroker, "while most equities rise and fall in response to even the most remote development.

"You can live with a beautiful landscape; enjoy it every day; and also be happy with the fact that often it is rising in value every day. So you don't have to worry and wonder whether you should sell it now or hold onto it a while longer -- like you have to do or should do with a common stock; -- even with such a fine quality equity as General Motors."

"In New England not so many years ago American Woolen Mills was considered the bluest of the blue chips," a Boston customers' man recalled recently.

"The company had its warehouses stuffed with blue serge, and its mills were humming making more. The blue serge suit was here to say. and then suddenly men no longer bought blue serge suits. American Woolen Mills went down the drain.

"And when I think of what happened to this staid old giant of corporate 'security', I cannot help but glance again at the current success of Levi Strauss and Blue Bell. They are making a killing on denim. But how long will it last?

"I would sell both equities; and not worry about how much longer denin will last."

In Cincinnati there are SEC registered security analysts who like particularly equity in companies serving the medical profession and those corporations who have holdings in real estate.

They suggest that SEC — registered security analysts check out for the potential investor such common stocks as those of Technicon, Hycel and Reeves Telecommunications, all of which are in the speculative category.

Roberts is appointed to marketing staff

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Jon Roberts has been appointed to the marketing staff of Chateau Girardeau, the full service retirement community to be developed at Independence Street and Mt. Auburn Road, according to Mrs. E. Lawrence Bahn, president of Cape Retirement Community, Inc.

Roberts, 57, has been a resident of Cape Girardeau since 1925. Educated in the Cape Girardeau public schools, he served in the Air corps for four and a half years during World War II, and has been active in civic and community affairs.

He has served on the Planning and Zoning Commission, United Way and other civic drives, and is a member and past president of the Breakfast Optimist Club. He and his wife, Frances, have four children and are members of the Grace United Methodist Church.

Prior to joining the staff at Chateau Girardeau, Roberts was employed by Grace United Methodist Church as administrative assistant to the pastor, the Rev. Howard D. Hardeman.

"Mr. Roberts will be working toward the goals necessary to enable Chateau Girardeau to become a reality," said Mrs. Bahn, "Following which he will remain with the facility in an administrative capacity."

Mrs. Bahn concluded by saying that chateau Girardeau is now accepting applications for residency so that construction on the project may begin when 50 per cent of the apartments have been reserved.

Persons interested in Chateau Girardeau may inspect a two-bedroom apartment located at the project site at Independence Street and Mt. Auburn Road and receive complete information about apartment availability, services provided and requirements for occupancy.

NAMA names marketing man of year

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Harold Noren, senior vice president of DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., a large internationally recognized seed company, has been named marketing man of the year by the National Association of Agri-Marketers, NAMA, at a meeting of more than 900 ag marketers and advertisers from throughout the United states.

The seed executive becomes the 16th recipient of the association's annual award recognizing superior performance and leadership in agricultural marketing, according to a NAMA spokesman.

As senior vice president of DeKalb, Noren directs marketing, production and research of the seed division, which traditionally contributes more than 75 per cent of the company's pre-tax profits.

During the time Noren has been involved in seed marketing, the company's sales sky-rocket from $26 million in 1961 to well over $200 million today. Sales of hybrid seed corn alone more than tripled in that time, reflecting, he says, the quality and productive ability of the company's products to the American farmer.

Noren is a promoter of feed grains and believes farmers should get a "fair shake" on the world market. Currently, he is chairman of the U.S. Feed Grains Council, an organization which seeks to expand feed grain markets in the United states and overseas.

While his job responsibilities seem to keep him tied to an office, in meetings or traveling to anf from meetings, Noren confesses that his real love is "to be out in the cornfield." In fact, he says he still gets a kick out of walking the hundreds of company research fields across the country each year.

And it seems that the slowly balding, red-haired executive's foresight into crop production changes and new marketing patterns has payed off nicely for DeKalb and the farmer over the years.

"The challenge of marketing," he says, "is to figure out what will become common place farm practices by 1985 and keep research appraised of these future trends.

Nothing could be better proof of Noren's insight into marketing than the company's latest endeavors in the hybrid wheat industry. DeKalb has played a major role in the research and development of hybrid wheat which could have an enormous impact on world food supplies if hybrids become as popular among farmers as hybrid corn and sorghum are now.

How is agricultural marketing changing in the mid 70's? Noren describes the change as a quiet revolution in crop production which holds "big of implications to farmers, agribusiness firms and the politics of agriculture." He compares this move with the change that took place in the poultry industry from on-the-farm- flocks to large egg producers. "Today, large operators are more and more willing to become larger still and take more risk than smaller farmers in order toprofit from efficiencies of large-scale production," he says.

"The big difference now," he points out, "is that this good land and climate is in place and these farmers aren't going to be moving to another part of the country as the poultryman once did.

"Probably the most important single factor to a marketer's success," Noren told the group, "is to decide on the product a farmer needs to produce more food and make more profit and then market it at a price he can afford."

The strength of this conviction showed up in a recent DeKalb development that has further positioned the company as a seed industry leader.

Several years ago, a tiny insect called the greenbug moved from wheat to sorghum causing a serious threat to the future of U.S. grain sorghum production. Noren encouraged research to move rapidly in developing plant resistance to this pest. Farmers in many areas became increasingly disappointed about producing grain sorghum when the bug mutated into a form unaffected by commonly used chemical controls.

Once resistant parent lines were developed by the company's research department, Noren, understanding the significance this research breakthrough could mean to farmers and his company, asked his production crew to go all out in providing large quantities of parent seed used to make-up the new hybrids. The result? More than 25 per cent of the United states sorghum acreage this year will be planted to the company's hybrids carrying resistance to this insect. and according to one seed expert, it will have an untold effect on the amount of grain produced and should save grain sorghum growers millions of dollars during the next few years.

After graduating from the University of Illinois in 1939, Noren worked for the Federal Land Bank. In 1947, he joined DeKalb as a district sales manager in Illinois and later moved into poultry sales in Minnesota, Texas and Illinois.

Today, it appears his farming interests are as keen as ever. Noren, who was born and reared on his parents farm just 10 miles west of Taylorsville, Illinois, still makes regular visits home to keep up to date with current farming trends.

"It keeps me in touch with reality," he grins, "and tuned-in to today's farm problems."

Marketing network to establish fund

The Homes For Living Network has announced plans to establish a permanent scholarship trust fund, the first such project undertaken by a national network of REALTORS. The marketing network is comprised of over 1,300 affiliated real estate offices in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

The announcement was made at the Homes For Living Network's annual convention held recently in Atlanta, Ga. Making the announcement was George P. Shafran, of Arlington, Va., network president. HFL Network director of education, Dave Stone, was principally involved in developing the fund's concept. Stone is a nationally known author, lecturer and consultant in real estate, and is president of the Stone Institute, Inc., Scotts Valley, Calif. He has been associated with the Homes For Living Network since 1968. Locally, Elliott- Newton Real estate & Insurance, 411 N. Kingshighway, is affiliated with the network.

The objective of the fund would be to establish a permanent method of perpetuating the memory of Homes for Living Network members in scholarships awarded in their names to qualified students of real estate in high schools, and perhaps, colleges. Target date for establishment of the fund would be Jan. 1, 1977.

Since the announcement of the fund's establishment, $10,000 has been pledged. Stone pledged $2,500, as has Shafran. In addition, Saul Krawll, Homes For Living Network board chairman, of St. Louis, has personally pledged $2,500 with an additional $2,500 pledge made in name of the Homes For Living Network which is headquartered in St Louis. It is anticipated that the fund within one year's time would accrue approximately $100,000.

The number of scholarships awarded annually and the amount of each would be predetermined by its administrators. This of course, would be dependent upon the size of the fund, the amount of principle available in any given year, and the earnings thereafter.

Contributions to the fund would be made by Homes For Living Network members and their relatives to perpetuate the memory of those individuals living and deceased who deserve recognition. Homes for Living affiliates offer numerous programs and services for the American home buying and selling public. In a related statement Stone said, "I have had the dream that some point in the history of the Homes for Living Network we could establish a permanent scholarship trust fund. This fund would grant scholarships to deserving young men and women who want to pursue careers in real estate for real estate related fields.

"By establishing this fund the homes for Living Network, a family of REALTORS, will be sharing its education, marketing concepts, and general interests in professionalism with our exciting industry."

Former resident to exhibit work

Cleda Curtis Jamieson

An exhibit of portraits by Cleda Curtis Jamieson of Clarksville, Ark., will be shown from 10 to 11 a.m. June 4 and 5 at the Holiday Inn, Highway 61 South.

Mrs. Jamieson is a graduate of Oran High School. She studied at Washington University and University of Missouri- St. Louis and Blackhawk College in Moline, Ill. She received her bachelor's degree in art from College of the Ozarks in Clarksville.

She did graduate work at Portland (Ore.) State University and taught protrait painting at the College of the Ozarks.

Mrs. Jamieson's work has been exhibited throughout the United States and is in many collections in this country and abroad.

Southwestern Bell to begin improvement program in Morehouse

Southwestern Bell has begun work on a service improvement program in the Morehouse exchange which will eliminate eight-party telephone lines, according to Dee Hurt, Southwestern Bell manager.

"Added facilities here will make it possible to offer Morehouse customers telephone lines which have no more than four parties per line," Hurt said. "And this improvement will benefit all Morehouse customers since persons calling former eight- party numbers are less likely to encounter busy signals."

Hurt said that in most cases, the added cost of better service is nominal compared to the improvement and added privacy the change in service offers.

Basic monthly charge for 4-party service in Morehouse is $5.20, plus tax and mileage, if applicable, Hurt said.

She also stated that each customer in Morehouse who had an 8-party line will be contacted personally by a Southwestern Bell representative to discuss the change in detail.

"We hope our Morehouse customers are pleased with this service improvement," she added.

The sale of the Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. in Gideon was handled by Dacus Brothers Real Estate, 105 E. Kathleen Ave., in Sikeston.

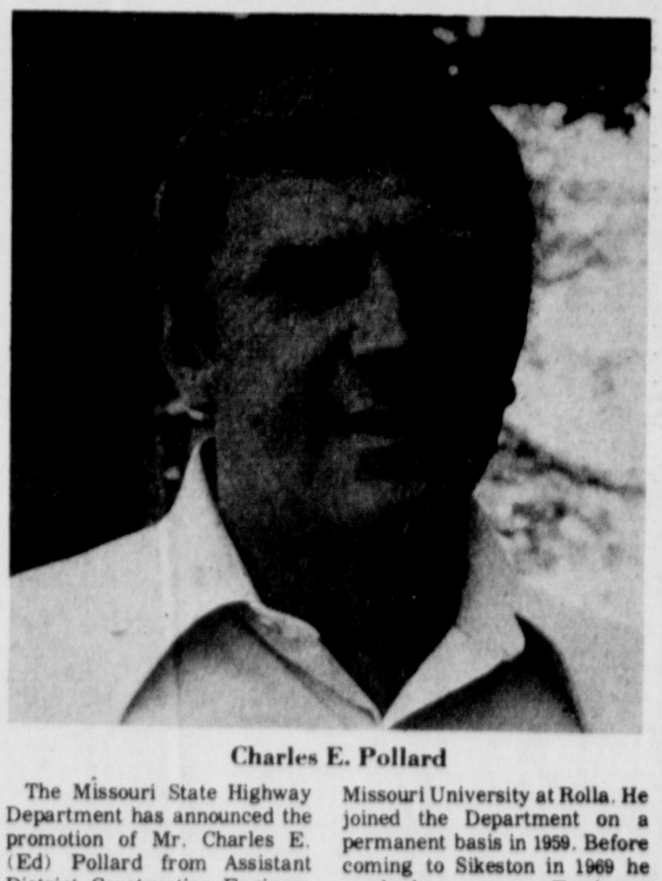
The company was sold at an undisclosed price to Charles N. Harris of Cape Girardeau. His two sons-in-law Clyde Nenninger Jr. and Jim Vangilder of Cape Girardeau will join the management of the firm. They will take possession of the company on June 1.

Nenninger is vice president and manager of Harris Financial Services and Vangilder is operations manager of Atlas Plastics Corporation of Cape Girardeau.

Harris is quoted as saying the plant personnel will remain unchanged and the products produced in the firms box plant will be the same.

He did say, however, that he expects to try several new ideas to increase sales and productivity of the firm.

Receives promotion



Charles E. Pollard

The Missouri State Highway Department has announced the promotion of Mr. Charles E. (Ed) Pollard from Assistant District Construction Engineer in the District 10 office in Sikeston to District Survey & Plans Engineer in the District 9 office in Willow Springs effective June 1, 1976.

Mr. Pollard is a 1959 Civil Engineering graduate from the Missouri University at Rolla. He joined the Department on a permanent basis in 1959. Before coming to Sikeston in 1969 he worked as an Engineer Inspector and a Resident Engineer in the Division of Construction at Rolla, Springfield, and Jefferson City.

Ed, his wife Marie, and their five children reside at 614 Carroll in Sikeston.

Grain futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat, oats and corn futures declined from 1 to 3 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday, but soybeans closed mostly higher.

Soybean meal gained up to $3.50 a ton whole soybean oil rose some 30 points, or nearly one third cent a pound. Iced broilers were mixed after a very lightly traded session.

The effect of rain the last 48 hours on newly planted crops served futures two ways. Initially, there were reports that rain fell Thursday, and over night into Friday over broad areas from the Northern Plains down into the lower Midwest. Other sections of the country also received precipitation, but most of the nation's grain is grown in the central area of the Middle West.

With the rain report, widespread selling sent soybeans 11 cents lower, whest nearly 7 and corn and oats about 4. Prices maintained these lower levels through midsession. Shortly afterward new buying was noted in soybeans, meal and oil and other grains then rose also.

The buying forced early shorts to cover positions and many turned long. It was then learned that the overnight rain was not quite so beneficial in some areas where concern had developed over a lack of moisture on the new crops.

Independent strength on oil and meal along with the weather tended to work soybeans higher except in the November option which lost 1 cent.

At the close, soybeans were 1 cent a bushel lower to 4 higher, Juky 5.79½; corn was ½ to 3 lower, July 2.91; wheat was ½ to 1 lower, July 3.56¾ and oats were unchanged to 2 lower, July 1.72½.

Book review

THE RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES AND VOTERS

By Burt Neuborne and Arthur Eisenberg. (Avon 28159. $1.50. Non-Fiction.)

THE RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES AND VOTERS is a comprehensive American Civil Liberties Union guide to the rights of candidates at ever level of office from municipal school boards to the Presidency. Drawing examples from our present legal system - including actual court cases and post-Watergate legislation, the authors examine residency requirements, petitions of nomination, loyalty oaths, campaign contributions and the very- often thin line between what is and is not legal for today's office- seeker.

In addition, this sourcebook explores the rulings that effect the rights of voters including literacy tests, mail registration and re-districting. THE RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES AND VOTERS, an Avon original, features an extensive examination of the controversial Federal Election Act of 1974 and the challenges that have been raised against it. This book is one of a series of ACLU handbooks made available by Avon Books. Others include The Rights of Gay People, The Rights of Hospital Patients, the Rights of Reporters, The Rights of teachers, The Rights of the Poor, The Rights of Mental Patients, The Rights of Women, and The Rights of Servicemen.

Gasoline is used more efficiently at steady speeds which makes freeway driving almost twice as economical as driving in city traffic.

Grain futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat, oats and corn futures declined from 1 to 3 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday, but soybeans closed mostly higher.

Soybean meal gained up to $3.50 a ton whole soybean oil rose some 30 points, or nearly one third cent a pound. Iced broilers were mixed after a very lightly traded session.

The effect of rain the last 48 hours on newly planted crops served futures two ways. Initially, there were reports that rain fell Thursday, and overnight into Friday over broad areas from the Northern Plains down into the lower Midwest. Other sections of the country also received precipitation, but most of the nation's grain is grown in the central area of the Middle West.

With the rain report, widespread selling sent soybeans 11 cents lower, whest nearly 7 and corn and oats about 4. Prices maintained these lower levels through midsession. Shortly afterward new buying was noted in soybeans, meal and oil and other grains then rose also.

The buying forced early shorts to cover positions and many turned long. It was then learned that the overnight rain was not quite so beneficial in some areas where concern had developed over a lack of moisture on the new crops.

Independent strength on oil and meal along with the weather tended to work soybeans higher except in the Novenber option which lost 1 cent.

At the close, soybeans were 1 cent a bushel lower to 4 higher, Juky 5.79½; corn was ½ to 3 lower, July 2.91; wheat was ½ to 1 lower, July 3.56¾ and oats were unchanged to 2 lower, July 1.72½.

THE RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES AND VOTERS

By Burt Neuborne and Arthur Eisenberg. (Avon 28159. $1.50. Non-Fiction.)

THE RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES AND VOTERS is a comprehensive American Civil Liberties Union guide to the rights of candidates at ever level of office from municipal school boards to the Presidency. Drawing examples from our present legal system - including actual court cases and post-Watergate legislation, the authors examine residency requirements, petitions of nomination, loyalty oaths, campaign contributions and the very- often thin line between what is and is not legal for today's office- seeker.

In addition, this sourcebook explores the rulings that effect the rights of voters including literacy tests, mail registration and re-districting. THE RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES AND VOTERS, an Avon original, features an extensive examination of the controversial Federal Election Act of 1974 and the challenges that have been raised against it. This book is one of a series of ACLU handbooks made available by Avon Books. Others include The Rights of Gay People, The Rights of Hospital Patients, the Rights of Reporters, The Rights of teachers, The Rights of the Poor, The Rights of Mental Patients, The Rights of Women, and The Rights of Servicemen.

Gasoline is used more efficiently at steady speeds which makes freeway driving almost twice as economical as driving in city traffic.

We attended the Warren Hearnes for Senator dinner, Saturday, May 22. We enjoyed the food, Master of Ceremonies, the Presentation of Colors, Pledge of Allegiance, the National Anthem, the Invocation, and the dinner. But what we didn't enjoy was too damn much singing by the barber shop quartet. Now if they would have sang one song or two songs and quit I think it would have been alright, but I am glad that Warren had sense enough not to talk too long and make too many speeches. Sincerely I had a good evening.

WORLD FOOD PICTURE BRIGHTER

"Scare stories of world shortfalls and famines are not helpful — they are untrue and an overreaction. We are not approaching a time when the world must decide which nations are to survive. The future is much more hopeful."

So said Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz during his recent world trip. Speaking in Madrid, Sprain, Butz explained that "at the time of the (Rome) World Food Conference in November 1974, there was enormous, almost hysterical concern about the world food situation ... Since that conference, however, world concern has become less acute."

Five reasons Butz believes the food picture is better include:

1. A "reaction away from the 'crisis' publicity" of 1974 which exaggerated the world food problem. "It has been 18 months, and the world food situation has improved, not worsened."

2. "Record food crops in the United States in 1975 and the prospect of good crops again in 1976."

3. "A five per cent increase in agricultural production by developing countries in 1975..."

4. "Actions taken by governments since the World Food Conference." Among them, the U.S. has enlarged its food aid program, and other supplying countries have promised increased food aid.

5. A total $5 billion was suggested in Rome as a needed boost from donor nations to developing nations. Although it then appeared an unlikely goal, said Butz, "By the end of this year, we think that commitments from the donor nations and the new international Agricultural Development Fund will reach that $5 billion goal."

The Secretary emphasized that "this is not to say that the world has solved its food problem." World food stocks remain low, production this year is off somewhat, and population trends indicate the world will have to nearly double its food output by the end of the century to feed all its people.

Yet there is hope in the fact that, as Butz points out, nations have the capacity and — more important perhaps — the will to mutually commit a portion of their resources to help solve this dilemma which has hung over man since the beginning of time.

THE FATHER OF OUR COUNTRY

WASHINGTON— On the 200th anniversary of the United States, it is only fair to speculate how George Washington would do if his presidential campaign was being managed by some of the people who are involved with today's campaigns.

"George, you're a very popular figure, but the fact you won the war for us doesn't necessarily mean you'll be elected as the first President of the United States. We're going to have to work on your image."

"What do you suggest?"

"Well, for a starter, you're going to have to get rid of those wooden teeth. We're going to have to get you some ivory ones that shine so when you smile everyone can see them."

"I have no intention of smiling. I hate to smile. Have you ever seen one painting of me smiling?"

"All right, forget the teeth. We need a slogan that will catch the imagination of the 13 states."

"How about 'Vote for a man who has never been to Washington'?"

"You are Washington, George."

"I meant Washington, D.C."

"There is no Washington, D.C. It won't be named that until after you die. If you're elected, you're going to have to live in New York and Philadelphia."

"Well, I'm not sure I want to be President if I can't live in Washington, D.C."

"It doesn't make any difference where you live. The important thing is to get you elected as the first President of the United States."

"I'm not certain I want to be the first President of the United States."

"But don't you see that if you are, you will go down in history as the 'Father of Our Country.' If you don't go for it, John Adams will. We have to launch a 'Stop Adams Campaign,' and you're the only one who can do it."

"He's not a bad fellow."

"George, would you want the capital of the United States to be called Adams, D.C.?"

"No, I guess not. What do you want me to do?"

"First, we have to show that you're completely honest. The question is, how do we do it?"

"What if I say that if I am elected, I will never lie to the American people."

"That's good, but how do we dramatize it?"

"Well, I never told anyone this story. But when I was a kid, we had this cherry tree on our plantation and I went out with an ax and chopped it down. It was my father's favorite tree, and he was really mad, so he said, 'George, do you know who chopped down my cherry tree?' I still had the ax in my hand so I figured I'd better tell the truth and said, 'I did it father'' -- and he whaled the living daylights out of me, just for one lousy cherry tree."

"That's beautiful. We'll put out a press release on that story right away. The papers will eat it up. Anything else you can tell us that will help the campaign?"

"I once threw a silver dollar across the Potomac."

"You'd better not talk about that. It might give the taxpayers the impression you're willing to throw away their money."

"Wait a minute. Let's not reject that out of hand. Suppose we say George threw a silver collar across the Potomac and then swam over to retrieve it. It would show he really cared for a buck."

"But, gentlemen, that would be a lie."

"Look, George, every President of the United States is going to have to lie to the people sooner or later. If you start a precedent of absolutely no lying, no one will ever be able to govern the country."

"I hadn't thought of that. Okay, you can say I swam over and got it back."

"Great, we'll leak it to the papers. Now what about detente with the Indians?"

"What about it?"

"We'll say you're for better relations with the Indians, but detente is a two-way street. If they want to buy grain from us, they're going to have to give us Ohio."

"Why do we need Ohio?"

"We need Ohio, just in case John Adams wins the primary in Pennsylvania."

CULTURAL PRIDE A POSSIBL[illegible]

A slip of the lip has sunk more than one presidential candidate's ship, and if his remark about "ethnic purity" doesn't scuttle Jimmie Carter, it won't be for want of his rivals trying to make the most of it.

Interestingly enough, the people who presumably should have been most offended by the Georgian's statement—black Americans—are not the ones who are keeping the controversy alive.

For the record, what Carter said in South Bend, Ind., the other day, was:

"I have nothing against the community that's made up of people who are Polish or Czechoslovakian or French-Canadian or blacks who are trying to maintain the ethnic purity of their neighborhoods. This is a natural inclination on the part of people..."

Later, in Indianapolis, he added: "I would never, though, condone any sort of discrimination against, say, a black family, or any other family, from moving into that neighborhood. But I don't think government ought deliberately to try to break down an ethnically oriented community—deliberately by injecting into it a member of another race. This is contrary to the best interest of the community. It creates disharmony. It creates hatred."

Had Carter used any other word than "purity"—had he said "ethnic character" or "ethnic integrity"—at most a small squall rather than a hurricane would have broken over his head and those who were so quick to denounce him might even have reflected that what he really said was [illegible] worth saying.

What a departure it would have been if some of the other Democratic aspirants had risen just a bit above politics-as-usual to point out that everybody makes verbal goofs and that Carter's unfortunate choice of words should be understood in the context in which they were made.

All those who jumped on Jimmie Carter should be given ten lashes with a wet kluski and required to read a timely and authoritative new book on the history and present status of America's white ethnic—"Pursuing the American Dream," by Richard Krickus (published by Anchor Books, also available in hardcover from Indiana University Press).

He was moved to write the book, says Krickus, by the "appalling ignorance" about working Americans (which most ethnics are) among academics, politicians, government bureaucrats, Capitol Hill aides and radical community activists. And, one might add, among George Wallace's "pointyheaded liberals" who are seldom affected by the wrenching social changes they demand of others.

One thing Krickus attempts to do is set the record straight on alleged white ethnic racism, and he cites abundant evidence to dispute the widespread notion that white workers in general and certain ethnic groups in particular are more likely to oppose black bids for racial justice than other segments of the white population.

Since the New Deal, he writes, the white ethnics have given the bulk of their votes to the Democratic party and have supported legislation vital to the welfare of needy Americans. Without their support, the progressive coalition necessary to come to grips with our nation's most pressing problems is doomed to failure.

One reason a lot of blacks still like Jimmy Carter may be that they realize what social "anchor points," to use Krickus' term, the white ethnic urban concentrations are and that the development of the same sense of community cohesiveness and cultural pride among blacks will go a long way toward solving their, and the country's, problems.

In any event, it is going to take more than an error in phraseology to stop any candidate who can win the allegiance of both groups.

SOMETHING EXTRA REALLY COUNTS

Successful merchants have always known it is necessary to give customers a little something extra to keep them coming back. For nearly 100 years, trading stamps have been one of the most effective promotional devices used by business to attract and hold customers.

Statistics show that over 100 million people in the United States like trading stamps, and two thires of all households in all income levels save them. In fact, surveys indicate that stamp savers outnumber the stamp supply nowadays. This is true for a variety of reasons. Many of the stamp outlets, of course, used to be service stations, but the Mideast oil embargo resulted in more customers than gasoline, and numerous station operators subsequently dropped their promotional efforts. Retail food stores were another major source of trading stamps for the great majority of consumers until the trend of discounting as a means of attracting customers cut heavily into this stamp savers' source of supply. But if you are a stamp collector--cheer up. They will be back. Inflation has hit the family grocery bill with particular force. With food prices high and rising at the stores, more people are likely to go where stamps are available to do their grocery shopping. The necessities of life take most of the family budget, and trading stamps, to a greater degree than ever before, provide a way of automatic saving for some of the extras that make life more pleasant.

Good products, good prices and attention to service combined with constructive and effective advertising and promotion are part and parcel of running a successful business in a competitive free marketplace. It has always been so. And in these days when inflation bites deeply into each family's supply of spendable dollars, many businesses--from bowling alleys to banks--have discovered promotional devices to be a necessary lure for customers. To an increasing degree, businesses that never used them before are finding that trading stamps are the something extra that really works.

TIME TO RETIRE

Since people live longer today and are able to work in their later years, a mandatory retirement age no longer makes sense. What we need are new guidelines to tell us when it is time to retire. For example:

A fisherman should retire when his net income is falling off.

A publisher should quit when he can't handle the volume anymore.

An actor should know he's through when he can't make the scene.

An architect must give up when he hates to make plans.

A dentist will know when he's had his fill.

A photographer better retire when he doesn't click anymore.

An auto mechanic should quit when he's lost his motive, and a racing driver should do the same when he can't shift for himself.

An artist has had it when he can't draw his own conclusions.

A teacher should retire if she has no class.

An accountant should quit before his number is up.

But a writer can go on writing until the very end.

Maoists support New Communist Party in U.S. to infiltrate unions in mass industries

NEW YORK— There aren't sufficient young Maoist "thought" red guards in this land to fill one of those intimate porno movie houses polluting this city. But there are enough American Maoist zealots to train cadres of violent revolutionary activists. Already there are enough units to rush state capitols, and sufficiently trained squads to act as agents provocateurs which can whip up coal digger's strikes costing this nation millions of dollars, attempt to agitate rubber workers' picket lines, infiltrate the U.S. Post Office, and try to seep into the leadership of the steel and auto workers unions to spread the neo-revolution.

There are scores of revolutionaary splinter groups deep in the country's political elephant grass. Few outsiders observe. Fewer analyze.

And most journalists (even the investigative ones) and intellectualized commentators for those prestige quarterly political journals, dismiss the neo-radicals as "nuts."

Well, the new revolutionists aren't "nuts." They are bright, young, educated and tough. They are psyched out on violence and constantly seek the opportunity to create national fireworks and a violent cause celebre from which they can forge a single national radical party out of the scores of "leagues" and underground units.

The old Communist Party USA has failed. It's aged -- alienating the radical youth. It became too identified with the ever corkscrewing Soviet line. It's now a Moscow token organization so the CPUSA can appear on the roster of guests at USSR Party Congresses.

But we're in an era as new as Cuba's next national liberation committee. There's a revolutionary vacuum. And the Maoist People's Republic, now a long way from its ping-pong days, is rushing into the vacuum, proving its contempt for Occidental American political and industrial leaders who swoon before the gate of the Heavenly Square as bobby soxers (now middle-aged matrons) once swooned as Frankie Sinatra (now upper middle age) crooned enticing lullabies.

Slowly the Maoists have moved into American industry. First, back in 1969, came the red guard Revolutionary Union (RU) born out of something called the Venceremos (not to be confused with the young platoons of well-to-do American youngsters who go cut sugar cane in Cuba regularly.) Then came the political blood infusion of the Weather Underground and something called the Progressive Labor Party, born in New York, mighty tough in its day.

They organized in the San Francisco Bay area. And then moved east (headquartesrs in a post office box at the Chicago Merchandise Mart). They peeled off into small cadres and cells in 25 cities. Didn't need more. Just one hulking Revolutionary Union muscle man invaded the New York-New Jersey area post office. After a year of turbulence, he departed for West Virginia with a female comrade and in less than nine months whipped up a multi-million-dollar 80,000-man coal diggers strike, though he never swung a pick-axe.

Last October after considerable multi-city caucusing and then some regional conferences, according to federal reports, in Cincinnati and Philadelphia, the RU turned up with a name change -- The Revolutionary Communist Party of the United States.

They are now known as the RCPUSA. Crude acronym. Cruder disruptive politics.

The RU has about 700 to 900 members. But disciplined. It has infiltrated them into labor locals and soon, in groups of eight or ten, they get roaring groups with them howling against capitalists, plant speed-ups and exploitation -- all the outmoded jargon of the early 20th century.

They're based on four or five militant political stanchions -- a splinter of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, the Revolutionary Student Brigade (muscled and hypoed with the romatic type violent militancy which even V. I. Lenin once sneered at as infantile leftism), and the Unemployed Workers Organizing Committee.

An RU splinter is the spreading Employed-Unemployed Committee. This gives the obviously well-financed Revolutionary Communist Party USA full sweep. If auto workers are laid off, the young group moves in full working regalia -- ripped dirty clothes, unkept beards, haggard starved looks and more haggard clothes.

They've invaded the auto worker field. They've tried to stir action on rubber workers picket lines. They've been deep inside some West Coast agricultural-implement unions. They've pulled their most successful coup, of course, in the coal fields last August. And they've been intriguing in the taut rivalries inside the United Steelworkers Union which soon must elect a new national leadership.

They've not explosively violent. Sometimes they're street-action tough. Like rushing a state capitol building. Mostly they depend on their own class-angle rhetoric. Which is considerable. Which makes them more likely to succeed in attracting a following. It's much like the dusty in-depth studies reporting the history of the regular Communist Party (CPUSA) during the years after the Soviet revolution. Few paid much attention to the intricacies of the CPUSA and its arcane splinter groups until it infiltrated such unions as the predecessors to the auto and steel workers and made off with about a million dollars (worth $25 million today) of the ladies garment workers.

So watch the political elephant grass. The Revolutionary Communist Party has money, newspapers, organization talent, and most important can approach the younger workers of today as one of their own kind; youthful, articulate, brainwashed and hep to the lingo in the bars and pot-filled rooms.

The Shah Rules
By Torture
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— The Shah of Iran, as his contribution to the U.S. bicentennial celebration, flew 150 celebrities to Iran for a week of partying.

The bicentennial visitors, ranging in glamor from actress Elizabeth Taylor to the Baroness Garnett Stackelberg, arrived aboard one of the Shah's 747 superjets.

They were wined, dined and entertained in a splendor that rivaled the excesses of the Xerxes. By day, they were chauffeured to Iran's assorted ruins and festivals. By night, they drank champagne and watched belly dancers.

None of the distinguished Americans were invited, of course, to see Iran's seamier side. But behind all the glitter, the Shah rules by torture and terror, which are the antithesis of the U.S. principles he pretends to honor.

The language of Iran's constitution is as eloquent as the Declaration of Independence. But it contains a grim Catch 22; a clause states that Iran's bill of rights is granted only "in conformity with the Law." The Law has come to mean whatever the Shah determines it is.

We have received documented complaints of the Shah's oppression. Under his tutelage, the SAVAK secret police have become increasingly harsh and cruel. The secret police answer only to the Shah who, in turn, has become more and more dependent upon them to keep him in power.

For intelligence reports claim that his authoritarian rule and imperial airs are alienating his people, that he is dangerously isolated and aloof.

The bicentennial luxury tour almost coincided, ironically, with the completion of a study by two world-renowned lawyers. They are William Butler of the New York Bar Association's Human Rights Commission and Prof. Georges Levasseur of the University of Paris. Instead of taking an expenses-paid junket to the panoplies of Persepolis, they tried to find out about conditions in the Shah's prisons. Their study will be made public in a few days.

"There can be no doubt that torture has been systematically practiced over a number of years against recalcitrant suspects," Butler reports in his section of the study.

He identifies the torturers as members of SAVAK, which "is accountable to no one except the Shah" and, therefore, has become "a law unto itself."

Butler's most sickening information came from a courageous Iranian poet, Reaa Baraheni, who at great personal risk furnished a statement on his own observations in a SAVAK dungeon. He was "beaten, whipped and exposed to the sounds of screaming prisoners."

From his own experiences and talks with other inmates, the poet described how prisoners were lashed to the top of an iron, double-deck bed, which was transformed into a human toaster.

"With the heat coming from a torch or a small heater, they burn your back in order to extract information," Baraheni confided. "Sometimes the burning is extended to the spine, as a result of which paralysis is certain.

"There were also all sizes of whips hanging from nails on the walls. The electric batons stood on little stools. The nail-plucking instrument stood on (one)side. The gallows stood on the other side."

The Iranian poet also described how "they hang you upside down and then someone beats you with a mace on your legs or uses the electric baton on your chest or on your genitals."

In other SAVAK torture rooms, which held Baraheni for 120 days, there are "weightcuffs that break your shoulders in less than two hours of horrible torture." He also told of a "pressure device which imposes pressure upon the skull to the extent that you either tell them what they want or let your bones break into pieces."

The horror is compounded by these additional, startling revelations:

--For SAVAK victims, there is no judicial appeal. SAVAK officers actually have "the power to act as 'military magistrates,' "with the right to detain prisoners as long as they wish.

--The SAVAK secret police, 200,000 strong, have been "expertly trained by the Israeli Secret Service, the CIA and AID agents," reports the study.

--The SAVAK doesn't restrict its activities to Iran but allegedly operates in other lands, including the United States. Charges Butler: SAVAK "operates throughout the world where Iranian students congregate and where Iran may have a national interest."

--Levasseur, in milder terms, also denounces SAVAK's disdain for legal rights. "It operates its own prison for interrogation of suspects and detainees," according to the study.

Rather than tour ancient ruins and watch belly dancers, the visiting celebrities might have found it more instructive to tour a SAVAK prison.

Footnote: The study finds improvements in Iran's women's rights, health, education and the economy. U.S. and Israeli spokesmen acknowledge that their governments train Iranians but deny teaching torture or other extra-legal practices. Iranian officials insist the study's charges of torture and terror are "unfounded."

But what we didn't enjoy was too damn much singing by the barber shop quartet. Now if they would have sang one song or two songs and quit I think it would have been alright, but I am glad that Warren had sense enough not to talk too long and make too many speeches. WORLD FOOD PICTURE BRIGHTER

"Scare stories of world shortfalls and famines are not helpful — they are untrue and an overreaction. We are not approaching a time when the world must decide which nations are to survive. The future is much more hopeful."

So said Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz during his recent world trip. Speaking in Madrid, Sprain, Butz explained that "at the time of the (Rome) World Food Conference in November 1974, there was enormous, almost hysterical concern about the world food situation ... Since that conference, however, world concern has become less acute."

Five reasons Butz believes the food picture is better include:

1. A "reaction away from the 'crisis' publicity" of 1974 which exaggerated the world food problem. "It has been 18 months, and the world food situation has improved, not worsened."

2. "Record food crops in the United States in 1975 and the prospect of good crops again in 1976."

3. "A five per cent increase in agricultural production by developing countries in 1975..."

4. "Actions taken by governments since the World Food Conference." Among them, the U.S. has enlarged its food aid program, and other supplying countries have promised increased food aid.

5. A total $5 billion was suggested in Rome as a needed boost from donor nations to developing nations. Although it then appeared an unlikely goal, said Butz, "By the end of this year, we think that commitments from the donor nations and the new international Agricultural Development Fund will reach that $5 billion goal."

The Secretary emphasized that "this is not to say that the world has solved its food problem." World food stocks remain low, production this year is off somewhat, and population trends indicate the world will have to nearly double its food output by the end of the century to feed all its people.

Yet there is hope in the fact that, as Butz points out, nations have the capacity and — more important perhaps — the will to mutually commit a portion of their resources to help solve this dilemma which has hung over man since the beginning of time.

THE FATHER OF OUR COUNTRY

WASHINGTON— On the 200th anniversary of the United States, it is only fair to speculate how George Washington would do if his presidential campaign was being managed by some of the people who are involved with today's campaigns.

"George, you're a very popular figure, but the fact you won the war for us doesn't necessarily mean you'll be elected as the first President of the United States. We're going to have to work on your image."

"What do you suggest?"

"Well, for a starter, you're going to have to get rid of those wooden teeth. We're going to have to get you some ivory ones that shine so when you smile everyone can see them."

"I have no intention of smiling. I hate to smile. Have you ever seen one painting of me smiling?"

"All right, forget the teeth. We need a slogan that will catch the imagination of the 13 states."

"How about 'Vote for a man who has never been to Washington'?"

"You are Washington, George."

"I meant Washington, D.C."

"There is no Washington, D.C. It won't be named that until after you die. If you're elected, you're going to have to live in New York and Philadelphia."

"Well, I'm not sure I want to be President if I can't live in Washington, D.C."

"It doesn't make any difference where you live. The important thing is to get you elected as the first President of the United States."

"I'm not certain I want to be the first President of the United States."

"But don't you see that if you are, you will go down in history as the 'Father of Our Country.' If you don't go for it, John Adams will. We have to launch a 'Stop Adams Campaign,' and you're the only one who can do it."

"He's not a bad fellow."

"George, would you want the capital of the United States to be called Adams, D.C.?"

"No, I guess not. What do you want me to do?"

"First, we have to show that you're completely honest. The question is, how do we do it?"

"What if I say that if I am elected, I will never lie to the American people."

"That's good, but how do we dramatize it?"

"Well, I never told anyone this story. But when I was a kid, we had this cherry tree on our plantation and I went out with an ax and chopped it down. It was my father's favorite tree, and he was really mad, so he said, 'George, do you know who chopped down my cherry tree?' I still had the ax in my hand so I figured I'd better tell the truth and said, 'I did it father'' -- and he whaled the living daylights out of me, just for one lousy cherry tree."

"That's beautiful. We'll put out a press release on that story right away. The papers will eat it up. Anything else you can tell us that will help the campaign?"

"I once threw a silver dollar across the Potomac."

"You'd better not talk about that. It might give the taxpayers the impression you're willing to throw away their money."

"Wait a minute. Let's not reject that out of hand. Suppose we say George threw a silver collar across the Potomac and then swam over to retrieve it. It would show he really cared for a buck."

"But, gentlemen, that would be a lie."

"Look, George, every President of the United States is going to have to lie to the people sooner or later. If you start a precedent of absolutely no lying, no one will ever be able to govern the country."

"I hadn't thought of that. Okay, you can say I swam over and got it back."

"Great, we'll leak it to the papers. Now what about detente with the Indians?"

"What about it?"

"We'll say you're for better relations with the Indians, but detente is a two-way street. If they want to buy grain from us, they're going to have to give us Ohio."

"Why do we need Ohio?"

"We need Ohio, just in case John Adams wins the primary in Pennsylvania."

CULTURAL PRIDE A POSSIBI[illegible]

A slip of the lip has sunk more than one presidential candidate's ship, and if his remark about "ethnic purity" doesn't scuttle Jimmie Carter, it won't be for want of his rivals trying to make the most of it.

Interestingly enough, the people who presumably should have been most offended by the Georgian's statement—black Americans—are not the ones who are keeping the controversy alive.

For the record, what Carter said in South Bend, Ind., the other day, was:

"I have nothing against the community that's made up of people who are Polish or Czechoslovakian or French-Canadian or blacks who are trying to maintain the ethnic purity of their neighborhoods. This is a natural inclination on the part of people..."

Later, in Indianapolis, he added: "I would never, though, condone any sort of discrimination against, say, a black family, or any other family, from moving into that neighborhood. But I don't think government ought deliberately to try to break down an ethnically oriented community—deliberately by injecting into it a member of another race. This is contrary to the best interest of the community. It creates disharmony. It creates hatred."

Had Carter used any other word than "purity"—had he said "ethnic character" or "ethnic integrity"—at most a small squall rather than a hurricane would have broken over his head and those who were so quick to denounce him might even have reflected that what he really said was [illegible] saying [illegible] a departure it [illegible] have been if some of the other Democratic aspirants had risen just a bit above politics-as-usual to point out that everybody makes verbal goofs and that Carter's unfortunate choice of words should be understood in the context in which they were made.

All those who jumped on Jimmie Carter should be given ten lashes with a wet kluski and required to read a timely and authoritative new book on the history and present status of America's white ethnic—"Pursuing the American Dream," by Richard Krickus (published by Anchor Books, also available in hardcover from Indiana University Press).

He was moved to write the book, says Krickus, by the "appalling ignorance" about working Americans (which most ethnics are) among academics, politicians, government bureaucrats, Capitol Hill aides and radical community activists. And, one might add, among George Wallace's "pointyheaded liberals" who are seldom affected by the wrenching social changes they demand of others.

One thing Krickus attempts to do is set the record straight on alleged white ethnic racism, and he cites abundant evidence to dispute the widespread notion that white workers in general and certain ethnic groups in particular are more likely to oppose black bids for racial justice than other segments of the white population.

Since the New Deal, he writes, the white ethnics have given the bulk of their votes to the Democratic party and have supported legislation vital to the welfare of needy Americans. Without their support, the progressive coalition necessary to come to grips with our nation's most pressing problems is doomed to failure.

One reason a lot of blacks still like Jimmy Carter may be that they realize what social "anchor points," to use Krickus' term, the white ethnic urban concentrations are and that the development of the same sense of community cohesiveness and cultural pride among blacks will go a long way toward solving their, and the country's, problems.

In any event, it is going to take more than an error in phraseology to stop any candidate who can win the allegiance of both groups.

SOMETHING EXTRA REALLY COUNTS

Successful merchants have always known it is necessary to give customers a little something extra to keep them coming back. For nearly 100 years, trading stamps have been one of the most effective promotional devices used by business to attract and hold customers.

Statistics show that over 100 million people in the United States like trading stamps, and two thires of all households in all income levels save them. In fact, surveys indicate that stamp savers outnumber the stamp supply nowadays. This is true for a variety of reasons. Many of the stamp outlets, of course, used to be service stations, but the Mideast oil embargo resulted in more customers than gasoline, and numerous station operators subsequently dropped their promotional efforts. Retail food stores were another major source of trading stamps for the great majority of consumers until the trend of discounting as a means of attracting customers cut heavily into this stamp savers' source of supply. But if you are a stamp collector--cheer up. They will be back. Inflation has hit the family grocery bill with particular force. With food prices high and rising at the stores, more people are likely to go where stamps are available to do their grocery shopping. The necessities of life take most of the family budget, and trading stamps, to a greater degree than ever before, provide a way of automatic saving for some of the extras that make life more pleasant.

Good products, good prices and attention to service combined with constructive and effective advertising and promotion are part and parcel of running a successful business in a competitive free marketplace. It has always been so. And in these days when inflation bites deeply into each family's supply of spendable dollars, many businesses--from bowling alleys to banks--have discovered promotional devices to be a necessary lure for customers. To an increasing degree, businesses that never used them before are finding that trading stamps are the something extra that really works.

TIME TO RETIRE

Since people live longer today and are able to work in their later years, a mandatory retirement age no longer makes sense. What we need are new guidelines to tell us when it is time to retire. For example:

A fisherman should retire when his net income is falling off.

A publisher should quit when he can't handle the volume anymore.

An actor should know he's through when he can't make the scene.

An architect must give up when he hates to make plans.

A dentist will know when he's had his fill.

A photographer better retire when he doesn't click anymore.

An auto mechanic should quit when he's lost his motive, and a racing driver should do the same when he can't shift for himself.

An artist has had it when he can't draw his own conclusions.

A teacher should retire if she has no class.

An accountant should quit before his number is up.

But a writer can go on writing until the very end.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Peking Zeros In:
Maoists support New Communist Party in U.S. to infiltrate unions in mass industries

NEW YORK— There aren't sufficient young Maoist "thought" red guards in this land to fill one of those intimate porno movie houses polluting this city. But there are enough American Maoist zealots to train cadres of violent revolutionary activists. Already there are enough units to rush state capitols, and sufficiently trained squads to act as agents provocateurs which can whip up coal digger's strikes costing this nation millions of dollars, attempt to agitate rubber workers' picket lines, infiltrate the U.S. Post Office, and try to seep into the leadership of the steel and auto workers unions to spread the neo-revolution.

There are scores of revolutionaary splinter groups deep in the country's political elephant grass. Few outsiders observe. Fewer analyze.

And most journalists (even the investigative ones) and intellectualized commentators for those prestige quarterly political journals, dismiss the neo-radicals as "nuts."

Well, the new revolutionists aren't "nuts." They are bright, young, educated and tough. They are psyched out on violence and constantly seek the opportunity to create national fireworks and a violent cause celebre from which they can forge a single national radical party out of the scores of "leagues" and underground units.

The old Communist Party USA has failed. It's aged -- alienating the radical youth. It became too identified with the ever corkscrewing Soviet line. It's now a Moscow token organization so the CPUSA can appear on the roster of guests at USSR Party Congresses.

But we're in an era as new as Cuba's next national liberation committee. There's a revolutionary vacuum. And the Maoist People's Republic, now a long way from its ping-pong days, is rushing into the vacuum, proving its contempt for Occidental American political and industrial leaders who swoon before the gate of the Heavenly Square as bobby soxers (now middle-aged matrons) once swooned as Frankie Sinatra (now upper middle age) crooned enticing lullabies.

Slowly the Maoists have moved into American industry. First, back in 1969, came the red guard Revolutionary Union (RU) born out of something called the Venceremos (not to be confused with the young platoons of well-to-do American youngsters who go cut sugar cane in Cuba regularly.) Then came the political blood infusion of the Weather Underground and something called the Progressive Labor Party, born in New York, mighty tough in its day.

They organized in the San Francisco Bay area. And then moved east (headquartesrs in a post office box at the Chicago Merchandise Mart). They peeled off into small cadres and cells in 25 cities. Didn't need more. Just one hulking Revolutionary Union muscle man invaded the New York-New Jersey area post office. After a year of turbulence, he departed for West Virginia with a female comrade and in less than nine months whipped up a multi-million-dollar 80,000-man coal diggers strike, though he never swung a pick-axe.

Last October after considerable multi-city caucusing and then some regional conferences, according to federal reports, in Cincinnati and Philadelphia, the RU turned up with a name change -- The Revolutionary Communist Party of the United States.

They are now known as the RCPUSA. Crude acronym. Cruder disruptive politics.

The RU has about 700 to 900 members. But disciplined. It has infiltrated them into labor locals and soon, in groups of eight or ten, they get roaring groups with them howling against capitalists, plant speed-ups and exploitation -- all the outmoded jargon of the early 20th century.

They're based on four or five militant political stanchions — a splinter of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, the Revolutionary Student Brigade (muscled and hypoed with the romatic type violent militancy which even V. I. Lenin once sneered at as infantile leftism), and the Unemployed Workers Organizing Committee.

An RU splinter is the spreading Employed-Unemployed Committee. This gives the obviously well-financed Revolutionary Communist Party USA full sweep. If auto workers are laid off, the young group moves in full working regalia -- ripped dirty clothes, unkept beards, haggard starved looks and more haggard clothes.

They've invaded the auto worker field. They've tried to stir action on rubber workers picket lines. They've been deep inside some West Coast agricultural-implement unions. They've pulled their most successful coup, of course, in the coal fields last August. And they've been intriguing in the taut rivalries inside the United Steelworkers Union which soon must elect a new national leadership.

They've not explosively violent. Sometimes they're street-action tough. Like rushing a state capitol building. Mostly they depend on their own class-angle rhetoric. Which is considerable. Which makes them more likely to succeed in attracting a following. It's much like the dusty in-depth studies reporting the history of the regular Communist Party (CPUSA) during the years after the Soviet revolution. Few paid much attention to the intricacies of the CPUSA and its arcane splinter groups until it infiltrated such unions as the predecessors to the auto and steel workers and made off with about a million dollars (worth $25 million today) of the ladies garment workers.

So watch the political elephant grass. The Revolutionary Communist Party has money, newspapers, organization talent, and most important can approach the younger workers of today as one of their own kind; youthful, articulate, brainwashed and hep to the lingo in the bars and pot-filled rooms.

Early herbicide treatments aid cotton

By THOMAS BROWN
Area agronomy specialist

BLOOMFIELD — The use of early postemergence herbicide treatments in cotton can be one of the most important weed control practices used on this crop. Not only is the herbicide applied while weeds are young and easy to kill, but any damage sustained by the cotton as a result of such treatments is usually lighter and of shorter duration than damage which occurs at a later stage of growth.

Also, weed control accomplished by early postemergence treatments helps to establish a size differential between the crop and weeds which makes the use of directed postemergence treatments more practical at later stages of growth when damage from over-the-top herbicidal treatments would be heavy if not prohibitive.

Small weeds have begun to show up in some cotton fields; therefore, farmers should keep abreast of the weed situation in their fields and be prepared to apply postemergence treatments as soon as the time is right. Of course, the best postemergence treatment to apply will depend upon the specific weed problem in each field.

Herbicidal oil, applied as an early postemergence weed control treatment will give control of most grasses and broadleaved weeds. It should be applied when cotton is two and a half to three inches tall and when weeds are small, if good control is to be expected. It should not be applied after bark cracks appear on the lower stem.

One to three applications made at seven-day intervals may be needed for adequate control of weeds. Use only on healthy plants and keep oil off cotton leaves.

Flometuron (Cotoran) will give fair control of most grasses and broadleaved weeds when applied as an early postemergence treatment. This herbicide has label clearance for applications over-the-top after cotton is three inches tall and should be used in this manner only when weeds exceed the height of the cotton.

This treatment is usually not as effective as either a surface-applied or postemergence directed treatments of flometuron. A surfactant should be added at the rate of one quart per 100 gallons of spray solution. Crops other than cotton may be injured if planted within six months after the last application of flometuron, especially if a preemergence treatment of this chemical was also applied.

DSMA (Ansar 8100) can also be applied over the top as an early postemergence weed control treatment, when weeds are as tall as the cotton. If applied within 10 days after cotton comes up and when air temperature is 70 degrees or higher, it will give fair to good control of most grasses and broadleaved weeds less than two inches tall.

Directed applications, where it is practical to use such treatments, will result in better coverage of young weeds and will therefore produce better weed control results. A surfactant should be applied at the rate of one quart per 100 gallons of spray solution. Do not treat twice over the top with DSMA.

DSMA or MSMA can be more effectively used as directed post- emergency applications in cases where good pre-emergence weed control has been obtained to hold back early- season weeds. When properly applied, either of these herbicides controls annual grasses, cocklebur and most annual broadleaved weeds after they come up and develop their first true leaves.

This treatment should be applied after cotton is three inches tall but before the first bloom appears. Best weed control is obtained in dry weather when daytime air temperatures are above 70 degrees. A surfactant should be added at the rate of one quart per 100 gallons of spray solution.

More than two applications of DSMA or MSMA, or applying either herbicide over the top near the blooming stage will delay the growth and maturity of cotton with a reduction in yield. The burning effect on cotton leaves is usually more serious with MSMA than DSMA

Flometuron (Cotoran) plus DSMA or MSMA will give better control of most grasses and broadleaved weeds, especially hard-to-kill weeds such as teaweed, than will either herbicide used alone as a post-directed spray. A surfactant added at the rate of one quart per 100 gallons of spray solutin will improve weed control obtained.

Additional information pertaining to early postemergency weed control treatments for cotton, including recommended rates of application, may be obtained upon request from the county University of Missouri Extension Center.

Missouri study could boost soybean yield

COLUMBIA— Scientists here have been awarded a $55,000 grant for a project aimed at identifying soil microorganisms that could help farmers boost soybean yields.

The microorganisms, rhizobia, fix atmospheric nitrogen and "are among the most valuable organisms in nature," said George H. Wagner, University of Missouri Columbia professor of agronomy who will head up the project.

He plans to identify those rhizobia that can most efficiently fix nitrogen under field conditions.

Rhizobia's nitrogen-fixing ability allows farmers to grow soybeans without fertilizer nitrogen. That lowers production costs and saves energy in terms of non-renewable fuel sources, said Wagner.

To study microorganisms and to find those with the best nitrogen fixation efficiency, Wagner and his colleagues will use the method developed last year at UMC by R. J. Kremer, one of Wagner's graduate students.

James Dairy has top Holstein

By BOB MONTGOMERY
Area dairy specialist

PERRYVILLE — James Dairy Farm of Cape Girardeau Route Two has something to "shout" about again. For the second year in a row, its Holstein cow, Glendell Chief Astar, was the top index cow in the state. Other Southeast Missouri herds also receive honors for high index cows.

According to figures from the U.S. Department of Agriculture released through the University of Missouri Extension Dairy Department at Columbia, Astar has a current index of plus 1,505 milk. The cow, a daughter of Glendell Arlinda Chief, was purchased by James Brothers from Kenneth Hartman of Waterloo, Ill.

The cow was born in October 1970 and received first state honors this year on her third record of 21,360 pounds of milk and 716 pounds butterfat. Her weight is approximately 1,350 pounds, and her return above feed cost was $875 for the year.

Other area dairies receiving recognition for top cows include Harlan Hager of Gordonville with two records of plus 896 and plus 1,004 pounds of milk; Southeast Missouri State University, Cape Girardeau, a plus 941 milk; and Siemers Farms, Inc. with two records of plus 1,078 and 883 milk.

Also honored was Schoen Dairy of Oak Ridge with an index of plus 898 milk, Midway Dairy of Cape Girardeau with two indexes of plus 880 and plus 633 milk.

The recently dispersed Bohnert herd of Perryville had two high records before the sale, with a plus 909 and a plus 1,147 milk. Palmer Fritsche of Perryville had a plus 701 pounds milk index.

In the Jersey breed, the following herds had high cows: Mrs. Sam Collins of Cape Girardeau with a plus of 506 pounds milk; Joe Kirchdoerfer of Cape Girardeau, with three records of plus 600, 789 and 587 pounds of milk; and Huber Jersey Farm of Perryville, with plus 619 milk.

Guernsey breeders from the area had top records as follows: Clem Schabbing of Cape Girardeau, an index of plus 551, and Shawnee farms of Jackson, three records of plus 487, 534 and 647 of milk.

The following Brown Swiss herds boasted top records: Joseph Moll of Perryville, with a plus 707 milk, and Chalmer Voelker of St. Marys with four records of plus 606, 590, 740 and 780.

In order for cows to be included in the USDA- Dairy Herd Improvement Association Cow Performance Index List, they must meet the following requirements:

1. They must be registered; 2. cow has to have an average of at least three modified contemporaries across lactations; 3. the last calving was on or after Dec. 1, 1973; 4. cow is apparently alive as based on the last termination code submitted to USDA which indicated that there was a record in progress; 5. If only a record- in - progress was available, it had to be of at least 150 days in length. Otherwise, records-in-progress of 40 days or more were included.

Excess nitrogen cuts growth, yield of cotton

By JOHN GARRETT
Area agronomy specialist

BENTON— Every year I walk into some cotton fields and just about get lost in the rank growth. Most of this rank growth is due to excess nitrogen. Excess growth leads to delayed maturity, boll rot, poor boll set and reduced yield. It is generally better to be under-supplied than over-supplied with nitrogen.

Most of the cotton was either planted or replanted May 5-15 in Scott County. A few very early fields may survive. Weather conditions have been very bad for cotton this spring. Many acres are still on the borderline of a stand and ideal weather is needed very soon.

Due to the uncertainty of a stand, many farmers delay nitrogen until later. This is generally a good idea since cotton needs very little N in the early growth period.

Since most of the cotton came up late (some stayed in the ground three weeks before emerging), no more than 40 pounds of actual N should be applied. If a particular field normally grows cotton over four feet tall with 40 pounds N, reduce the rate to 25 pounds. The important thing is to apply adequate N but not excessive amounts.

Fine sandy loam or sandy soils that grew soybeans or corn last year will need little or no nitrogen for cotton. If N is applied, do not use more tha n 25 pounds per acre. Cotton grown on old pasture soil will not need nitrogen the first and second years after destroying the sod.

Nitrogen should be topdressed or sidedressed shortly after a sure stand is acquired. If phosphage and potash were not applied preplant, they can be applied with nitrogen. Fertilizers should be cultivated in shortly after application.

Granular nitrogen, such as ammonium nitrate or urea, can be applied broadcast with a spreader or airplane and worked into the soil. Be sure cotton leaves are dry and a light breeze is blowing. This will prevent leaf burn.

Liquid N should be applied two to three inches deep and eight to 10 inches to the side of the row. or in the middles. Be sure to apply anhydrous early.

All four sources perform equally when applied at equal rates and in the recommended method.

Dorothea Lynde Dix was a crusader for humane care of the mentally ill and her efforts resulted in major reforms in asylums.

Study confirms value of cotton marketing

DALLAS — The results of an independent management consultant firm's evaluation of Cotton Incorporated's research and promotional activities were presented here May 21, 1976 to members of the Cotton Inc. executive committee, who were joined by officers of the Cotton Board and the National Cotton Counci.

The study, commissioned by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was to determine the effectiveness of cotton research and marketing programs carried out by Cotton Inc. under the $1-a-bale producer checkoff.

In summary, the report stated, "There has been significant improvement, particularly during the last three years,in Cotton Incorporated's ability to carry out an effective promotion program."

"We are gratified to see that an outside evaluation confirms the validity of all the company's objectives, organizational concepts and overall programs," said E. Hervey Evans Jr., a cotton producer of Laurinburg, N.C., who is chairman of the Cotton Inc. board of directors.

"Cotton producers across the belt can be especially pleased to know that their dollar-a-bale investment is being used with increasing effectiveness," Evans said.

The study, conducted by Hadley C. Ford Associates of New York, concentrates most of its attention on the period from 1973 to the present. Activities during those years reflect the five- year- old organization's most recent and meaningful phase of operations.

"The report should prove to be a valuable tool to Cotton Incorporated's management in their continuing effort to serve the cotton industry," Evans commented.

Officials from the USDA, the Cotton Board and Cotton Inc. will study and discuss the Ford report in weeks to come.

"The report covers considerable ground," Evans added, "and it includes some valid criticism. In fact, we have already acted on some of the findings."

Hay should be cut early for quality

BLOOMFIELD— Hay crops should be cut earlier than many farmers in this area cut them for best quality hay, according to Tom Brown, area agronomy specialist.

The best time to cut legumes and grasses for hay involves a compromise between top quality and highest yield. All things considered, suggestions for cutting various hay crops produced in this area for top quality are as follows:

Alfalfa should be cut from the first bloom to the one-tenth bloom stage or when new shoots begin to appear at the crown and before they will be clipped in mowing.

Red clover should be cut in the early bloom stage. In addition to the production of better quality hay, early cutting provides a better chance for a good seed crop.

Lespedeza should be cut before bloom when the growth reaches six inches above the cutter bar. Growth produced after this stage will largely be stems without leaves; therefore, it will not make good hay.

Orchardgrass, timothy and redtop should be cut from early heading to early bloom. Fescue makes the most palatable hay when cut in the late boot stage.

Sudangrass and the sorghum-sudan hybrids should be cut as the first heads are coming out of the boot.

Small grains make the best quality hay when cut in the late milk or very early dough stage.

For grass-legume mixtures, guide the time of cutting by the desirable stage of the predominant species in the mixture.

James Dairy has top Holstein

By BOB MONTGOMERY
Area dairy specialist

PERRYVILLE — James Dairy Farm of Cape Girardeau Route Two has something to "shout" about again. For the second year in a row, its Holstein cow, Glendell Chief Astar, was the top index cow in the state. Other Southeast Missouri herds also receive honors for high index cows.

According to figures from the U.S. Department of Agriculture released through the University of Missouri Extension Dairy Department at Columbia, Astar has a current index of plus 1,505 milk. The cow, a daughter of Glendell Arlinda Chief, was purchased by James Brothers from Kenneth Hartman of Waterloo, Ill.

The cow was born in October 1970 and received first state honors this year on her third record of 21,360 pounds of milk and 716 pounds butterfat. Her weight is approximately 1,350 pounds, and her return above feed cost was $875 for the year.

Other area dairies receiving recognition for top cows include Harlan Hager of Gordonville with two records of plus 896 and plus 1,004 pounds of milk; Southeast Missouri State University, Cape Girardeau, a plus 941 milk; and Siemers Farms, Inc. with two records of plus 1,078 and 883 milk.

Also honored was Schoen Dairy of Oak Ridge with an index of plus 898 milk, Midway Dairy of Cape Girardeau with two indexes of plus 880 and plus 633 milk.

The recently dispersed Bohnert herd of Perryville had two high records before the sale, with a plus 909 and a plus 1,147 milk. Palmer Fritsche of Perryville had a plus 701 pounds milk index.

In the Jersey breed, the following herds had high cows: Mrs. Sam Collins of Cape Girardeau with a plus of 506 pounds milk; Joe Kirchdoerfer of Cape Girardeau, with three records of plus 600, 789 and 587 pounds of milk; and Huber Jersey Farm of Perryville, with plus 619 milk.

Guernsey breeders from the area had top records as follows: Clem Schabbing of Cape Girardeau, an index of plus 551, and Shawnee farms of Jackson, three records of plus 487, 534 and 647 of milk.

The following Brown Swiss herds boasted top records: Joseph Moll of Perryville, with a plus 707 milk, and Chalmer Voelker of St. Marys with four records of plus 606, 590, 740 and 780.

In order for cows to be included in the USDA- Dairy Herd Improvement Association Cow Performance Index List, they must meet the following requirements:

1. They must be registered; 2. cow has to have an average of at least three modified contemporaries across lactations; 3. the last calving was on or after Dec. 1, 1973; 4. cow is apparently alive as based on the last termination code submitted to USDA which indicated that there was a record in progress; 5. If only a record- in - progress was available, it had to be of at least 150 days in length. Otherwise, records-in-progress of 40 days or more were included.

Excess nitrogen cuts growth, yield of cotton

By JOHN GARRETT
Area agronomy specialist

BENTON— Every year I walk into some cotton fields and just about get lost in the rank growth. Most of this rank growth is due to excess nitrogen. Excess growth leads to delayed maturity, boll rot, poor boll set and reduced yield. It is generally better to be undersupplied than over-supplied with nitrogen.

Most of the cotton was either planted or replanted May 5-15 in Scott County. A few very early fields may survive. Weather conditions have been very bad for cotton this spring. Many acres are still on the borderline of a stand and ideal weather is needed very soon.

Due to the uncertainty of a stand, many farmers delay nitrogen until later. This is generally a good idea since cotton needs very little N in the early growth period.

Since most of the cotton came up late (some stayed in the ground three weeks before emerging), no more than 40 pounds of actual N should be applied. If a particular field normally grows cotton over four feet tall with 40 pounds N, reduce the rate to 25 pounds. The important thing is to apply adequate N but not excessive amounts.

Fine sandy loam or sandy soils that grew soybeans or corn last year will need little or no nitrogen for cotton. If N is applied, do not use more tha n 25 pounds per acre. Cotton grown on old pasture soil will not need nitrogen the first and second years after destroying the sod.

Nitrogen should be topdressed or sidedressed shortly after a sure stand is acquired. If phosphage and potash were not applied preplant, they can be applied with nitrogen. Fertilizers should be cultivated in shortly after application.

Granular nitrogen, such as ammonium nitrate or urea, can be applied broadcast with a spreader or airplane and worked into the soil. Be sure cotton leaves are dry and a light breeze is blowing. This will prevent leaf burn.

Liquid N should be applied two to three inches deep and eight to 10 inches to the side of the row. or in the middles. Be sure to apply anhydrous early.

All four sources perform equally when applied at equal rates and in the recommended method.

Dorothea Lynde Dix was a crusader for humane care of the mentally ill and her efforts resulted in major reforms in asylums.

Study confirms value of cotton marketing

DALLAS — The results of an independent management consultant firm's evaluation of Cotton Incorporated's research and promotional activities were presented here May 21, 1976 to members of the Cotton Inc. executive committee, who were joined by officers of the Cotton Board and the National Cotton Counci.

The study, commissioned by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was to determine the effectiveness of cotton research and marketing programs carried out by Cotton Inc. under the $1-a-bale producer checkoff.

In summary, the report stated, "There has been significant improvement, particularly during the last three years,in Cotton Incorporated's ability to carry out an effective promotion program."

"We are gratified to see that an outside evaluation confirms the validity of all the company's objectives, organizational concepts and overall programs," said E. Hervey Evans Jr., a cotton producer of Laurinburg, N.C., who is chairman of the Cotton Inc. board of directors.

"Cotton producers across the belt can be especially pleased to know that their dollar-a-bale investment is being used with increasing effectiveness," Evans said.

The study, conducted by Hadley C. Ford Associates of New York, concentrates most of its attention on the period from 1973 to the present. Activities during those years reflect the five- year- old organization's most recent and meaningful phase of operations.

"The report should prove to be a valuable tool to Cotton Incorporated's management in their continuing effort to serve the cotton industry," Evans commented.

Officials from the USDA, the Cotton Board and Cotton Inc. will study and discuss the Ford report in weeks to come.

"The report covers considerable ground," Evans added, "and it includes some valid criticism. In fact, we have already acted on some of the findings."

Hay should be cut early for quality

BLOOMFIELD— Hay crops should be cut earlier than many farmers in this area cut them for best quality hay, according to Tom Brown, area agronomy specialist.

The best time to cut legumes and grasses for hay involves a compromise between top quality and highest yield. All things considered, suggestions for cutting various hay crops produced in this area for top quality are as follows:

Alfalfa should be cut from the first bloom to the one-tenth bloom stage or when new shoots begin to appear at the crown and before they will be clipped in mowing.

Red clover should be cut in the early bloom stage. In addition to the production of better quality hay, early cutting provides a better chance for a good seed crop.

Lespedeza should be cut before bloom when the growth reaches six inches above the cutter bar. Growth produced after this stage will largely be stems without leaves; therefore, it will not make good hay.

Orchardgrass, timothy and redtop should be cut from early heading to early bloom. Fescue makes the most palatable hay when cut in the late boot stage.

Sudangrass and the sorghum-sudan hybrids should be cut as the first heads are coming out of the boot.

Small grains make the best quality hay when cut in the late milk or very early dough stage.

For grass-legume mixtures, guide the time of cutting by the desirable stage of the predominant species in the mixture.

Cotton insect scouting program to be available

BLOOMFIELD — The cotton pest management program commonly known as the cotton insect scouting program, will be available to cotton producers again this season, according to Tom Brown of Bloomfield, area agronomy specialist.

Through this program, which is sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division, cotton producers can obtain the services of a trained cotton insect scout to "scout" their cotton fields and keep them informed concerning the insect situation in their fields and needed control measures.

Under the cotton pest management program, the scouts, who are usually college students, are employed by the extension division and given special training for the job before they begin work. They work under the supervision of the extension area entomology specialist and pest management supervisor, who are headquartered at the University of Missouri Delta Center at Portageville. The scout checks each cotton field enrolled in the program and reports the insect situation to the farmer each week.

The cost of this service for the season will be $3 per field and $1.25 per acre. Any area from which a producer wants a seperate scouting report shall constitute a field for this purpose. In the event that a farmer who is enrolled in the program fails to get a stand of cotton due to any reason beyond his control, the fee will be refunded for the acreage where a stand was not obtained.

Farmers who are interested in enrolling in the program are urged to do so as soon as possible. Enrollment forms and additional information pertaining to this program may be obtained from the University of Missouri Extension Center in Bloomfield.

Weather aids grain production goals

BENTON — Favorable spring planting weather has allowed farmers to get an early start that could result in a 1976 feed grain production of 207-231 million short tons, the USDA has reported. If this forecast is realized, production of the four feed grains (corn, sorghum, oats, and barley) will be well above 1975 production of 202 million short tons. Corn production alone, is forecast at 6.0-6.7 billion bushels -- up from last year's record of 5.8 billion bushels.

Kenneth E. Vowels, County ASCS executive director, says feed prices have been unusually stable this year -- which is hard to explain in light of increased livestock and poultry feeding and possible record exports during 1975-76.

Livestock and poultry feeding increases began late last summer in expectation of the record 1975 corn crop. Cattle feed lot placements have been heavy, broiler output is running close to capacity (with January-March, 1976 production up 15 per cent) and milk- feed price ratios are becoming more favorable.

With soybean supplies running at all-time highs and prices of high protein feeds lower than usual (in relation to feed grain prices), there has been an increase of high protein feeds used in feed rations.

Feed grain exports in 1975-76 are expected to total 53 million short tons -- 35 per cent more than in 1974 and 21 per cent more than the 1973-74 record of 44 million short tons.

Increases in domestic use and export of feed grains will come close to offsetting this year's increase in production. Carryover stocks at the end of the 1975-76 marketing year are expected to total about 18.1 million tons, about the same as the very low 1974-75 carryover but still much smaller than in recent years.

Wasps to aid in combat of weevil

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State agriculture officials are importing a special type of wasp from the east coast on a "very limited scale" in an effort to combat the alfalfa weevil. If the project is successful, it could save Missouri farmers $1.8 million annually.

"Thus has gone past the experimental stage in other state's and this is the first introduction of these wasps into Missouri," said state Agriculture Director James Boillot.

Since the weevil hit the state about five years ago, it has become a growing problem for alfalfa farmers, and agriculture officials say it is now "almost impossible to grow alfalfa in the state of Missouri without spraying."

But Joe Franska of the department's plant industries division, who is coordinating the wasp project, noted that "spraying is costly and then you're dealing in a taxic chemical that is deadly to both animals and humans."

The wasps, commonly known as braconid wasps, feed only on the weevil, according to Franska. The weevil began attacking alfalfa stands on the east coast and has been gradually moving westward across the nation with the wasps following the migration.

"They (the wasps) will eventually come to Missouri," Franska said. "But we hope to speed up the process by a few years. Our hope is that they will build up in numbers that will cause a leveling off of the weevil."

About a month ago, the first 1,500 wasps, provided free from Maryland, were released at five selected fields located in Sikeston, Jefferson City, Springfield, St. Louis and Kansas City.

"There is no cost at all," Franska said. "It's just a biological control for the farmer. The wasp can't survive on anything else. When the weevil population goes down, the wasp population goes down."

Last year, farmers raised about 600,000 acres of alfalfa, paying about $3 an acre for chemical spraying to fight the weevil, officials said.

Franska said another shipment of wasps is expected to be released within the next few weeks. And while he added that the state would like to obtain as many wasps as possible, he pointed out that "numbers are not always that important.

"It only takes two to get the job done if the conditions are right," Franska said.

Hogs outnumber people in western Illinois

KEWANEE, Ill. AP — The hogs have it in the western Illinois counties of Henry and Pike. There are about 25 pigs for every man, woman and child in the two counties, and it's been that way since they were settled in the early 1800s.

"I guess the people who settled here just liked pigs," said Harry Wright Jr., Pike County's farm advisor.

The two counties are 100 miles apart geographically, but in the theory and practice of hog raising they are as alike as a pair of newborn Durocs.

"This," proclaims Darl Fike, Wright's counterpart in Henry County, "is The Hog Capital of The World."

But, declares Wright, Pike County "is The Pork Capital of The World."

The difference may not mean much to anyone else, but both counties take it at least half seriously. "It's really a friendly rivalry," Wright explained.

"We just jaw back and forth at one another," Wright said. "But if you want to know the real story about it, it's this:

"They DO raise more hogs up there than we do, maybe 2,000 a year more, so I suppose they have a right claim to Hog Capital. But here in Pike County they raise their hogs to bigger weights."

Checking the most recent statistics of the Illinois Livestock Report, Wright noted: "Our farmers raised their hogs to an average of 263 pounds and in Henry it was only 231.

"Now," he said a trace smugly, "you draw your own conclusions."

Anyone wanting to compare the two counties further might drop into Pittsfield July 10, when the Pig Day celebration swells the population of the Pike County community from 4,500 to 7,000 people. There'll be pig painting contests, hog calling contests and a trained pig or two, as well as the inevitable porkchop cookout.

Farm exports to set new records

U.S. agricultural exports are expected to total $21.9 billion in fiscal year (FY) 1976, according to a report issued by the USDA. Values of wheat, feed grain and soybean exports are expected to set new records. The export volume of these bulk commodities (which account for about 90 percent of total farm export tonnage) is expected to be slightly above the FY 1974 record of 100 million metric tons and one-fifth above last year.

Increased shipments to the USSR will account for two-thirds of the increase. P.L. 480 (food for peace) shipments are estimated at $1.3 billion -- up slightly from the FY 1975 value.

In order to meet the estimated yearly total, exports during the April-June quarter must top $5.3 billion, compared with $4.74 billion in the first quarter, $6.22 billion in the second and $5.58 billion in the third. Major export uncertainties during the last quarter are the schedule of shipments to USSR and the pace of P. L. 480 shipments.

On the other side of the ledger, FY 1976 farm imports are estimated at $10 billion, up from $9.6 billion last year. The increase is due to higher prices paid for coffee, crude rubber and spices, although U.S. coffee imports in the first nine months of the fiscal year were up 37 percent in volume as importers increased their purchases in anticipation of higher prices and tight supplies. The U.S. farm trade balance will be about $11.9 billion in the black during FY 1976--near the $12 billion surplus recorded last year.

Farmers are urged to inspect wheat fields for frost damage

The state Agricultural Stablilization and Conservation Service office urges farmers to closely inspect wheat fields for frost damage. Many wheat fields may appear normal from a distance, but close observation will reveal frost damage.

Spot checks made by the production adjustment and compliance sections of the state ASCS office indicate that thousands of acres of wheat in Missouri have been damaged by heavy frosts that occurred April 25 and May 2. In some cases, appraisals have shown a 50 to 100 per cent loss.

The first frost damaged wheat fields mainly south of the Missouri River. However, the May 2 frost was more widespread and caused damage along and north of the river.

Frost damage to wheat usually becomes noticeable seven to 10 days after the frost occurs.

Loan rates for barley are issued

BENTON — County loan and purchase rates for 1976 barley have been issued by USDA. The rates are based on the national average loan rate of $1.02 per bushel announced Feb. 24, an increase of 12 cents per bushel from 1975. The rates reflect changes in area- to - area price relationships.

Adjustments were made to county loan rates in the western states, which limit their increase to 11 cents per bushel. Minnesota and North and South Dakota received the full 12 cents per bushel increase. In less important and fringe barley-producing states, adjustments of only 7-9 cents per bushel were made to reflect the downward trend in barley prices.

The new loan rates are for barley grading No. 2 or better, except the "mixed barley" grade. Discounts (deductions) will be made for barley grading lower than No. 2. The discounts are unchanged from 1975.

Loans and purchases are two mechanisms used by USDA to guarantee farmers a minimum price for their crops.

Copies of county loan rates are being sent to State ASCS Offices and will be available from the Grains, Oilseeds and Cotton Division; ASCS; U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Corn production alone, is forecast at 6.0-6.7 billion bushels -- up from last year's record of 5.8 billion bushels.

Kenneth E. Vowels, County ASCS executive director, says feed prices have been unusually stable this year -- which is hard to explain in light of increased livestock and poultry feeding and possible record exports during 1975-76.

Livestock and poultry feeding increases began late last summer in expectation of the record 1975 corn crop. Cattle feed lot placements have been heavy, broiler output is running close to capacity (with January-March, 1976 production up 15 per cent) and milk- feed price ratios are becoming more favorable.

With soybean supplies running at all-time highs and prices of high protein feeds lower than usual (in relation to feed grain prices), there has been an increase of high protein feeds used in feed rations.

Feed grain exports in 1975-76 are expected to total 53 million short tons -- 35 per cent more than in 1974 and 21 per cent more than the 1973-74 record of 44 million short tons.

Increases in domestic use and export of feed grains will come close to offsetting this year's increase in production. Carryover stocks at the end of the 1975-76 marketing year are expected to total about 18.1 million tons, about the same as the very low 1974-75 carryover but still much smaller than in recent years.

Wasps to aid in combat of weevil

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State agriculture officials are importing a special type of wasp from the east coast on a "very limited scale" in an effort to combat the alfalfa weevil. If the project is successful, it could save Missouri farmers $1.8 million annually.

"Thus has gone past the experimental stage in other state's and this is the first introduction of these wasps into Missouri," said state Agriculture Director James Boillot.

Since the weevil hit the state about five years ago, it has become a growing problem for alfalfa farmers, and agriculture officials say it is now "almost impossible to grow alfalfa in the state of Missouri without spraying."

But Joe Franska of the department's plant industries division, who is coordinating the wasp project, noted that "spraying is costly and then you're dealing in a taxic chemical that is deadly to both animals and humans."

The wasps, commonly known as braconid wasps, feed only on the weevil, according to Franska. The weevil began attacking alfalfa stands on the east coast and has been gradually moving westward across the nation with the wasps following the migration.

"They (the wasps) will eventually come to Missouri," Franska said. "But we hope to speed up the process by a few years. Our hope is that they will build up in numbers that will cause a leveling off of the weevil."

About a month ago, the first 1,500 wasps, provided free from Maryland, were released at five selected fields located in Sikeston, Jefferson City, Springfield, St. Louis and Kansas City.

"There is no cost at all," Franska said. "It's just a biological control for the farmer. The wasp can't survive on anything else. When the weevil population goes down, the wasp population goes down."

Last year, farmers raised about 600,000 acres of alfalfa, paying about $3 an acre for chemical spraying to fight the weevil, officials said.

Franska said another shipment of wasps is expected to be released within the next few weeks. And while he added that the state would like to obtain as many wasps as possible, he pointed out that "numbers are not always that important.

"It only takes two to get the job done if the conditions are right," Franska said.

Hogs outnumber people in western Illinois

KEWANEE, Ill. AP — The hogs have it in the western Illinois counties of Henry and Pike. There are about 25 pigs for every man, woman and child in the two counties, and it's been that way since they were settled in the early 1800s.

"I guess the people who settled here just liked pigs," said Harry Wright Jr., Pike County's farm advisor.

The two counties are 100 miles apart geographically, but in the theory and practice of hog raising they are as alike as a pair of newborn Durocs.

"This," proclaims Darl Fike, Wright's counterpart in Henry County, "is The Hog Capital of The World."

But, declares Wright, Pike County "is The Pork Capital of The World."

The difference may not mean much to anyone else, but both counties take it at least half seriously. "It's really a friendly rivalry," Wright explained.

"We just jaw back and forth at one another," Wright said. "But if you want to know the real story about it, it's this:

"They DO raise more hogs up there than we do, maybe 2,000 a year more, so I suppose they have a right claim to Hog Capital. But here in Pike County they raise their hogs to bigger weights."

Checking the most recent statistics of the Illinois Livestock Report, Wright noted: "Our farmers raised their hogs to an average of 263 pounds and in Henry it was only 231.

"Now," he said a trace smugly, "you draw your own conclusions."

Anyone wanting to compare the two counties further might drop into Pittsfield July 10, when the Pig Day celebration swells the population of the Pike County community from 4,500 to 7,000 people. There'll be pig painting contests, hog calling contests and a trained pig or two, as well as the inevitable porkchop cookout.

Farm exports to set new records

U.S. agricultural exports are expected to total $21.9 billion in fiscal year (FY) 1976, according to a report issued by the USDA. Values of wheat, feed grain and soybean exports are expected to set new records. The export volume of these bulk commodities (which account for about 90 percent of total farm export tonnage) is expected to be slightly above the FY 1974 record of 100 million metric tons and one-fifth above last year.

Increased shipments to the USSR will account for two-thirds of the increase. P.L. 480 (food for peace) shipments are estimated at $1.3 billion -- up slightly from the FY 1975 value.

In order to meet the estimated yearly total, exports during the April-June quarter must top $5.3 billion, compared with $4.74 billion in the first quarter, $6.22 billion in the second and $5.58 billion in the third. Major export uncertainties during the last quarter are the schedule of shipments to USSR and the pace of P. L. 480 shipments.

On the other side of the ledger, FY 1976 farm imports are estimated at $10 billion, up from $9.6 billion last year. The increase is due to higher prices paid for coffee, crude rubber and spices, although U.S. coffee imports in the first nine months of the fiscal year were up 37 percent in volume as importers increased their purchases in anticipation of higher prices and tight supplies. The U.S. farm trade balance will be about $11.9 billion in the black during FY 1976--near the $12 billion surplus recorded last year.

Farmers are urged to inspect wheat fields for frost damage

The state Agricultural Stablilization and Conservation Service office urges farmers to closely inspect wheat fields for frost damage. Many wheat fields may appear normal from a distance, but close observation will reveal frost damage.

Spot checks made by the production adjustment and compliance sections of the state ASCS office indicate that thousands of acres of wheat in Missouri have been damaged by heavy frosts that occurred April 25 and May 2. In some cases, appraisals have shown a 50 to 100 per cent loss.

The first frost damaged wheat fields mainly south of the Missouri River. However, the May 2 frost was more widespread and caused damage along and north of the river.

Frost damage to wheat usually becomes noticeable seven to 10 days after the frost occurs.

Loan rates for barley are issued

BENTON — County loan and purchase rates for 1976 barley have been issued by USDA. The rates are based on the national average loan rate of $1.02 per bushel announced Feb. 24, an increase of 12 cents per bushel from 1975. The rates reflect changes in area- to - area price relationships.

Adjustments were made to county loan rates in the western states, which limit their increase to 11 cents per bushel. Minnesota and North and South Dakota received the full 12 cents per bushel increase. In less important and fringe barley-producing states, adjustments of only 7-9 cents per bushel were made to reflect the downward trend in barley prices.

The new loan rates are for barley grading No. 2 or better, except the "mixed barley" grade. Discounts (deductions) will be made for barley grading lower than No. 2. The discounts are unchanged from 1975.

Loans and purchases are two mechanisms used by USDA to guarantee farmers a minimum price for their crops.

Copies of county loan rates are being sent to State ASCS Offices and will be available from the Grains, Oilseeds and Cotton Division; ASCS; U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

The men of yesterday were not to be outdone by the women, and they too were always fashionably dressed. They had an added advantage — no rib-binding corsets and stays to bother with.

Stepping into an elegant past

A special fashion show at Magnolia Manor in Cairo, Ill., combines clothing and settings from the past that are so authentic a visitor finds himself watching the manikins to see if they will move.

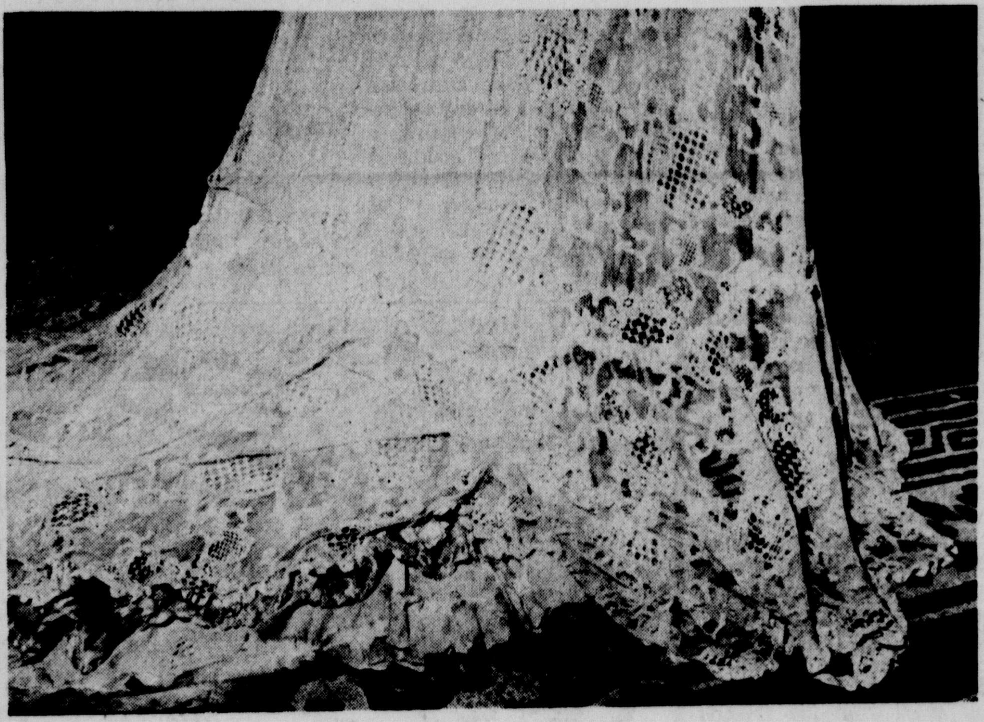
Magnolia Manor, 2700 Washington Ave., built in 1869 by Charles A. Galigher, a milling merchant, is a fourteen-room red brick mansion which the Cairo Historical Association has decided to preserve. In addition to historic value, the mansion and its furnishings are aesthetically pleasing even to those who have no passion for antiques.

To help raise funds for the Manor, the Cairo Historical Association and the Patrons' Club have set up an exhibit of 20 displays from the Americana Fashions of the Ages collection. The collection was formerly the Peggy Westerfield collection, which was started in 1922 in Maine, and has been displayed in many prominent museums.

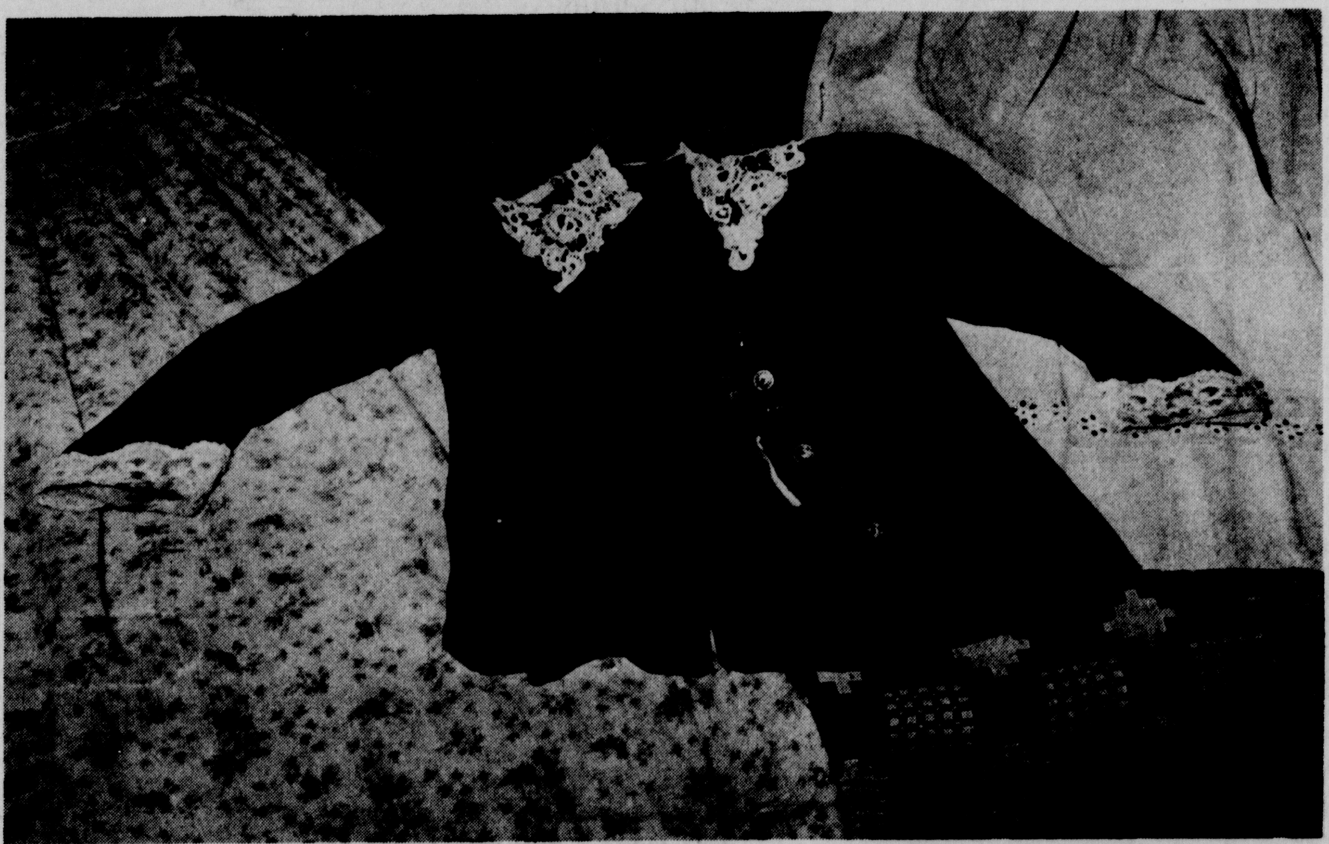
Visitors can see fancy ball gowns, children's clothes, and wedding attire from the 1800's. Many of the garments feature hand sewing arts such as beading and fringe tassle which are virtually lost today.

The display began May 22 and continues through June 13. The Manor will be open every day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. From 1 to 5 p.m. daily through June 6, hostesses will be available to conduct tours.

The Manor's regular admission prices will be charged while the fashions are on display.



Some lucky woman wore this lace dressing gown, left and above, in the late 1700's. The undergarment is made of ice blue silk and the outer layer is hand made lace panels.



The red velvet in this child's jacket is still plush, after nearly a hundred years. The collar and cuffs are made of hand made lace taken from the mother's wedding gown.

A festive dress such as this ball gown, made by Ramsey Robes of New York in 1867, helped the lady of the day make her grand entrance in style. The waist of this dress is made of yellow grosgrain. It features a velvet collar and open drape sleeves. The net skirt is woven with silk thread.

Any Cooks Want To Vote?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

The great controversy still goes on. What's the best way to cook chili?

Should the meat be all beef or part beef, part pork? Cubed or ground?

Should beans go in or be served on the side?

Are tomatoes admitted? If so, in what form? Fresh, canned, sauce, paste, puree or — heaven help us — condensed soup or catchup?

Should chili powder or green chiles be used? Is cumin a "must?" Are herbs — oregano, thyme, savory, bay leaf — okay? Is garlic necessary? How about paprika? Is tabasco legal?

What fat should be used — beef suet, lard, salt pork or oil?

What about thickening? Is flour allowed?

After the chili is concocted, comes the next big question: WHAT SHOULD BE SERVED WITH IT?

In Texas chili is offered with shredded cheese and chopped onion; at least that's how Lady Bird Johnson serves it down by the Pedernales River. In Houston anything goes — from corn chips to hominy grits.

In Peoria chili may be accompanied by a hunk of store cheese, old-fashioned dill pickles and big soda crackers.

In Cincinnati chili tops spaghetti.

In Oklahoma chili and macaroni are a go-together and the result is called chilimac.

In New York chili without rice is like a sandwich without a filling.

If you want to take sides, we're ready to record your vote.

In the meantime here's a respectable recipe for chili that's mild enough to suit most family tastes. A cook who wants it hotter can doctor up the seasoning.

It's made a time-saving way, in a pressure cooker. But first the dried beans are soaked with water, oil and salt. This is recommended by pressure-cooker specialists because during cooking dried beans have a tendency to foam and clog the vent pipe; soaking in this manner is said to keep the foam at a safe level. You can use a 4-quart pressure cooker (15 pounds pressure) for this chili even though the ingredients fill it two-thirds full. If you're cooking dried beans alone you should fill the cooker only half full; but in this recipe, and we quote, "the added stuff tends to inhibit the beans and keep them from acting foolishly."

FAMILY CHILI—Cooking it in a pressure cooker saves time. If you want to offer it Peoria style, serve it with cheddar cheese, soda crackers and dill pickles.

2 cups dried red kidney beans
¼ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon salt
½ cup minced salt pork
2 pounds ground beef
1 cup chopped onion
1 large clove garlic, minced
28-ounce can tomatoes, undrained
6-ounce can tomato paste
4 tablespoons chili powder
½ teaspoon cumin seed

Turn the beans, oil and salt into a 4-or 6-quart pressure cooker and add enough water to cover the beans generously; soak overnight. Turn the beans into a strainer or colander set over a 1-quart measure, to drain. If necessary add enough water to the soaking liquid to make 3 cups; if there's more than that amount of soaking liquid, pour off excess. Return the beans and the 3 cups liquid to the pressure cooker; close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe and cook 30 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Remove beans. Add salt pork to cooker and fry until crisp; add beef; mash with a fork until beef is crumbled and loses its red color. Stir in beans and remaining ingredients; close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe and cook 3 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Makes 6 servings.

Boyer-Steimle

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steimle

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Miss Susan Clarice Boyer and Joseph Michael Steimle were wed recently at St. Mary's Cathedral here. The Rev. Daniel Hirtz officiated.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Boyer of Kewanee and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Steimle of Cape Girardeau.

The bride's gown was of multi-tiered white organza. The bodice and sleeves were overlaid with lace. Her fingertip length veil was attached to a Juliet cap overlaid with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was of white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Ralph Barnwell Jr. of New Madrid, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Steimle and Jane Steimle, the groom's sisters.

Best man was Don Boos. Groomsmen were Mitch Bartnick of St. Louis and David Wehner of Cape Girardeau. Ushers were Bradley Smith and the groom's brother, Robert Steimle, both of Cape Girardeau.

A reception at the Flaming Pit Restaurant in Cape Girardeau followed the wedding.

Mrs. Steimle, a New Madrid High School graduate, attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. Her husband is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., and Southeast Missouri State University. He is assistant manager of McDonald's Restaurant.

The couple lives in Cape Girardeau.

'Peer Counselors' Help Other Teens

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Teen-agers who don't seem to be able to talk about their problems to an adult counselor have another option at Lincoln High School: they can talk to other teen-agers trained as "peer counselors."

"We're not problem solvers," said Matt Allen, a Lincoln senior who is one of seven peer counselors. "We're ready to help them solve a problem, but we let them do it themselves."

Allen said most peer counseling is done on an informal basis — between classes, at lunch or after school. The counselors offer their services only to students who seek help.

"Many students don't have all that many people who will listen to them," Allen said. "We don't try to tell them what's right and wrong. I guess it comes down to giving them support."

The seven volunteers have received training in communication skills from staff members of the Heartland Area Education Agency. They meet monthly with adult counselors to discuss problems they've encountered in counseling other students.

Many students who are reluctant to discuss personal problems with adults don't mind letting a student counselor take them "under their wing," said Richard Malliet, an adult counselor at Lincoln.

Allen said a frequent problem involves teen-agers who are perplexed because friends are pressuring them to do something they object to — take drugs, engage in sex or even to wear certain clothing.

Allen said he tries to encourage the student to do what he thinks is best in such cases rather than what the friends want him to do.

"A lot of times the student needs reassurance that it's okay to ask for help on classwork outside the classroom — that he's not dumb just because he doesn't understand something," said Cinci Nevins, another peer counselor.

Adult counselors say the efforts by the peer counselors have led to improved academic work or helped keep students in school.

But Allen said counselors on the two-year-old program have run into resentment from some students. He said some students think the peer counselors are setting themselves up as "know-it-alls."

Miss Nevins said the peer counselors are sensitive about their relationship with fellow students, because "If one peer counselor leaves one bad impression, it will affect the whole program."

Getting married?

The Daily Standard, 205 S. New Madrid St., now has new wedding forms available at the front office or at the women's desk. Business hours are from 7 a.m., to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Forms will be mailed if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is provided.

The deadline for weddings is three weeks after date of wedding. Pictures will be returned if a self-addressed, stamped envelope large enough to hold a picture is supplied. Color pictures are discouraged. There is no charge for running a wedding. We are happy to publish it.

Ann Landers

Boy says turndown a relief

Dear Ann Landers: Can a 16-year-old guy get in a few words? I'd like to say something to the 15-year-old girl who said it was either "put out" or "sit home." According to her, if a dude doesn't get something off a chick he won't ask her out again.

I don't know what kind of guys she's been going with but I can tell you how it works in our crowd.

Most of us try because we think it's expected. But it's a relief when the answer is no. Then we don't have to prove anything. -- Leveling In California

Dear Leveling: Many readers will be surprised by your letter but I've known it for a long time. Thanks for leveling.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I must make a decision. So far we are miles apart. Although real estate isn't exactly your field, the question we can't settle is more common sense than anything else.

We are trying to sell a big, old house. After 15 years and three kids, it's in pretty bad shape. Several people have looked at it but nobody has shown any interest in buying. It needs paint and repairs.

I say it's foolish to put any more money into this old barn. The people who want it will buy it an fix it up to suit themselves. My wife thinks we should paint and paper and go the whole route. Does it make sense to spend about $8,000 on a house we are trying to unload? How do you see it, Ann? -- Money Sunk

Dear Sunk: If several people have looked a the place and nobody is interested, that should tell you something.

Listen to your wife. Get the old barn painted and papered and looking its best. Before you know it someone will make you an offer you can't refuse.

Der Ann Landers: I am 36 years old and today I am celebrating one year of sobriety. Thanks to you, I joined AA and have just completed the happiest year of my life.

There is no need to describe to you the agonies of the alcoholic. You hear from their families every day of the week. I wish I could find the words to express my appreciation. And may I say a word to those who read your column but somehow missed the message I caught -- the message that transported me from a living hell into a world of beauty, self-respect, and peace of mind?

You give up nothing when you stop drinking. Nothing but depression, regrets, bitter arguments, lost jobs, unpaid bills, terrible hangovers, self-disgust and loss of face.

Please keep telling your readers about AA, Ann, because you and that wonderful organization certainly saved a life. Mine. --Grateful To Be Sober and Enjoying Every Day

Dear Friend: Your letter contains a message I've read many times. It always gives me a tremendous lift. Thank you for writing. And remember -- "one day at a time."

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting -- What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Any Cooks Want To Vote?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

The great controversy still goes on. What's the best way to cook chili?

Should the meat be all beef or part beef, part pork? Cubed or ground?

Should beans go in or be served on the side?

Are tomatoes admitted? If so, in what form? Fresh, canned, sauce, paste, puree or — heaven help us — condensed soup or catchup?

Should chili powder or green chiles be used? Is cumin a "must?" Are herbs — oregano, thyme, savory, bay leaf — okay? Is garlic necessary? How about paprika? Is tabasco legal?

What fat should be used — beef suet, lard, salt pork or oil?

What about thickening? Is flour allowed?

After the chili is concocted, comes the next big question: WHAT SHOULD BE SERVED WITH IT?

FAMILY CHILI—Cooking it in a pressure cooker saves time. If you want to offer it Peoria style, serve it with cheddar cheese, soda crackers and dill pickles.

In Texas chili is offered with shredded cheese and chopped onion; at least that's how Lady Bird Johnson serves it down by the Pedernales River. In Houston anything goes — from corn chips to hominy grits.

In Peoria chili may be accompanied by a hunk of store cheese, old-fashioned dill pickles and big soda crackers.

In Cincinnati chili tops spaghetti.

In Oklahoma chili and macaroni are a go-together and the result is called chilimac.

In New York chili without rice is like a sandwich without a filling.

If you want to take sides, we're ready to record your vote.

In the meantime here's a respectable recipe for chili that's mild enough to suit most family tastes. A cook who wants it hotter can doctor up the seasoning.

It's made a time-saving way, in a pressure cooker. But first the dried beans are soaked with water, oil and salt. This is recommended by pressure-cooker specialists because during cooking dried beans have a tendency to foam and clog the vent pipe; soaking in this manner is said to keep the foam at a safe level. You can use a 4-quart pressure cooker (15 pounds pressure) for this chili even though the ingredients fill it two-thirds full. If you're cooking dried beans alone you should fill the cooker only half full; but in this recipe, and we quote, "the added stuff tends to inhibit the beans and keep them from acting foolishly."

2 cups dried red kidney beans
¼ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon salt
½ cup minced salt pork
2 pounds ground beef
1 cup chopped onion
1 large clove garlic, minced
28-ounce can tomatoes, undrained
6-ounce can tomato paste
4 tablespoons chili powder
½ teaspoon cumin seed

Turn the beans, oil and salt into a 4-or 6-quart pressure cooker and add enough water to cover the beans generously; soak overnight. Turn the beans into a strainer or colander set over a 1-quart measure, to drain. If necessary add enough water to the soaking liquid to make 3 cups; if there's more than that amount of soaking liquid, pour off excess. Return the beans and the 3 cups liquid to the pressure cooker; close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe and cook 30 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Remove beans. Add salt pork to cooker and fry until crisp; add beef; mash with a fork until beef is crumbled and loses its red color. Stir in beans and remaining ingredients; close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe and cook 3 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Makes 6 servings.

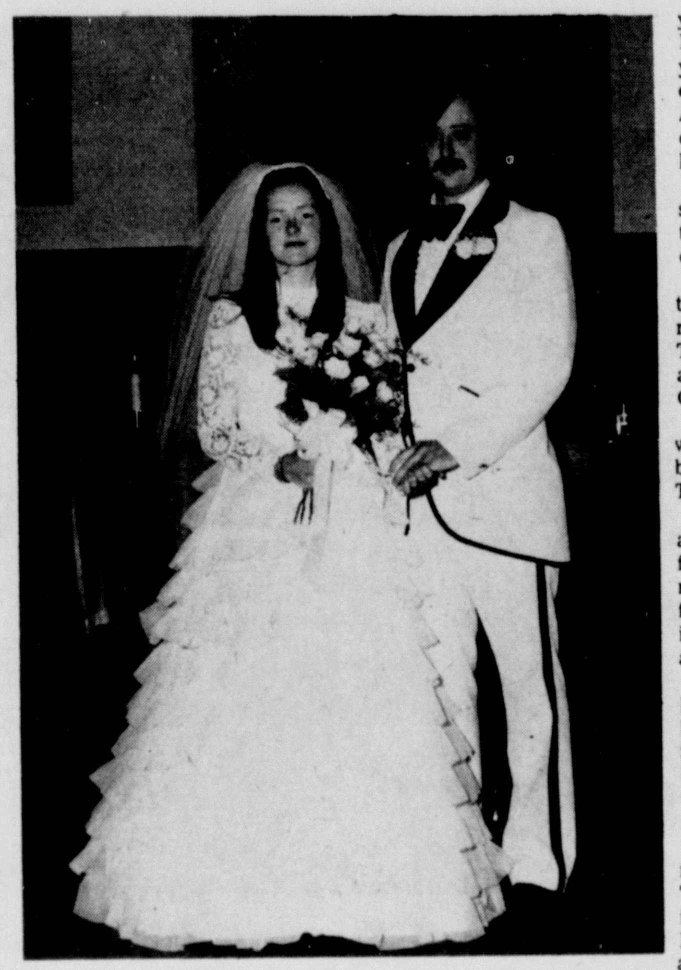
Boyer-Steimle



Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steimle

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Miss Susan Clarice Boyer and Joseph Michael Steimle were wed recently at St. Mary's Cathedral here. The Rev. Daniel Hirtz officiated.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Boyer of Kewanee and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Steimle of Cape Girardeau.

The bride's gown was of multi-tiered white organza. The bodice and sleeves were overlaid with lace. Her fingertip length veil was attached to a Juliet cap overlaid with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was of white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Ralph Barnwell Jr. of New Madrid, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Steimle and Jane Steimle, the groom's sisters.

Best man was Don Boos. Groomsmen were Mitch Bartnick of St. Louis and David Wehner of Cape Girardeau. Ushers were Bradley Smith and the groom's brother, Robert Steimle, both of Cape Girardeau.

A reception at the Flaming Pit Restaurant in Cape Girardeau followed the wedding.

Mrs. Steimle, a New Madrid High School graduate, attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. Her husband is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., and Southeast Missouri State University. He is assistant manager of McDonald's Restaurant.

The couple lives in Cape Girardeau.

Ann Landers

Boy says turndown a relief

Dear Ann Landers: Can a 16-year-old guy get in a few words? I'd like to say something to the 15-year-old girl who said it was either "put out" or "sit home." According to her, if a dude doesn't get something off a chick he won't ask her out again.

I don't know what kind of guys she's been going with but I can tell you how it works in our crowd.

Most of us try because we think it's expected. But it's a relief when the answer is no. Then we don't have to prove anything. -- Leveling In California

Dear Leveling: Many readers will be surprised by your letter but I've known it for a long time. Thanks for leveling.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I must make a decision. So far we are miles apart. Although real estate isn't exactly your field, the question we can't settle is more common sense than anything else.

We are trying to sell a big, old house. After 15 years and three kids, it's in pretty bad shape. Several people have looked at it but nobody has shown any interest in buying. It needs paint and repairs.

I say it's foolish to put any more money into this old barn. The people who want it will buy it an fix it up to suit themselves. My wife thinks we should paint and paper and go the whole route. Does it make sense to spend about $8,000 on a house we are trying to unload? How do you see it, Ann? -- Money Sunk

Dear Sunk: If several people have looked a the place and nobody is interested, that should tell you something.

Listen to your wife. Get the old barn painted and papered and looking its best. Before you know it someone will make you an offer you can't refuse.

Der Ann Landers: I am 36 years old and today I am celebrating one year of sobriety. Thanks to you, I joined AA and have just completed the happiest year of my life.

There is no need to describe to you the agonies of the alcoholic. You hear from their families every day of the week. I wish I could find the words to express my appreciation. And may I say a word to those who read your column but somehow missed the message I caught -- the message that transported me from a living hell into a world of beauty, self-respect, and peace of mind?

You give up nothing when you stop drinking. Nothing but depression, regrets, bitter arguments, lost jobs, unpaid bills, terrible hangovers, self-disgust and loss of face.

Please keep telling your readers about AA, Ann, because you and that wonderful organization certainly saved a life. Mine. --Grateful To Be Sober and Enjoying Every Day

Dear Friend: Your letter contains a message I've read many times. It always gives me a tremendous lift. Thank you for writing. And remember -- "one day at a time."

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting -- What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin,Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Peer Counselors' Help Other Teens

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Teen-agers who don't seem to be able to talk about their problems to an adult counselor have another option at Lincoln High School: they can talk to other teen-agers trained as "peer counselors."

"We're not problem solvers," said Matt Allen, a Lincoln senior who is one of seven peer counselors. "We're ready to help them solve a problem, but we let them do it themselves."

Allen said most peer counseling is done on an informal basis — between classes, at lunch or after school. The counselors offer their services only to students who seek help.

"Many students don't have all that many people who will listen to them," Allen said. "We don't try to tell them what's right and wrong. I guess it comes down to giving them support."

The seven volunteers have received training in communication skills from staff members of the Heartland Area Education Agency. They meet monthly with adult counselors to discuss problems they've encountered in counseling other students.

Many students who are reluctant to discuss personal problems with adults don't mind letting a student counselor take them "under their wing," said Richard Malliet, an adult counselor at Lincoln.

Allen said a frequent problem involves teen-agers who are perplexed because friends are pressuring them to do something they object to — take drugs, engage in sex or even to wear certain clothing.

Allen said he tries to encourage the student to do what he thinks is best in such cases rather than what the friends want him to do.

"A lot of times the student needs reassurance that it's okay to ask for help on classwork outside the classroom — that he's not dumb just because he doesn't understand something," said Cinci Nevins, another peer counselor.

Adult counselors say the efforts by the peer counselors have led to improved academic work or helped keep students in school.

But Allen said counselors on the two-year-old program have run into resentment from some students. He said some students think the peer counselors are setting themselves up as "know-it-alls."

Miss Nevins said the peer counselors are sensitive about their relationship with fellow students, because "If one peer counselor leaves one bad impression, it will affect the whole program."

Specialization yes, exploitation no

Why pay more for specialized bras?

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Before Mrs. Z. left the mastectomy shop on New York's upper East Side, she said, "You can quote me on this. I feel we've been exploited by manufacturers. Your bra is $8. Why is mine $25?"

Her complaint is echoed by many mastectomees who object to paying high prices for surgical bras which differ primarily from others because of a built-in pocket which accommodates the substitute breast or prosthesis.

"But a mastectomy patient doesn't need a special brassiere," says Virginia B. Sinon, spokeswoman for the American Cancer Society. "Why does an A-line dress that says 'maternity' cost so much more than an A-line dress for anybody else? Because it's specialized.

"A prosthesis is something else. That is a pretty specialized thing. But with bras, a woman can adapt her own by putting in a pocket herself."

Miss Sinon doesn't minimize the initial shock and gravity of breast surgery, but she does point out that "some women have a psychological block and feel they have to have something special. They cater to these psychological whims."

The climate, therefore, is ripe for exploitation and the occasional manufacturer does more than charge more for his product.

> What does a woman who has had a mastectomy do about clothes? "Exactly what you did before, allowing for a few adjustments. And every woman has to make adjustments."

For example, the Jodee Bra Company in its hunger for business at times boasts endorsement by the American Cancer Society.

"Thank goodness that isn't a trend," says Miss Sinon. "Our problems have been with those individuals who have just come into the field.

"We've asked Jodee to insure that their representatives discontinue the practice of stating that we have approved the bras. We're not an endorsing organization. We make available a list of manufacturers, their products and prices to our individual units across the country. They localize it so that women know what's available in their immediate area. We also supply a list of bathing suits on the market that women might find suitable."

Both lists carry the following message: "This suggested list is not an endorsement of any specific item, and it is not intended as a complete list of all suppliers."

This aside, the Society is concerned with stressing the point that the woman who has had breast surgery differs only slightly from every other woman. And that difference can be overcome.

Through its Reach to Recovery program which offers assistance to mastectomy patients, the Society provides a free manual which is full of how-to information.

To convert your old bra, it says, sew in that pocket and add a bra extender or two from the five and dime to accommodate temporary tenderness. Sew a vertical seam on the front of the bra to keep the prosthesis from sliding towards the middle. And, if the strap hurts your shoulder, use an inexpensive shoulder pad.

How to exercise, how to choose a prosthesis (shop around and don't fall for the "most expensive is best" routine; each woman's needs are different), how to wear a plunging neckline: it's all there in the manual, in addition to tips on adapting bathing suits and making "fill-ins" for shoulder and arm cavities created by the surgery.

And what do you do about clothes? Exactly what you did before, allowing for a few adjustments. And every woman has to make adjustments.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Mine is a combined Pointer-Pet Peeve and concerns the flimsy disposable bags in today's vacuum cleaners. In the interest of saving money I wonder why not have a durable plastic bag that could be emptied and used week after week until it cracked. The old time cloth bags were unpleasant to empty and unsanitary but a plastic bag could be emptied, washed and be fresh and good as new. —NELL.

DEAR NELL — I find that even the stocks of paper bags are limited and have not been able to buy any at all for my electric broom. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I have about seven African violets that never bloomed until I put aluminum foil on the top of the table they were on to protect the table. Before too long after this they started to bloom and are now all in bloom. They are still in a south window, gets lots of sun as they did before so I believe the blooming is due to the reflection of the sun on the foil. They are really beautiful. —MRS.E.S.

DEAR POLLY — When I wash blankets I add the strained juice from two lemons to the final rinse water to keep them soft. This also seems to counteract shrinkage.

Before cutting muslin interfacings, wash the fabric in hot soapy water in order to remove the sizing. After pressing, cut on the same grain as the part of the garment to which it will be attached. —MABEL.

DEAR POLLY — If your candles will not stand straight in their holders wrap a rubber band around the candle base several times. This really works. —R.N.H.

Computerized Music System in Operation

AARHUS, Denmark (AP) — Not a sound comes out of the instrument when Mogens Kjaer, a 30-year-old musicologist and computer programmer, sits down for a session at what looks deceptively like an electronic organ.

What comes out, by way of digital computer and a graphic plotter, is a master sheet of the music he plays silently on the black and white piano keys.

"Technically, there is in fact no reason why this system could not be developed to the point where the composer might do his composing straight from the keyboard onto master sheets," Kjaer said.

But even if the system, Kjaer's own brainchild to which he devoted four years of spare time, has not reached that stage it is already promising to revolutionize music printing which, despite many innovations, is still one of the slowest, most complicated and costliest printing processes.

For Kjaer simply plays the whole score of an orchestral or choral work into the computer and the plotter then draws up the master sheets, producing either the full score for the conductor or the separate voices for the individual musicians or singers.

The system may even "digest" the full score and come up with its own suggestion of a piano version — useful for rehearsals — and it will promptly protest against any unintended discords or rhythmic irregularities.

"And if so required the system will transpose entire scores or separate voices into a different key," Kjaer added.

The scan-note system, developed in cooperation with Dataland, a local computer service firm, is already in business working on its first orders from several Danish music publishers and music schools.

As explained by Arne Lauritzen, managing director of Dataland, which invested some $50,000 in the project, the obvious advantages of the system are high speed and low cost.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Mine is a combined Pointer-Pet Peeve and concerns the flimsy disposable bags in today's vacuum cleaners. In the interest of saving money I wonder why not have a durable plastic bag that could be emptied and used week after week until it cracked. The old time cloth bags were unpleasant to empty and unsanitary but a plastic bag could be emptied, washed and be fresh and good as new. —NELL.

DEAR NELL — I find that even the stocks of paper bags are limited and have not been able to buy any at all for my electric broom. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I have about seven African violets that never bloomed until I put aluminum foil on the top of the table they were on to protect the table. Before too long after this they started to bloom and are now all in bloom. They are still in a south window, gets lots of sun as they did before so I believe the blooming is due to the reflection of the sun on the foil. They are really beautiful. —MRS.E.S.

DEAR POLLY — When I wash blankets I add the strained juice from two lemons to the final rinse water to keep them soft. This also seems to counteract shrinkage.

Before cutting muslin interfacings, wash the fabric in hot soapy water in order to remove the sizing. After pressing, cut on the same grain as the part of the garment to which it will be attached. —MABEL.

DEAR POLLY — If your candles will not stand straight in their holders wrap a rubber band around the candle base several times. This really works. —R.N.H.

Computerized Music System in Operation

AARHUS, Denmark (AP) — Not a sound comes out of the instrument when Mogens Kjaer, a 30-year-old musicologist and computer programmer, sits down for a session at what looks deceptively like an electronic organ.

What comes out, by way of digital computer and a graphic plotter, is a master sheet of the music he plays silently on the black and white piano keys.

"Technically, there is in fact no reason why this system could not be developed to the point where the composer might do his composing straight from the keyboard onto master sheets," Kjaer said.

But even if the system, Kjaer's own brainchild to which he devoted four years of spare time, has not reached that stage it is already promising to revolutionize music printing which, despite many innovations, is still one of the slowest, most complicated and costliest printing processes.

For Kjaer simply plays the whole score of an orchestral or choral work into the computer and the plotter then draws up the master sheets, producing either the full score for the conductor or the separate voices for the individual musicians or singers.

The system may even "digest" the full score and come up with its own suggestion of a piano version — useful for rehearsals — and it will promptly protest against any unintended discords or rhythmic irregularities.

"And if so required the system will transpose entire scores or separate voices into a different key," Kjaer added.

The scan-note system, developed in cooperation with Dataland, a local computer service firm, is already in business working on its first orders from several Danish music publishers and music schools.

As explained by Arne Lauritzen, managing director of Dataland, which invested some $50,000 in the project, the obvious advantages of the system are high speed and low cost.

Beautify With Flower Boxes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Flower boxes are a time-tested idea for improving the appearance of a house and even whole neighborhoods. Now it has become a program of Keep America Beautiful, a nonprofit organization that tries to stimulate individual involvement in improving local environments.

The group is appealing to organizations — schools, neighborhood groups, block associations, senior citizens, etc. — offering a free kit that tells how to implement a neighborhood flower box program. They suggest, too, it might include a Bicentennial theme — red geraniums, blue ageratum, white petunias. Described by the organization's president as "an appropriate theme for the Bicentennial because it demonstrates a willingness of Americans to improve their surroundings which has been an American characteristic since the founding of the nation," the flower box idea sprang from "a personal experience to revitalize an upper Manhattan block with flower boxes," the beautification group points out.

That experience was projected by author Peggy Mann some years ago when she wrote "The Street of the Flower Boxes," which also became an award winning television film.

The charming story, now in paperback, tells how her own block on West 94th St. changed from drabness to beauty when she and her husband, Bill Houlton, introduced the boxes and lived the experiences in the book.

They had bought a brownstone house in a run-down rooming house area with the idea of remodeling it. Flower boxes used to beautify it began an adventure.

Easter Seal shop closes

The Easter Seal Homecraft Shop, 524 S. New Madrid, closed Saturday after nearly seven years of business in the area.

The local shop served about 100 clients in a nine-county region. Supervisors were informed of the decision to close the shop about three weeks ago.

Mrs. Rebecca Andrews, regional director of the Missouri Homecraft Program, says she regrets the closing of the shop, but "we're having to cut some of our programs. The reason for the closing are not totally financial," she added.

Mrs. Andrews says a committee has been formed to try and locate another organization to take over the shop, but none has been found so far.

Items made by clients were sold in the shop, with the client receiving 66 per cent of the profit. To be eligible to participate in the Homecraft program, Mrs. Andrews says the client had to be handicapped and 16 years of age or older.

Kits for making the various items were provided by the Easter Seal Society. Volunteers assembled the kits for the clients. Local citizens and merchants also contributed materials to the shop.

With the closing of the Sikeston shop, Missouri has only one Easter Seal Homecraft Shop — in Kansas City.

Mrs. Louis Roberts of Oran has been participating in the program for five years. She says she will miss the money she earned, but also the work itself.

"It gives you something to do when you can't get out to do anything else."

Most test kitchens that develop recipes for consumer use, use U.S. graded "large" eggs in cake and cookie recipes.

When you take a foil-wrapped loaf of French or Italian bread from your freezer and heat it, open the ends of the foil so the crust has a chance to crisp.

Mrs. Louis Roberts of Oran, left, and Mrs. Naomi Davis of Sikeston, examine dolls made by Mrs. Roberts. Mrs. Davis works in the shop and Mrs. Roberts is a client.

Allergy: causes, symptoms and some remedies

What disease can appear as a cold, a headache, a skin rash or a stomach ache?

The ailment: allergy. It affects almost one out of every five Americans.

The two most common forms of allergy are asthma and hay fever, both of which may occur seasonally or, in many cases, the year round.

The most serious of the common allergic diseases is asthma. About nine million Americans suffer from it. It usually appears as a shortness of breath with cough and wheezing. It may occur in acute attacks which last from several minutes to days, or it may persist more or less all the time. Though asthma can begin at any age, the majority of sufferers get the affliction in childhood, reports the Health Insurance Institute.

In infants and young children the outstanding symptoms of asthma may be rapid breathing and coughing spasms or recurring coughs with or without fever. Asthma may be caused by pollen, house dust, grasses, weeds, animals or food. Infections of the sinuses or of the bronchial tubes can also be important factors. The condition may be made worse at times by emotional reaction to strain. If neglected, asthma tends to recur and become chronic.

OUT OF THE PAST

"Something old, something new" doesn't necessarily have to be a bridal phrase—it could refer to one of the hottest furniture trends around today: period decorating. Period decorating combines the graceful and beautiful old style lines out of furniture history with new construction methods and updated technology.

Fine reproductions of period furniture are manufactured today with close attention to authentic detailing. The fine hardwood used in the originals, for example, are used today in the reproductions—woods like cherry, mahogany, maple, oak, walnut; and other, more exotic ones, like rosewood, yew and satinwood for dramatic inlay work.

The 18th century French style of Louis XV furniture is enjoying a renaissance of popularity right now, timed for the Bicentennial and reflecting a desire for the flavor of the past when life was more easefully paced and people had the time and the inclination to enjoy the beauties of decorative arts.

The curved line is the most distinctive element of Louis XV styling: cabriole legs ending in a small volute or whorl; chair backs that are oval, medallion or cartouche shaped; shaped chair arms set back on shaped seats and resting on shaped arm supports.

Questions about food

This column is a service from Cooperative Extension Nutritionists at Lincoln University and the University of Missouri. Questions from readers about food and diet are welcomed. Letters should be addressed to: Dr. James W. Nordstrom, Nutrition Extension, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.

Q. Why is it that jars of canned meat for baby food do not have nutrition information on the labels like the jars for fruits, vegetables and desserts? What are they hiding?

A. Nutrition information is not required unless the food has nutrients added or unless special claims are made for the nutritional value of the food. Nonetheless, it would seem to be desirable to provide this kind of information for canned baby food regardless of whether or not the food is a standard product like meat. For example, consumers might be interested in knowing the level of fat present in canned meat, since this can vary considerably. Perhaps it would be a good idea to write directly to the company that manufactures the baby food if you feel strongly about this matter.

Q. I am curious about the different amounts of vitamin A that two different baby food companies indicate to be contained in strained carrots. The jars are the same size (4½ ounces) but one label indicates that 120 per cent of the recommended daily allowance is present while the other states that nearly ten times this amount, 1030 per cent, is contained.

A. Both jars have about the same amount of vitamin A value, but the two companies are using different methods for estimating the actual amount present in terms of value to infants. Carrots and other vegetables do not contain vitamin A as such but instead have a provitamin which can be converted to it. For carrots the provitamin is carotene, the substance that gives the deep orange color. The carotene is converted to vitamin A in the gut, but we don't know for sure how well the conversion occurs. In addition, foods vary in how well they are digested and absorbed.

Apparently one company has decided to be very conservative in expressing vitamin A value while the other firm used standard methods for its calculations. Nonetheless, the acaual amount of vitamin A value in the two jars is probably about the same.

Q. Is there a danger of vitamin A toxicity from giving strained carrots to infants?

A. Toxicity from excessive vitamin A is not likely from eating vegetables. However, a steady diet of carrots may cause a yellowing of the skin (called carotenemia) which is not harmful otherwise. The yellow color will disappear when carotene-rich food are decreased in the diet.

A danger does exist from ingestion of high levels of preformed vitamin A. Thus, the over-use of vitamin pills or liquid concentrates could lead to toxicity symptoms (swellings on joints, dry and itching skin). The National Research Council warns against the taking of supplements that provides gross excesses of vitamin A above the recommended daily alllowance. When large amounts are considered necessary, a physician should supervise.

Q. What is gelatine made from? Does it have any food value?

Q. Gelatine is a product manufactured from certain connective tissues of animals. The organic matter of bone and the collagen from the inner layer of skin can be hydrolized to form gelatine. If properly made, plain geltatine powder should be almost completely odorless and tasteless. Gelatine sold as human food must be made in accordance with pure food laws and therefore should be clean and entirely safe.

Gelatine is an incomplete protein and has little food value by itself. A cup of dessert made by adding water to gelatine dessert powder contains less than 4 grams of protein, has about 140 calorie of energy and is approximately 84 per cent water by weight. Very little in the way of vitamins and minerals are present. However, gelatine desserts can be made into fairly nutritious food by adding fruit or vegetables that are rich in vitamins and minerals.

Common Sense Essential In Choosing Wine

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When choosing a wine as a drink, as an accompaniment to a meal or as a cooking ingredient, you should have some background in the complex field known as oenology, or the science of wines. Lacking that, as most of us do, you should get a good book on the subject.

Peter Sichel, a leading wine spokesman in America and an international wine dealer, has come out with an understandable book on wines, treating the subject with a sure but light-handed approach. Sichel, the fourth generation of his family to cultivate the grape, teamed up with a young writer and wine buff named Judy Ley in writing the informative and readable work, "Which Wine?" (Harper & Row).

The book ranges over the field, from making your own wine to the tricky business of purchasing wine.

The chapter that interested me most was devoted to choosing wines to go with certain foods and what wines should be used for cooking. Sichel shows a common sense here that is refreshing.

He reminds you, for instance, of the old adage that red wine should never be drunk with fish, then points out that Scandinavians who rank among the world's greatest fish eaters, regularly do just that. Furthermore, he says, the Germans drink white wine with fish, fowl, red meat or just about anything else put on their plate.

In short, Sichel says, you should experiment until you find just what wine you personally like with what food, tradition or no. But, he adds, there are some helpful guidelines. Simple fare requires simple wines, like California Burgundy, for instance. And hot weather calls for lighter wines than you drink in the winter.

In the culinary field, Sichel derides the idea of cheap "cooking wines." All the alcohol evaporates in the cooking process, he notes, and all that remains are the taste components of the wine. If the wine is inferior it will do the food more harm than good. This does not mean, of course, that you should cook with great wines. Use the one you plan to drink with dinner.

Here is a recipe for fish stew with white wine that is a favorite of Sichel.

6 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons flour
6 cups dry white wine
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 crushed bayleaf
¼ teaspoon marjoram
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons minced parsley
Sauteed french bread slices

Cut fish in serving-size pieces. Heat oil in casserole, stir in flour till brown. Add wine, stirring steadily to boiling point. Mix in garlic and the other seasonings. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Add fish and cook 20 more minutes. Arrange bread slices on top around edge of casserole. Serves 6-8. Serve with chilled dry white wine.

Questions about food

This column is a service from Cooperative Extension Nutritionists at Lincoln University and the University of Missouri. Questions from readers about food and diet are welcomed. Letters should be addressed to: Dr. James W. Nordstrom, Nutrition Extension, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.

Q. Why is it that jars of canned meat for baby food do not have nutrition information on the labels like the jars for fruits, vegetables and desserts? What are they hiding?

A. Nutrition information is not required unless the food has nutrients added or unless special claims are made for the nutritional value of the food. Nonetheless, it would seem to be desirable to provide this kind of information for canned baby food regardless of whether or not the food is a standard product like meat. For example, consumers might be interested in knowing the level of fat present in canned meat, since this can vary considerably. Perhaps it would be a good idea to write directly to the company that manufactures the baby food if you feel strongly about this matter.

Q. I am curious about the different amounts of vitamin A that two different baby food companies indicate to be contained in strained carrots. The jars are the same size (4½ ounces) but one label indicates that 120 per cent of the recommended daily allowance is present while the other states that nearly ten times this amount, 1030 per cent, is contained.

A. Both jars have about the same amount of vitamin A value, but the two companies are using different methods for estimating the actual amount present in terms of value to infants. Carrots and other vegetables do not contain vitamin A as such but instead have a provitamin which can be converted to it. For carrots the provitamin is carotene, the substance that gives the deep orange color. The carotene is converted to vitamin A in the gut, but we don't know for sure how well the conversion occurs. In addition, foods vary in how well they are digested and absorbed.

Apparently one company has decided to be very conservative in expressing vitamin A value while the other firm used standard methods for its calculations. Nonetheless, the acaual amount of vitamin A value in the two jars is probably about the same.

Q. Is there a danger of vitamin A toxicity from giving strained carrots to infants?

A. Toxicity from excessive vitamin A is not likely from eating vegetables. However, a steady diet of carrots may cause a yellowing of the skin (called carotenemia) which is not harmful otherwise. The yellow color will disappear when carotene-rich food are decreased in the diet.

A danger does exist from ingestion of high levels of preformed vitamin A. Thus, the over-use of vitamin pills or liquid concentrates could lead to toxicity symptoms (swellings on joints, dry and itching skin). The National Research Council warns against the taking of supplements that provides gross excesses of vitamin A above the recommended daily alllowance. When large amounts are considered necessary, a physician should supervise.

Q. What is gelatine made from? Does it have any food value?

Q. Gelatine is a product manufactured from certain connective tissues of animals. The organic matter of bone and the collagen from the inner layer of skin can be hydrolized to form gelatine. If properly made, plain geltatine powder should be almost completely odorless and tasteless. Gelatine sold as human food must be made in accordance with pure food laws and therefore should be clean and entirely safe.

Gelatine is an incomplete protein and has little food value by itself. A cup of dessert made by adding water to gelatine dessert powder contains less than 4 grams of protein, has about 140 calorie of energy and is approximately 84 per cent water by weight. Very little in the way of vitamins and minerals are present. However, gelatine desserts can be made into fairly nutritious food by adding fruit or vegetables that are rich in vitamins and minerals.

Common Sense Essential In Choosing Wine

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When choosing a wine as a drink, as an accompaniment to a meal or as a cooking ingredient, you should have some background in the complex field known as oenology, or the science of wines. Lacking that, as most of us do, you should get a good book on the subject.

Peter Sichel, a leading wine spokesman in America and an international wine dealer, has come out with an understandable book on wines, treating the subject with a sure but light-handed approach. Sichel, the fourth generation of his family to cultivate the grape, teamed up with a young writer and wine buff named Judy Ley in writing the informative and readable work, "Which Wine?" (Harper & Row).

The book ranges over the field, from making your own wine to the tricky business of purchasing wine.

The chapter that interested me most was devoted to choosing wines to go with certain foods and what wines should be used for cooking. Sichel shows a common sense here that is refreshing.

He reminds you, for instance, of the old adage that red wine should never be drunk with fish, then points out that Scandinavians who rank among the world's greatest fish eaters, regularly do just that. Furthermore, he says, the Germans drink white wine with fish, fowl, red meat or just about anything else put on their plate.

In short, Sichel says, you should experiment until you find just what wine you personally like with what food, tradition or no. But, he adds, there are some helpful guidelines. Simple fare requires simple wines, like California Burgundy, for instance. And hot weather calls for lighter wines than you drink in the winter.

In the culinary field, Sichel derides the idea of cheap "cooking wines." All the alcohol evaporates in the cooking process, he notes, and all that remains are the taste components of the wine. If the wine is inferior it will do the food more harm than good. This does not mean, of course, that you should cook with great wines. Use the one you plan to drink with dinner.

Here is a recipe for fish stew with white wine that is a favorite of Sichel.

3 pounds mixed fish (carp, perch, pike and, if desired, eel)
6 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons flour
6 cups dry white wine
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 crushed bayleaf
¼ teaspoon marjoram
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons minced parsley
Sauteed french bread slices

Cut fish in serving-size pieces. Heat oil in casserole, stir in flour till brown. Add wine, stirring steadily to boiling point. Mix in garlic and the other seasonings. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Add fish and cook 20 more minutes. Arrange bread slices on top around edge of casserole. Serves 6-8. Serve with chilled dry white wine.

Food service workshop is scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — School food services personnel throughout the service area of Southeast Missouri State University will be on the campus June 15-16 for a school lunch workshop.

The two-day institute in the University Center is jointly sponsored by the School Food Services Division of the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education and the Southeast Missouri State home economics department, according to Dr. Willard J. Morgan, director of school services at the university.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. June 15, and the workshop will continue until 4 p.m. It will also run from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on June 16.

First- day topics will include: "Baking the School Lunch Way," "Sanitation in the Kitchen" and "Increasing the Size of the Recipe." On the second day the topics will include "Work Simplification Ideas" and "Safety and First Aid."

Program participants from Southeast Missouri State will be Mrs. Grace Hoover, head of the home economics department, and Lorenz "Red" Williams, athletic trainer and instructor of physical education.

Other participants will include:

Gillard Blanton, director of food service for the Malden R-1 School District; Mrs. Geneva Bolton, assistant director of school food services, Department of Elementary and Secondary Education in Jefferson City; Marvin Campbell, Cape Girardeau County sanitarian; Mrs. Mary Jo Cutts, director of food services for the Dexter R-1 School District.

Mrs. Opal Tallent, director of food services for the Jackson R-2 School District; Dr. Charles Rorex, superintendent of the Charleston R-1 School District; Mrs. Mildred Smith, director of food services for Cape Girardeau School District; Mrs. Freda Stoffregen, director of food services for the Delta R-5 School District; and T. L. Wilkerson, director of food services for the Charleston R-1 School District.

SeMo U names new chairman

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Dr. Bert J. Kellerman, a member of the Southeast Missouri State University faculty since 1965, will chair the new department of marketing at the university, President Robert Leestamper announced.

Dr. Kellerman's appointment, which must be approved by the Board of Regnets, is effective July 1, whichis also the date for the implementation of overall academic reorganization at Southeast Missouri State.

The reorganization plan which abolishes the university's divisional structure, creates six colleges, a graduate school, and 12 new departments.

The department of marketing is one of five new departments in the new College of Business. Until now, all business courses at the university were under an omnibus department of business administration and business education.

Dr. Leestamper has named his choices for chairmen of 10 of the 12 new departments. Yet to be announced are the individuals who will head the department of business education and office administration and the department of law enforcement.

Dr. Kellerman, who grew up in Pinckneyville, Ill., earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. In 1970 he began a two-year leave of absence to attend the University of Missouri---Columbia. He earned his Ph.D. there in 1972 and returned to Southeast Missouri State. He is an associate professor.

Dr. Kellerman is a member of the American Marketing Association, the southern Marketing Association, the Missouri State Teachers Association, and Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity. He and his wife, Mary Ann, live at 6 South Fountain in Cape Girardeau.

Girl Scout day camp is scheduled in June

SCOTT CITY — Over 2,400 Girl Scouts in the Otahki Council and any non-scouts who are interested may attend one or more of the day camps to be held during the month of June, at nine locations.

All day camps will be following the Bicentennial theme. Many activities will demonstrate life in the early days, such as soap making, candle dipping, weaving and rope making. Younger Scouts will begin learning out-door skills and the older girls will progress to the advanced types of fire building, lashing and cooking. Most girls will have the opportunity to earn a badge during the week.

The fee for all camps will be $3.50 per Scout, per week. This fee covers the cost of most craft materials housekeeping supplies, first aid supplies and meals prepared at camp. New this year is an attractive day camp patch that is a available for 50-cents, to any girl who registers for day camp.

Illmo - Scott City day camp will be held at the George Albrecht Farm on Illmo Route One, June 14-18 from1:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. To register or for more information contact Mrs. Dorothy Dees, day camp director, at 264-4459.

Bloomfield announces girls state representatives

BLOOMFIELD — Representatives to Missouri Girls State from Bloomfield were announced at Bloomfield High School awards ceremony this week.

The representatives will attend, along with 600 Girls State Representatives from throughout the state, during mid-June on the campus of William Woods College in Fulton. The program, under the sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary, is a program of government in action. Mrs. Joe Welborn has served as chairman of this program since its formation.

Linda Branum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Branum, is a member of the band, Future Business Leaders of America, Beta Club, pep club, pep band, a majorette, and a member of the volleyball team. She is a member of Senior Girl Scout Troop 96.

Carilyn Kirby, daughter of Mrs. Myrl Kirby, is a member of FBLA, FHA, Beta Club, pep club, volleyball team, choir, and the explorers. She was named to Who's Who Among High School Students, and to the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

Thereasa Long, member of the student council, the Beta Club, FBLA, Pep Club, senior high band, choir, and is president of the explorer's club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Long.

Charlotte Rene Ward is a member of the FBLA, FHA, Beta Club, choir secretary, and was recipient of the World Cultures Award last year. She was named a member of the Distinguished American High School Students. Charlotte is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ward.

GM shows boost in new car sales

DETROIT (AP) — A record performance by General Motors Corp. during the middle 10 days of this month has boosted domestic new-car sales to the second highest level for a mid-May in industry history.

The nation's four automakers reported Tuesday that sales in the May 11-20 period were up 53 per cent from the depressed levels of a year ago, based on the daily selling rate. They fell just 5 per cent short of the mid-May record set in the boom year of 1973.

The companies reported retail sales of 310,869 cars in nine selling days, for a daily rate — the industry yardstick — of 34,541 cars. The daily rate for the same 1973 period was 36,201.

A year ago, the industry sold 180,423 cars in eight selling days, for a daily rate of 22,553 — a 14-year low for the period.

Chrysler Corp. reported a 65 per cent sales gain over a year ago, GM was up 63 per cent and Ford Motor Co. rose 40 per cent, while American Motors Corp. reported a 16 per cent decline.

GM said both its sales volume of 181,053 cars in the period and its daily rate of 20,117 were records for a mid-May. The previous period records of 155,103 and 19,338 were set in 1973.

Dear Editor,

I'm presently confined in an Ohio prison, and I have no one on the outside with whom to communicate.

Therefore, I would appreciate it very much if you'd print this letter in your paper, in hopes that someone will write me.

It get's lonely in here and this would greatly brighten my day behind bars. I'm 31, white and will answer all who write.

Thank you very much and I'm hoping to hear from some of your readers soon.

James Stevens No. 140-283

Dear Editor,

My name is David Butler and I am writing concerning the way some of us were misrepresented at graduation Monday nite. I would like for the people of our community to know that some of us didn't agree to a particular speech. I personally feel very grateful to our forefathers for the foundations that they have laid. I resent the statement that "many of us" have experienced sex. Some of us graduating have tried our hardest to maintain a Godly standard of living. Therefore we refuse to accept the words of one representing us. Also, when some brag about their sex lives I am all the more happy about my efforts to keep a moral life. One of my desires and ambitions of life is to keep our nation, states, and especially our city from becoming a Sodom and Gomorrah. So in closing I would like to say to our citizens, please don't be discouraged or disappointed in us as the Class of 1976 because of one graduates viewpoints. WE ARE STILL CONCERNED ABOUT OUR LIVES AND OUR COMMUNITY!

Thank You,
David Butler

Dear Editor,

I'm presently confined in an Ohio prison, and I have no one on the outside with whom to communicate.

Therefore, I would appreciate it very much if you'd print this letter in your paper, in hopes that someone will write me.

It get's lonely in here and this would greatly brighten my day behind bars. I'm 31, white and will answer all who write.

Thank you very much and I'm hoping to hear from some of your readers soon.

Dear Editor,

My name is David Butler and I am writing concerning the way some of us were misrepresented at graduation Monday nite. I would like for the people of our community to know that some of us didn't agree to a particular speech. I personally feel very grateful to our forefathers for the foundations that they have laid. I resent the statement that "many of us" have experienced sex. Some of us graduating have tried our hardest to maintain a Godly standard of living. Therefore we refuse to accept the words of one representing us. Also, when some brag about their sex lives I am all the more happy about my efforts to keep a moral life. One of my desires and ambitions of life is to keep our nation, states, and especially our city from becoming a Sodom and Gomorrah. So in closing I would like to say to our citizens, please don't be discouraged or disappointed in us as the Class of 1976 because of one graduates viewpoints. WE ARE STILL CONCERNED ABOUT OUR LIVES AND OUR COMMUNITY!

Thank You,
David Butler

How unfaithful most boys are. They pledge themselves to cowboyhood, life on the high seas, the limelight of pro sports, any of a hundred fondly embraced, exciting careers. Soon, reality and a succession of guidance counselors group and regroup them into whatever their aptitudes and employment outlooks demand.

But for every hundred thousand who betray their childhood vision, there must be at least one Bill Crooks. Crooks, with writer Jim Lawrence, produces the daily and Sunday comic feature Captain Easy.

"I'm an example of a man who has been fortunate enough to do the thing he enjoys most, at the place he enjoys doing it most, for all of his adult life," said Bill Crooks. "Ever since my childhood I've loved Captain Easy and thought it to be the perfect comic strip."

Captain Easy (or Wash Tubbs as it was originally called) was introduced in the 1920s by comic art pioneer Roy Crane. In 1939, Crane moved to Orlando, Florida, Crooks' home since the age of six, where Crane produced Wash Tubbs with his assistant, Les Turner.

"When Roy Crane moved here, I took it upon myself to go out, find him and meet him," Crooks reminisced. "I made no impression on him whatsoever, but I did get well acquainted with Les Turner. Les and I stayed in touch with one another until I was drafted into the army in 1941."

While the battles of World War II raged and Bill Crooks advanced from private to captain, a smaller skirmish stateside in 1943 saw Roy Crane leave Capt. Easy, Wash Tubbs and friends in the hands of Les Turner. (If you wonder where Roy Crane went, compare drawings of Buz Sawyer and Capt. Easy sometime.)

"After the war, Turner asked me to help him out as his assistant. This arrangement continued for some 25 years until I, in turn, took over the strip with Les' retirement."

Q: Had you done any professional cartooning before you became Les Turner's assistant?

Crooks: It took me about two years of cartooning as a teenager before I found out that people actually got paid for doing it. My first published cartoon, when I was 17, was an editorial cartoon that I submitted to The Miami Herald as part of a contest for amateur cartoonists.

When Turner bowed out of the adventure-humor strip in 1969, Jim Lawrence was hired as Crooks' writing partner.

Q: We know Bill has spent most of his life reading or creating Captain Easy strips, Jim. What's your background?

Lawrence: Although I'm a writer, I was interested in drawing even before I developed an interest in writing. I'm sure that my ambition to be a cartoonist had an effect on my becoming a cartoon strip writer.

During the late 1940s there were quite a few national radio shows being produced in Detroit. I had a notion I could do that, so I wrote a half-hour radio script and sent it in. It was a real thrill when I got a call from the producer of The Lone Ranger show and I began writing for radio. I wrote most of the time for Sgt. Preston, which at that time was called Challenge of the Yukon.

Jim Lawrence

Q: And then came the comics?

Lawrence: Then came boys' series books, including Tom Swift, Jr. books and some Hardy Boys books. Meanwhile, in 1965, I had been hired by the London Daily Express to write their James Bond comic strip.

I was hired to write for Captain Easy the same year I introduced a strip called Friday Foster which didn't survive too long. For a while I was doing four strips. In addition to Easy, James Bond and Friday Foster I did one strip for a short time called Secret Heart.

Q: Do you relate to the characters in your strip?

Crooks: Roy Crane used to say that he saw himself in the character of Wash Tubbs. About the only similarity I have to Captain Easy is that we were both captains in the army.

Lawrence: Captain Easy is a human hero — he takes his pratfalls now and then. One of the things that I've always liked about the strip is the way it combines action and humor. The fact that Easy is able to find time to be hilarious now and then makes him more real to me, and more interesting, than stereotyped tough-talking, tough-guy heroes.

Q: Adventure-continuity strips usually emphasize the illustration. Is art important to Capt. Easy?

Crooks: In a continuity strip it's very important to establish a mood. Characterization can be established as much by the way a character and setting are drawn as by the dialogue. So, as important as the story is to a continuity strip, I'd say the art is equally important. Of course, this has become increasingly difficult as strips have been reduced in size. I feel that this reduction of essential illustration is the reason for the supposed decline in popularity of continuity strips. This is much less so with a humor strip. The art is really secondary in most comical strips — the gags being all-important.

Q: All cartoonists work under deadlines. Do they help or hinder your work?

Crooks: It's funny, but I think I work better under pressure. Deadline work is, however, a very dangerous and risky business to get into. So, even though I seem to work better when I happen to be under deadline pressure, I normally try to avoid the situation. Deadline pressure can also become so great that you can't get anything done.

Basin land is being used for gardens

BLOOMFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Land set aside as a catch basin to protect the area from floods has been transformed from idle terrain into family gardens and tennis courts.

The gardening, one of the more recent uses the land has been put to, answered a need expressed by local residents and has blossomed into a sizeable project.

The community gardens, used by residents to grow vegetables for summer eating and fall canning, are set up in the 244-acre storage basin of a dry reservoir north of Hartford, constructed to collect water in the event of a flood and keep it from drowning the city.

The idea of blocking off land for gardens was born in 1974 and the Bloomfield Parks and Recreation Department latched onto it.

"A group came to us a couple of years back and asked us if there was a possibility of farming there because they didn't have the property at home," Steve Zito, the department's assistant director, said.

When the organic gardens were started in 1974, 50 plots measuring 20 feet by 20 feet each were assigned to residents on a first come, first served basis. The plots totaled about a half acre.

Last year the demand rose to 179 plots over 2.5 acres and this year 200 plots, 20 feet by 30 feet, will be used, Zito said.

He said the storage basin is also used for various recreational purposes. Tennis courts have been constructed and the area is used as a day nature camp during the summer.

A 22-acre lake is also on the property and that's used for fishing and for training beginning canoeists before they venture onto the area's rapid waters.

The 16 acres of Manhattan Island covered by the United Nations Headquarters is international territory, not under the jurisdiction of the United States.

Risco honors superintendent of schools

RISCO— A reception was held Sunday afternoon in the Risco R-2 School cafetorium in honor of A. L. Bates, who is retiring as Risco school superintendent after spending 24 years of his 37 years in the field of education there.

Robert Owens, newly-elected school board member, gave the invocation prior to the event.

In opening remarks to guests Van Gibbs, emcee, presented a brief "This is Your Life" story featuring Bates, who was born Dec. 11, 1912 on a small hill farm in Poynor in Ripley County.

[redacted]

Bates is married to the former Marjorie Poole, and they have two sons, James P. Bates of Sikeston and Elton Gene Bates of Risco.

Bates, who received his first education in a one-room school in Ripley County, moved to Butler County in 1925. Attending another rural school, he spent three years at Broseley. In 1935 Bates graduated from Fisk High School, later spending two years at a business college in Chillicothe.

In 1944, Bates received his B.S.E. degree from Arkansas State, Jonesboro, Ark. He did his first teaching in 1939 at Baskey School, a one-room school in Butler County, near Poplar Bluff. Bates spent seven years in the Broseley School District, where he served as elementary teacher, high school teacher, coach, principal, and superintendent.

Bates served one year at Fisk School and another year was spent as dean of Missouri Baptist College in Poplar Bluff. He received his Master's degree at George B. Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., in 1948.

Three years of Bates' experiences in education were spent as principal at Wardell. Upon leaving Wardell School, Bates came to Risco where he assumed responsibilities as superintendent in the fall of 1952, some 24 years ago.

Bates has been active in many fields, most of which are connected with some phase of education. He has been active in 4-H work since he was 11 years old, and has been interested in boy scouting his entire life, serving in various offices of the organization, including scoutmaster.

Civic and service affiliations include membership in the Lions Club, Rotary Club, and Kiwanis Club, for which he served as Lt. Governor for the Arkansas-Missouri Kiwanis District in 1961.

During his 24 years of service to the Risco School District, much progress has been made. Improvements include the completion of a new vocational agriculture building, building a new elementary building and completion of the junior-high wing of the existing high school building. Additions of a lobby and public restrooms were made at the front of the existing gymnasium and additional showers and restrooms were provided for students.

The R-2 School reorganization was accomplished Dec. 10, 1957 during Bates' sixth year as superintendent at Risco. This reorganization took in the Broadwater School and part of the Oak Island School District, increasing Risco's enrollment substantially.

In terms of finances, improvements to the school plant in the past 24 years are quite substantial. An estimated $250,000 was invested in the elementary school; $46,000 in the high school gymnasium; $38,000 in improvements to the gymnasium, and $26,000 for the vocational agriculture building, totalling some $360,000.

Bates commented that with the support and cooperation of parents of the community, Risco R-2 School should continue to operate successfully for many years to come.

Bates remarked that his many years in education have been particularly rewarding to him, not so much from the standpoint of the school plant improvements, but from the fact that he has had the opportunity of having shared in leading and directing these students into worthy citizenship in many, many cases.

He feels that on a comparative basis to large city schools, many students have exceeded expectations and attained high potential. Bates has purposely chosen to spend his educational background in rural areas and feels that no student should apologize for having a rural background.

Bates says that it has been very rewarding to have the opportunity to associate with the youth of this community.

A. L. Bates

His retirement will become effective July 1, after which he plans to retire to his farm at Fisk. There he hopes to engage in his favorite hobbies, hunting and fishing.

Roy Hon, special speaker on the program, commented on Bates' accomplishments and leadership from the standpoint of students, parents, teachers, and the administration.

During an informal period on the program, Roland Byrd, member of the board of education, presented Bates with a coonskin cap, a symbol of his favorite hobby. Doyle Hicks, newly elected school board member, presented Bates a coon dog, and Paul C. Crouthers, another board member, presented a hunting gun. Van Gibbs presented an appropriately engraved plaque to Bates and Gaston Brown, Kiwanis Club president, presented Bates a gun case in behalf of the Kiwanis Club.

Robert Shaw, who served this year as Risco R-2 high school principal, and who will be assuming the duties of superintendent upon Bates' retirement, made comments and gave some appropriate readings during the program.

At the close of the event Bates spoke briefly of his tenure as superintendent at Risco and expressed his appreciation to the faculty and the parents for their cooperation with him during his 24 years as superintendent at Risco Schools.

The benediction was given by Roy Yarbrough, newly elected school board member, and refreshments were served during the social period afterwards.

U.S. Forest Service to instruct enviroment workshop

CAPE GIRARDEAU— An official of the U.S. Forest Service in Milwaukee, Wis., will be the principal instructor at an environmental education workshop June 21-25 at Southeast Missouri State University.

Joining John Pager in instructing workshop participants will be Mary Davolt of the U.S. Forest Service in Rolla, Wayne Martin of the Missouri Department of Conservation in Jefferson City, Ed McCrae of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Puxico, and Al Palladino of the Missouri Department of Conservation in Hermann.

Paul Heye, associate professor of biology at Southeast Missouri State University, is in charge of campus arrangements.

Workshop participants may earn up to two hours of either graduate or undergraduate credit. Sessions are scheduled from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. June 21-23 and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 24-25.

Enrollment for the workshop will be limited to 60. The cost is $38.

According to Heye, the workshop will stress the process-problem solving approach to environmental education. "Educators of all levels and community leaders will be exposed to experiences that will help them to start meaningful environmental programs in their schools and communities," he said.

The workshop will include field investigations of both urban and rural environments as well as many other activities, according to Heye.

Commission suspends plan for increasing private line rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has suspended until Aug. 20 a planned increase in private, leased-line telephone rates.

The FCC ordered an investigation during that time of "the lawfulness" of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. rates, which were to go into effect Wednesday.

Major customers include the news wire services, which estimated the new rates would raise their line costs by 60 per cent.

The rates affect wires and microwave beams and are in addition to other rate increases granted the phone company.

Those who objected to the rates contended that some supporting material which AT&T had not yet submitted was so crucial that the rate increase should be blocked until the material could be examined.

Also, they said, some supporting material for the rate increase already submitted was erroneous, misleading and inadequate.

AT&T said the rate plan would result in rate increases for 15,314 customers, decreases for 4,134 customers and unchanged rates for 727 customers. The largest increases would be imposed on users of relatively short lines.

The rates, however, would not have immediately raised the cost to the news services and some of the other private line customers because of a court order in another related rate case.

Dear Editor,

I wont commend Peter Myer Jr that's being active in the Young Republican club in Sikeston Senior highschool. I wont commend Tim OHerin of being active in the Young Republican club in ... New-Mayrid County. There is alot of young people that is active in the Young Republicans and Democrats clubs all over the nation of America. Thank you teenagers that join these clubs. They say that America is gotten to Apathy minded. But the young Republican and Democratic clubs you have got to take your hat off too them. They have good ideas. They are a few but we ought too take our hats off to them. They are alot of people that don't care but should care to vote. You people that has been gipen about the state and national government where were you all in state Primary day and the big November election day in 1974. It's time we quit gripen register to vote and go to the polls like we ought to. August 3rd is primary election day and better not forget be cause we got from U.S. Senator five statewide offices and Congress. The county reaces are important too. You can vote in one or the two primaries you want to. Remember this is our bicentennial we must especially thank our forefathers for making this happen to us. If people were half as interested in elections as they are in Sports, Sex books and crime they would go someplace. If everybody that was eligible to vote would do so they wouldn't have a minority government in Washington and State capitals. It is time the registered voters stood up for their rights and voted. If it is going to be a busy day for you just get up early and try too vote, and you will be able to vote. There is some people that are less informed that you couldn't inform them with a ten foot pole.

Yours Sincerely
Alan Marc Whitaker

Another Book About Kennedy

THE LAST KENNEDY. By Robert Sherrill. Dial. 240 Pages. $8.95.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy isn't making a presidential bid this year but that hasn't discouraged a continuing literary fascination with his career, especially with the Chappaquiddick incident.

The latest in a recent spate of published material is "The Last Kennedy," by Robert Sherrill, who in 1974 wrote a magazine piece on Chappaquiddick that some political observers think may have been a pivotal factor in Kennedy's decision not to try for the White House.

Offered as more than just an expansion of that article, the book opens with a concise, archly written account of Kennedy's family background and entry into politics. But the author's particular interest in Chappaquiddick is evident in that nearly three fourths of the book deals directly and in detail with the events surrounding the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Without benefit of interviews with the Chappaquiddick party-goers, most of whom steadfastly refuse to discuss it, Sherrill relies mainly on previously published material and the transcript of the 1970 inquest. The result is that the book, while engrossing stuff for anyone interested in Kennedy or Chappaquiddick, contains no truly fresh information.

Risco honors superintendent of schools

RISCO— A reception was held Sunday afternoon in the Risco R-2 School cafetorium in honor of A. L. Bates, who is retiring as Risco school superintendent after spending 24 years of his 37 years in the field of education there.

Robert Owens, newly-elected school board member, gave the invocation prior to the event.

In opening remarks to guests Van Gibbs, emcee, presented a brief "This is Your Life" story featuring Bates, who was born Dec. 11, 1912 on a small hill farm in Poynor in Ripley County.

His father, William E. Bates, died when Bates [illegible] old. His [illegible] Mayberry Bates, is also dead. Bates is married to the former Marjorie Poole, and they have two sons, James P. Bates of Sikeston and Elton Gene Bates of Risco.

Bates, who received his first education in a one-room school in Ripley County, moved to Butler County in 1925. Attending another rural school, he spent three years at Broseley. In 1935 Bates graduated from Fisk High School, later spending two years at a business college in Chillicothe.

In 1944, Bates received his B.S.E. degree from Arkansas State, Jonesboro, Ark. He did his first teaching in 1939 at Baskey School, a one-room school in Butler County, near Poplar Bluff. Bates spent seven years in the Broseley School District, where he served as elementary teacher, high school teacher, coach, principal, and superintendent.

Bates served one year at Fisk School and another year was spent as dean of Missouri Baptist College in Poplar Bluff. He received his Master's degree at George B. Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., in 1948.

Three years of Bates' experiences in education were spent as principal at Wardell. Upon leaving Wardell School, Bates came to Risco where he assumed responsibilities as superintendent in the fall of 1952, some 24 years ago.

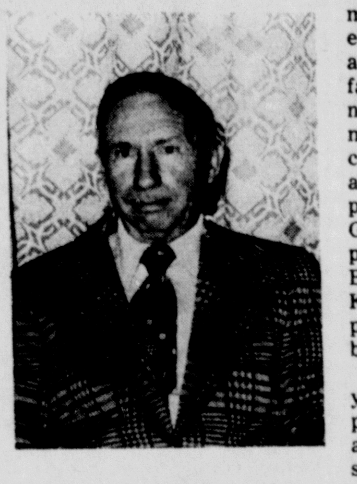
Bates has been active in many fields, most of which are connected with some phase of education. He has been active in 4-H work since he was 11 years old, and has been interested in boy scouting his entire life, serving in various offices of the organization, including scoutmaster.

Civic and service affiliations include membership in the Lions Club, Rotary Club, and Kiwanis Club, for which he served as Lt. Governor for the Arkansas-Missouri Kiwanis District in 1961.

During his 24 years of service to the Risco School District, much progress has been made. Improvements include the completion of a new vocational agriculture building, building a new elementary building and completion of the junior-high wing of the existing high school building. Additions of a lobby and public restrooms were made at the front of the existing gymnasium and additional showers and restrooms were provided for students.

The R-2 School reorganization was accomplished Dec. 10, 1957 during Bates' sixth year as superintendent at Risco. This reorganization took in the Broadwater School and part of the Oak Island School District, increasing Risco's enrollment substantially.

In terms of finances, improvements to the school plant in the past 24 years are quite substantial. An estimated $250,000 was invested in the elementary school; $46,000 in the high school gymnasium; $38,000 in improvements to the gymnasium, and $26,000 for the vocational agriculture building, totalling some $360,000.



A. L. Bates

Bates commented that with the support and cooperation of parents of the community, Risco R-2 School should continue to operate successfully for many years to come.

Bates remarked that his many years in education have been particularly rewarding to him, not so much from the standpoint of the school plant improvements, but from the fact that he has had the opportunity of having shared in leading and directing these students into worthy citizenship in many, many cases.

He feels that on a comparative basis to large city schools, many students have exceeded expectations and attained high potential. Bates has purposely chosen to spend his educational background in rural areas and feels that no student should apologize for having a rural background.

Bates says that it has been very rewarding to have the opportunity to associate with the youth of this community.

His retirement will become effective July 1, after which he plans to retire to his farm at Fisk. There he hopes to engage in his favorite hobbies, hunting and fishing.

Roy Hon, special speaker on the program, commented on Bates' accomplishments and leadership from the standpoint of students, parents, teachers, and the administration.

During an informal period on the program, Roland Byrd, member of the board of education, presented Bates with a coonskin cap, a symbol of his favorite hobby. Doyle Hicks, newly elected school board member, presented Bates a coon dog, and Paul C. Crouthers, another board member, presented a hunting gun. Van Gibbs presented an appropriately engraved plaque to Bates and Gaston Brown, Kiwanis Club president, presented Bates a gun case in behalf of the Kiwanis Club.

Robert Shaw, who served this year as Risco R-2 high school principal, and who will be assuming the duties of superintendent upon Bates' retirement, made comments and gave some appropriate readings during the program.

At the close of the event Bates spoke briefly of his tenure as superintendent at Risco and expressed his appreciation to the faculty and the parents for their cooperation with him during his 24 years as superintendent at Risco Schools.

The benediction was given by Roy Yarbrough, newly elected school board member, and refreshments were served during the social period afterwards.

U.S. Forest Service to instruct enviroment workshop

CAPE GIRARDEAU— An official of the U.S. Forest Service in Milwaukee, Wis., will be the principal instructor at an environmental education workshop June 21-25 at Southeast Missouri State University.

Joining John Pager in instructing workshop participants will be Mary Davolt of the U.S. Forest Service in Rolla, Wayne Martin of the Missouri Department of Conservation in Jefferson City, Ed McCrae of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Puxico, and Al Palladino of the Missouri Department of Conservation in Hermann.

Paul Heye, associate professor of biology at Southeast Missouri State University, is in charge of campus arrangements.

Workshop participants may earn up to two hours of either graduate or undergraduate credit. Sessions are scheduled from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. June 21-23 and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 24-25.

Enrollment for the workshop will be limited to 60. The cost is $38.

According to Heye, the workshop will stress the process-problem solving approach to environmental education. "Educators of all levels and community leaders will be exposed to experiences that will help them to start meaningful environmental programs in their schools and communities," he said.

The workshop will include field investigations of both urban and rural environments as well as many other activities, according to Heye.

Additional info nation may be obtained by contacting Heye at Southeast Missoi State.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Cape Girardeau, Mo.– A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model, put in on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this non-working model will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Beltone Hearing Aid Center

Prince Valiant
by Hal Foster
Our Story: BRANDED AS A COWARD AND TRAITOR, DIONSEUS, WHO ONCE ASPIRED TO BE KING OF THE MISTY ISLES, HAS REACHED THE DEPTHS. HE CALLS FOR HIS WIFE, HELENE.
"WRITE TO YOUR SISTER AND DEMAND A SUM OF MONEY BEFITTING YOUR RANK. TOO LONG HAS SHE TREATED US LIKE BEGGARS!
"WHAT? YOU REFUSE YOUR HUSBAND'S ORDERS? YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL, A KING'S DAUGHTER AND WOULD COMMAND A GOOD PRICE IN THE SLAVE MARKET OF ATHENS!"
QUEEN ALETA RECEIVES A MESSENGER FROM SAMOS BRINGING THE DEMANDS OF DIONSEUS, AND A THREAT OF WHAT MIGHT BE THE FATE OF HER SISTER, HELENE, IF THEY ARE NOT MET.
"WE CANNOT TAKE AN ARMED FORCE TO RESCUE HELENE, FOR THAT WOULD MEAN WAR WITH SAMOS," REASONS VAL. "I WILL TAKE A FEW PICKED COMPANIONS AND SEE IF WE CAN PERSUADE DIONSEUS TO BE A GOOD BOY."
VAL GATHERS TOGETHER A HARDY CREW AND SETS SAIL FOR SAMOS AND ANOTHER CONFRONTATION WITH HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW.
FROM A TERRACE OF HIS VILLA, DIONSEUS SEES THE WARSHIPS OF AJAXOS THE PIRATE ENTER THE LITTLE COVE. THERE WILL BE DRINKING AND GAMBLING TONIGHT, AND PERCHANCE HIS LUCK WILL TURN.

OH, NO
WOULD YOU PLEASE TAKE THESE THINGS TO THE LAUNDROMAT FOR ME?
SURE, DEAR
HI, I'M EUNICE··· DID YOU BUY THAT DETERGENT HERE?
ISN'T IT ANY GOOD ?
I BRING MY OWN DETERGENT, ZIPPO··· IT MAKES MY WHITES WHITER AND MY REDS REDDER
I'LL BET IT EVEN MAKES YOUR BLUES BLUER
YOU KNOW··· THAT'S REALLY TRUE!

Prince Valiant IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER
Our Story: BRANDED AS A COWARD AND TRAITOR, DIONSEUS, WHO ONCE ASPIRED TO BE KING OF THE MISTY ISLES, HAS REACHED THE DEPTHS. HE CALLS FOR HIS WIFE, HELENE.
"WRITE TO YOUR SISTER AND DEMAND A SUM OF MONEY BEFITTING YOUR RANK. TOO LONG HAS SHE TREATED US LIKE BEGGARS!
"WHAT? YOU REFUSE YOUR HUSBAND'S ORDERS? YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL, A KING'S DAUGHTER AND WOULD COMMAND A GOOD PRICE IN THE SLAVE MARKET OF ATHENS!"
QUEEN ALETA RECEIVES A MESSENGER FROM SAMOS BRINGING THE DEMANDS OF DIONSEUS, AND A THREAT OF WHAT MIGHT BE THE FATE OF HER SISTER, HELENE, IF THEY ARE NOT MET.
"WE CANNOT TAKE AN ARMED FORCE TO RESCUE HELENE, FOR THAT WOULD MEAN WAR WITH SAMOS," REASONS VAL. "I WILL TAKE A FEW PICKED COMPANIONS AND SEE IF WE CAN PERSUADE DIONSEUS TO BE A GOOD BOY."
VAL GATHERS TOGETHER A HARDY CREW AND SETS SAIL FOR SAMOS AND ANOTHER CONFRONTATION WITH HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW.
FROM A TERRACE OF HIS VILLA, DIONSEUS SEES THE WARSHIPS OF AJAXOS THE PIRATE ENTER THE LITTLE COVE. THERE WILL BE DRINKING AND GAMBLING TONIGHT, AND PERCHANCE HIS LUCK WILL TURN.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Here is an idea I know all fathers-to-be will like. Usually all the showers and parties are for the mother-to-be, but before our baby was born, my husband's friends also had a celebration for him. All of his men friends got together and gave him a "macho" shower.

He got some very practical things, and some that weren't, but caused a roar of laughter, anyway. The practical things were a bag of dimes and an address book. Some books and magazines for late-night reading, and some gum and candy for the waiting room.

Some of the not-so-practical, but well-accepted, things included some earplugs, rubber gloves, an apron and an extra alarm clock with "2 -A.M. feeding" written on it in red.

He said it was really a lot of fun, and he finally felt included in all the fuss. After all, he was just as important as I was in this thing.

Billie C.

+ + +

Billie, you are absolutely right. It does seem that the men are being left out of the "events" leading up to.

I think it might even be a welcome idea to have a "macho" shower for the groom-to-be. What man wouldn't enjoy receiving handyman gifts. Or to start off married life with a batch of new socks, underclothes or even a terry cloth robe.

I think we could really start something here. Come on, men, why shouldn't you get in on some of the fun!

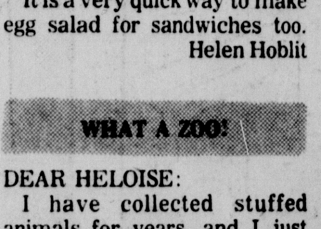
Heloise

THE EGG HEADS

DEAR HELOISE:
When you live alone it is easy to neglect to use enough vegetables. So I frequently make a chef salad.

But I hate to fix hard-boiled eggs, which I consider a very necessary ingredient.

One day I decided to use my egg poacher, so now my salads are embellished with hard-"boiled" eggs and no one but me knows that they are instead "hard-poached" eggs.



It is a very quick way to make egg salad for sandwiches too.

Helen Hoblit

WHAT A ZOO!

DEAR HELOISE:
I have collected stuffed animals for years, and I just didn't know what to do with them. So I got a fishnet and hung it from the ceiling to form a basket. I just put all of them in there and they don't even cause a mess!

Age 12

NO SLIP-UPS NOW!

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a few slips which are marked "cling-free," but still cling when I wear them, causing my dresses and skirts to ride up.

I now turn them inside out when I wear them and this solves the problem.

Mrs. Wm. Schulz

"S" IS FOR SATIN

DEAR HELOISE:
I am 14 and one of my favorite hobbies is embroidery. But I always have trouble remembering the different stitches to make and how to make them.

So one day I came up with an idea. I checked out a book on needlework from the library. When I arrived home I took notebook paper, traced the stitches and wrote beside each one the steps in making it. I made a cover and labeled it, then stapled it together.

Now when I forget how to do certain stitches, I just open my "dictionary," look up the stitch and get to work.

Carrolyn Klemp

LI'L PUZZLER

DEAR HELOISE:
My 3-year-old son loves jigsaw puzzles but can't put one together yet.

I bought him the easiest one to assemble, the wooden kind with a board and corresponding pieces, but he still couldn't master them.

I took some crayons and colored the pieces with the corresponding pattern the same color. Now all he does is match the colors and there goes the piece in its proper place.

You can't imagine his happiness when he sees that he can do it without my help — and at the same time he is learning about colors.

LET'S TRADE JOBS

DEAR HELOISE:
We always think the other guy's chores are easier, so in my family we trade.

My two 3-year-olds collect the dirty dishes from around the house, empty ashtrays, reline garbage cans, etc.

They like helping with these chores and I hate them. In return, I help them pick up their toys, a job they hate.

My husband and I enjoy a change of pace when he vacuums the living room or does the laundry while I mow the lawn, rake the leaves or wash the car.

In addition to breaking the monotony of our normal routine, my husband has learned enough to take over if I am ever ill and vice versa.

We intend to teach our son to wash, iron and cook and our daughter to saw, sand and hammer. These are all too often ignored in the training process.

K. W.

IT'S SUPER GREAT

DEAR HELOISE:
Cheese is an important food at my house. On returning from the grocery store, it is grated, divided up, and put into two plastic bags.

One bag goes into the refrigerator and the other one goes into the freezer.

It is so easy to just take what you want from the plastic bag.

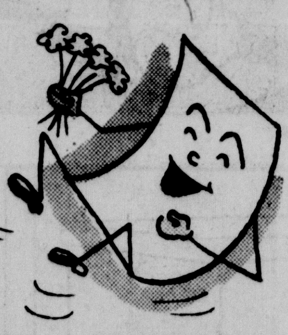
When the cheese is finished, the bag from the freezer replaces it.

This sure saves me time.

Phyllis C.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:
After six years of marriage, I realized that my husband had never sent me flowers — so I called the florist and had a nice arrangement sent to HIM with this note:



"Honey, I know you'd want me to have these beautiful flowers once you saw them. Thanks!"

I enjoy having a thoughtful husband such as mine.

I think I'll keep him that way — with a little help.

BULLETIN BOARD

MONEY TALKS! The magician hands a nickel and a dime to a spectator. He directs his victim to multiply the value of the coin in his or her right hand by six, the value of the coin in his or her left hand by seven; total amounts, and state the sum.

Now then, if the stated amount is even, the 5-cent piece is in the right hand and the dime in the left. If the amount is odd, the dime's in the right and nickel left.

Secret: The magician always multiplies the right-hand coin by an even amount and the left-hand coin by an odd amount. Try it.

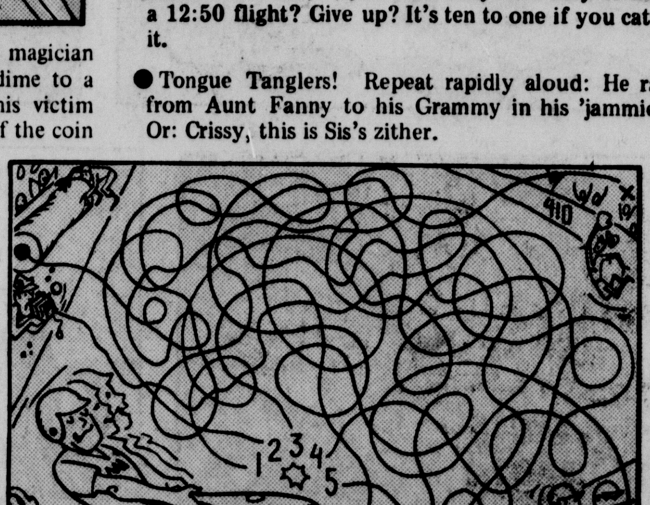
GOOD AS GOLD! Tip: To remember the seven colors of the rainbow simply memorize the name ROY G. BIV. For what colors do the seven letters stand? Hint: R, red; O, orange, etc.

Red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet.

- Short Subjects: The word "tip" is cited as an abbreviation of the phrase "to insure promptness." To what do we attribute the word "fad"?

The phrase, "for a day."

- Riddle-me-this, if you can: Why is it easy to miss a 12:50 flight? Give up? It's ten to one if you catch it.
- Tongue Tanglers! Repeat rapidly aloud: He ran from Aunt Fanny to his Grammy in his 'jammies. Or: Crissy, this is Sis's zither.



PLAY BALL! Four foul balls and a home run are registered by the batter above. Which belt scores a home run?
